Farther than ever beyond the reach of imitation

$825 SEDAN or COUPE

Every one knows that when announced a year ago, the Pontiac Six was an extraordinary automotive development.

The General Motors Research Staff pioneered Pontiac Six basic design. The great General Motors Proving Ground provided an unparalleled opportunity to perfect that design without regard to time or cost. And General Motors combined purchasing power assured minimum costs on quality materials.

Obviously, the Pontiac Six was then beyond duplication. Obviously, it is today still farther beyond the reach of imitation—

—because the Pontiac Six now carries this important additional attraction to buyers:

In a period of more than a year, it has served tens of thousands of owners in performance, reliability and economical operation, to a degree of satisfaction far beyond their fondest expectations!

Pontiac Six, $825 to $975. Oakland Six, companion to Pontiac Six, $1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Bodies by Fisher. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

TALK TO EUROPE NOW FROM KENT

The latest scientific achievement in the transmission of speech that is of particular interest to everyone in Chestertown and vicinity is the opening of transatlantic telephone service to Great Britain. Commercial transatlantic telephone service is now available from 4,500,000 telephones in the eastern section of the United States including the 190,000 stations serving the State of Maryland, according to a statement just made by George H. Warren, division manager, of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

To place a telephone call from Chestertown to anyone of the 1,500,000 telephones in Great Britain, is no more trouble than asking the long distance operator to get some particular person in Pittsburgh, Chicago Atlanta or any other point in the United States, Canada or Cuba.

Not the least important factor in this far-reaching service is that no special equipment is necessary, nor does the person making the call have to go to a particular place to talk. Telephone calls to England may be made from the telephone in one's home or office—the same instrument used to carry on the business and social life of Chestertown and that the people here use 3000 times daily. Trans-atlantic telephone service is just another step toward world universal service.

The continued marvels of the telephone art which have made a neighborhood of Maryland and other states of the union is now bringing the world closer together and all who will, may now converse with their British cousins across the sea.

The rates from Maryland points are $75.00 for three minutes or less and $25.00 for each additional minute. Conversations are limited to 12 minutes. The service is on a person-to-person basis. In case it is impossible for the operator on the distant side of the Atlantic to locate the person wanted, a report charge of $10.00 will be made.

To place a call for Great Britain it will only be necessary for the subscriber to ask for "long distance" and give the operator when she answers the name of the person wanted in England, the place where he or she can most probably be reached.

It should be borne in mind that trans-atlantic service is open only from 8.30 a. m. to 1 p. m., eastern standard time, which is from 1.30 p m. to 6 p. m. Great Britain time.

Telephone service across the Atlantic was inaugurated January 7th, when President W. S. Gifford, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company talked from New York to Sir G. Evelyn P. Murray, secretary of the General Post Office Department of Great Britain at London under whose supervision the British telephone system is operated. The service has since been extended to the State of New York, the New England States, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Bridging the Atlantic Ocean with the spoken word has long been the dream of scientists. But it remained for engineers and experts of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company working in conjunction with the British Post Office Department to materialize this dream, and the service is now open to everyone in the prescribed area.
