A Mother story that brings a tear! A love story that grips the heart!

Don't miss it.

Hark! Rejoicing chimes are ringing,
Earth no longer is forlorn;
Happy hearts once more are singing
With the joy of Easter morn.

In the chancel bloom the flow'rs,
Lilies fragrant, fair and white,
After all the cheerless hours
Of our penitential night.

Chant the singers of Christ's glory,
Kneel the worshipers to pray,
And again we hear the story
Of his Resurrection day.

Oh! the joys of Easter morning
When with Christ we leave earth's sod,
When the early spring is dawning
And we worship near to God!

First Glorious Easter Day

Angels speeding through the night,
Joseph's garden filled with light;
Soldiers watching swooned with fright,
When Jesus rose again.

When the garden silent lay,
With the soldiers fled away,
In the dawn of Easter day
The holy women came.

At the tomb an angel spoke;
Hope and joy in them awoke;
To the Master's friends they broke
The greatest news of earth.

Mary, longing to remain,
Where three days her Lord had lain,
Heard Him speak to her again,
And saw Him face to face.

Two He taught along the road,
Though their hearts within them glowed,
Did not know Him till He showed
Himself in breaking bread.

Faith the ten apostles knew
When He said, "Peace be to you!
As God sent Me, send I you,
With news to lift mankind."

Therefore, in our thankfulness
Praise to Him we now address:
Praying Gospel truth may bless
All people ev'ry day.

—Malcolm Sanders Johnston, in the Living Church.

ACTUAL WORK TO START IN SUMMER

The first step toward the construction of the eight-mile bridge across the bay from Kent to Baltimore county was begun last Friday.

A dredge employed by the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Company, the builders of the planned structure, began to make soundings over the route to be taken by the bridge. They are determing the depth that it will be necessary to go down to find solid bottom for the foundation of the bridge.

Agents of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey are on the boat as well as representatives of the bridge company.

Actual construction of the bridge will be begun, it is said, in the early summer, and it is planned to have the work well advanced by fall.

Thomas W. Perkins, president of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce said today, that the rumors to the effect that the surveyors were having difficulty finding solid bottom, was probably false. He stated that a member of the bridge company said that the sounding had been in their possession for nine months and that this present work was merely to verify the government figure.

FIREMEN'S SHOW MAY 9, 10 & 11

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company's third annual benefit show "The Merry Whirl," is to be presented at the Lyceum Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, May 9, 10 and 11.

This year's show, "The Merry Whirl," is to be a big spectacular revue more elaborate than the firemen's two previous shows, "Hip Hip Hooray" and "Melody Land," both of which were big successes, with a cast of over 125 of Chestertown's best selected talent and another class entertainment is assured.

The Wheeler Producing Company well known here, having staged the fire boys two previous benefits, are again to have charge, and the show is to be elaborately costumed and staged, a feature of all Wheeler productions. Rehearsals are to commence on Thursday, April 21.

CHAMBER COMMERCE HOLDS ITS BANQUET

Declaring that every effort should be made by residents of the Eastern Shore to make this section attractive to young people in order to keep the youth of the nine counties in the country, rather than encourage them to seek work in the crowded cities. Josiah Marvel, of Wilmington, Del., addressed the first semi-annual dinner and meeting Monday night of the newly organized Kent County Chamber of Commerce at the Voshell Hotel. He urged the local commerce body to make full use of the opportunity afforded by the advancing economic conditions of the Eastern Shore, and to work hard and continually for the betterment of this county. He recalled that Chestertown was originally known as "Newtown," and that Mason and Dixon famous engineers, met here to discuss the boundry line between Maryland and Delaware, 100 years before the line was at last established. The east and west Mason and Dixon lines extended 244 miles to the Ohio River in 1767.

Ex-Senator Clarence W. Perkins, of Baltimore, was then introduced as the representative of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Company. Mr. Perkins read a letter of regret from Stuart S. Janney who had hoped to be present with Mr. Bonsal for the dinner but who had to accompany the latter on a trip to New York on matters of vital importance to the bridge project. Mr. Perkins then read a paper on the proposed construction of the bridge, its location and terms that held the interest of his audience very closely. The bridge is to be constructed on concrete piers, resting on concrete piles, with steel spans connecting these piers of about 250 feet in length to each span. There will be two draws, electrically operated, one in the channel on the Kent county side and one more to the west. The main draw in the channel will be at least 200 feet in width. The roadway of the bridge will be of concrete 20 feet wide with emergency points 27 feet wide. The clearance under the bridge at high tide will be 12 to 14 feet, so small craft can pass at any point.

