The Kent News has just received word from the family of Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough that he is still in a rest hospital near Philadelphia and that his doctors say he will recover, but that it will take sometime.

Dirt roads are the cause of much discussion these days. Winter weather has brought with it an unusual large downpour of rain until the roads are pretty well saturated with water. In the early morning when the ground is frozen, the roads are passable but rough. This condition not only is hard on a driver's patience but it helps put "Lizzie" on the blink as well.

The Citizens' Hose Company of Smyrna is taking an active stand and is sponsoring a bill which will be presented at the coming session of the Delaware Legislature providing for a five per cent tax on every one hundred dollars of real estate assessment in that State, the income to be paid to the fire companies of the State. The letter sets forth that under such an act it would not be necessary for the fire companies to conduct carnivals each year to raise funds for maintaining their apparatus. It is understood that similar letters have been sent to all fire companies in the State. While the down State fire companies are expected to get in back of the measure and urge its passage, there are some up State Fire Companies who will oppose the bill, notably Elsmere and New Castle. Elsmere is making preparations to house a new pumping apparatus in the spring.

FAKE "AD" EXPOSED BY CHICAGO PAPER

Some weeks ago, the News contained an advertisement from the "Acme Orange Farms," in Texas.

One or more of the paper's readers took advantage of the offer to secure oranges at moderate rate, and sent in orders by mail.

The letters containing these orders were returned marked, "Refused," and that without ever having the seals broken. A very remarkable proceeding and one which the editor of the News was unable to explain.

A million-dollar mail-order swindle was brought to light at Atlanta when three men, D. W. Nichols, W. H. Gaines and James G. Grimes, operating as Acme Orange Farms, Gainesville, Fla., and LaGrange, Texas; Fulghum Hatchery, Birdsboro, Pa., and other cities, and the Busy Bee Apiary of Roslyn, N. Y., and other places were arrested at their headquarters in a downtown hotel.

Checks amounting to $4,749.48 were found in Nichols' possession. This sum was said to be only part of one day's receipts.

Their scheme was to advertise poultry for sale in publications thruout the country at unusually low prices, also new white clover honey in comb at $1.75 per 10 pounds, and oranges at $3 a box, all express charges prepaid.

Checks were to be sent in advance, and were forwarded to Atlanta where they were cashed. In most shipments were never made, it is alleged.

Judge John D. Humphries issued an injunction restraining local bankers from honoring checks of the trio thus protecting $12,000 deposited to their credit there. 8,000 letters were received addressed to the firms on one day.

In the latest issue of the "Publishers' Auxiliary," a periodical whose aim, as its name implies, is to protect the interests of newspapers, appeared the following:

It is the desire of the management of this paper to see that no advertisement goes into its columns except that of a bona fide business. It is regretted extremely that any other kind succeeded in slipping in.

The News was not the only sheet, however, that was victimized. The acceptance of the "ad" was widespread, and, on the Eastern Shore, was seen in many of the weekly editions.

Experience is a good teacher, tho' and the Acme Orange Farms Company, has presented many papers

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

Governor Ritchie told the General Assembly at the opening of its session that he considered the two outstanding tasks of the session the provision for financing the State's business for the next two years by appropriation bills and the revitalizing of the seafood industry of the Chesapeake Bay.

If the appropriations are held down to the amounts to be recommended by him in his budget, the Governor said, the State tax rate for 1927 and 1928 will be 25 cents, a reduction of about 2½ cents from the present rate.

The Governor recommended an increase of 1½ cents a gallon in the tax on gasoline for lateral roads and 1 cent for the elimination of grade crossings. He urged that this Legislature be one of fewer laws and laws carefully considered.

Viewing these recommendations as a whole, the Governor appears to have sought, with substantial success the economy that lies in wise and judicious treatment of public needs, rather than a cheeseparing economy. Consequently, the total of appropriations increases, but is kept in such check that the whole of the normal increase in taxes is not absorbed, and payers of direct taxes on property are given another reduction. On the whole, Mr. Ritchie has held a wise balance between reckless spending and demagogic economy at the expense of legitimate needs.
