HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

The Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass., will gladly furnish other women with these names upon request.

Auto Operators Advised to Start on Low Speed

When starting down a very steep grade it is advisable to place the gears in low speed. The rear wheels will then turn the engine, a movement requiring considerable effort. This produces a very good braking effect. A light car on a moderately steep hill will stop, and a heavy car will move slowly, but always under control. This is called "using the engine as a brake."

It should be practiced from time to time, so that the driver may become familiar with the method. If all the other brakes fail, this is the best and only thing to do. Practice the trick frequently, so that it becomes as easy as any other operation, and you will have cause to be thankful if ever the need arises to use it.

Reading Makes Full Man

Both for the duties of life and for the recreation of the mind it is necessary to know and to think, and you cannot know and think without reading. Without reading there cannot be any adequate or complete intellectual life. It is reading which opens avenues for the recreation of our intellectual life.—Prof. R. S. Rait.

Such a Life!

Natives Employ Craft in Capturing "Hippo"

Since the days of P. T. Barnum, when the first hippopotamus seen in this country was billed as the "blood-sweating behemoth of Holy Writ," these animals have been popular with circus crowsd.

The hippo got its nickname from the fact that the pores of the skin open when they have been out of the water for a time and the pink under-skin shows through, while drops of water falling from it appear to come out of the hide and look blood-red against the pink background.

The capturing of one of these animals is one of the most interesting stories of jungle lore. The hippo spends its days immersed in a pond, sticking its snout up occasionally for air. The hunters wait until the hippo has gone in for a bath and then dig a pit ten feet deep in the runway it uses, since the hippo always follows the same trail, writes John T. Benson in Popular Mechanics Magazine. The bottom of the pit is covered with branches to break its fall and the top roofed over with light sticks, leaves and dirt, to restore its natural appearance. Natives then beat on pans and frighten the animal out of the water. It dashes up the runway and falls into the pit.

A cage, without a bottom, built of hardwoods and tough vines, is placed over the opening and lashed down to the nearby trees. The men shovel dirt back into the hole and the hippo tramps it down until it lifts itself right into the cage. A bottom is made for the cage and slid under it, securely fastened, and the animal is ready to start its journey to circusdom.

Ample Reward

A very unpopular Hollywood actor had a narrow escape from death while on location recently, but was saved by one of the company's property men..

For once, the chap was appreciative of service and told the man he wanted to do something to show his gratitude.

"Props" thought it over for a moment and then said: "I don't want to offend you, but the greatest favor you can do me is not to let the rest of the troupe know that I saved your life."

Compass Not Understood

Although the story is generally believed, the compass did not fail Columbus on his first journey. The actions of the compass were not clearly understood at that time. In all seas known at that time the needle pointed not quite north, but a little west of north, and it was known that by going west the compass needle would point more nearly to the north. No one had heard of a place where it pointed exactly north or even somewhat east of north.

Education and Success

The only statement as to the effect of education upon success that we find is the rather vague one that the child with no schooling has 1 chance in 150,000 of performing distinguished service; with elementary education he has four times the chance; with high school education he has 87 times the chance; with college education he has 800 times the chance.—Washington Star.