The directors of the Corporation are: William G. Baker, Banker; W. Roscoe Bonsall, President of W. R. Bonsal Company, and Vice President of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company; S. Bonsall Brooks; Marion T. Hargis, Stuart S. Janney, Joseph J. Nelligan, A. H. S. Post, John K. Shaw and S. Davies Warfield, all of whom indicate the strength of the people behind the enterprise.

The last speaker of the evening was Major Frank B. Hines, of Chestertown, Commander of the Kent County Medical Detachment of the Maryland National Guard who gave a brief review of the seven years this unit has been in existence and then made a forceful appeal to the members of the Chamber to aid in the support of the work in keeping it up to its full strength urging enlistment and interesting the young men of the county who receive worthwhile training and also earn something. The men go to camp each year for two weeks and are benefitted on all sides for civil life. Chestertown is one of twenty towns in the State to have such a unit which is a strong advertising medium for a town through the numerous visitors to camp and through those who are in camp in the same capacity as our men. Major Hines said there is a chance of Chestertown having an Armory before long such as has been provided in other towns of Maryland and which have become important community centers for organizations.

Mrs. Isaac Dixon, of Roland Park, Baltimore and Kent County, is at present the first and only woman member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Roy Schmidt and Mrs. David B. Ford furnished the music for the occasion, Mr. Schmidt singing a number of well chosen songs. President Thomas W. Perkins presided.

SALES OF PROPERTY

H. Theodore Jewell, agent, has sold to Roland Miller, of Linwood, Pa., the 165 acre farm at Millington owned by the Misses Welch, of Chestertown, for $3,000.

Also the George Rouse property in Chestertown opposite the Cooling Station to Mrs. Mary S. Hodgson for $5,000. This property is occpuied by Richard Leaverton and family.

Samuel B. Collins, of near Middletown, has purchased the Rose Mary Farm, 235 acres, about 5 miles from Middletown from Miss Anne H. Flintham, of Baltimore.

The Woodall Residence Near Galena Burned

The residence on W. Holt Woodall farm, tenanted by Geo. W. Plummer, near Galena, was burned Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Plummer was ironing when the men in the field noticed the roof ablaze. The whole upper story was on fire when the men arrived and only the contents on first floor was saved. The loss will be about $5,000 partly covered by insurance.

THE HARRIS PEAR ORCHARDS

By Nell C. Westcott

The pear orchards of Mrs. Evelyn Harris with their 33,000 trees are in full bloom and make a most gorgeous spectacle of that section of the Chesapeake Bay shore of Kent county. Mrs. Harris has farmed seven hundred acres alone since the death of her husband, Arthur Harris, which occurred three years ago. The orchards which occupy about 275 acres increase materially in production each year having just begun to bear when Mrs. Harris took over the work singlehanded. Last year Mrs. Harris shipped 27 cars of Kieffer pears within three weeks, the last seven cars of a thirty-five car contract proved unsalable because lack of labor prevented their being picked green. Seven cars of Bartlet pears were also shipped in the same length of time.

Concern for the orchard was felt during the recent cold snap but the orchards, being along the shore and at an elevation of about 80 feet, escaped injury. Mrs. Harris has had a corps of laborers spraying for some weeks and the second round of spraying is nearly completed. Mrs. Harris who has made an extensive study of farming methods and horticulture superintends each step of the work as it passes from cultivating, pruning, fertilizing and spraying to the shipping of the crop. She has written many articles for various publications on farming and farm life and is also a gifted musician.

Owners Of Cars To Pay Taxes On The Car, Before Getting Licenses

The passage by the State Senate of a bill to compel payment of taxes on automobiles before issuance of licenses, certificates or markers, will add to the burdens of the Treasurer's office of Kent county. The bill requires that separate set of books be kept by the county Treasurer for recording taxes on automobiles. The bill intends to make clear the law contemplated compulsory payment of automobile taxes only as a perrequisite of the issuance of certificates and markers.

It will have a tendency to greatly increase the work of the Treasurer, as by this automobile taxes will be paid at the last moment just before approving for a new license or marker at the end of each year. There are over 2600 automobiles in Kent county andthe taxes on these will largely be paid, according to experience in Baltimore city, within a few days before the beginning of the new year.

A separate set of books makes it possible for a taxpayer on property other than cars to pay the car tax and still defer payment on his other taxable property.
