Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MOVING OF WOLVES

Deep, deep in the woods and far from any house there lived a family of wolves.

They had moved there in the very early spring and they were enjoying themselves immensely.

For the farmer at the nearest place where there were human beings and animals had a great many sheep.

The leader of the wolves was called Prince Gray Wolf.

He was very big and strong and handsome, and all the wolves admired him above all the others in the pack.

"We will go hunting tonight," said Prince Gray Wolf. "Yes, we will all go, for we all call ourselves one family, and we must hunt together."

"We will follow, if you will show the way," said little Miss Gray Wolf.

She was very fond of hunting, too, and she knew they would have good luck if they followed the Prince.

So off they went that night.

It was a long way to the farmhouse, but at last they saw a small light shining from the window.

"Back of the house and that light," said Prince Gray Wolf, "are the sheep.

"Such good sheep as they are!

"My, but we will have a feast!"

The next morning when the farmer, and Dash, the dog, went out to see the sheep, many of them were missing.

Some had been killed and left on the ground. The other sheep were wailing "Ba-a-a," but the farmer said:

"My poor sheep! Tonight I will see that you are safe. We'll see to it, won't we, Dash?"

Dash wagged his tail and barked, and the sheep looked a little happier.

That very night the farmer stayed

The Farmer Aimed His Gun.

in the barn near the sheep's pasture.

It was too hot for the sheep to be indoors—and besides that wouldn't have helped.

He wanted to teach the wolves a lesson and show them that they must move farther away from his home.

Dash was the first to hear them coming and he gave a long, low growl.

Then the farmer aimed his gun and the bullet went straight into Prince Gray Wolf's paw.

Oh, how he yelled with pain!

And back they all went to the deep woods, Prince Gray Wolf limping behind.

The wolves nursed Prince Gray Wolf until he became well again.

But they moved to another home, for even the Prince could not kill sheep when there was a man on the watch near by with a gun, and a dog who gave an early warning when they were coming!

For Dash was so brave now and so eager to help. He was wonderful in every way, and everyone loved him, the farmer, the farmer's wife, the farmer's children, the animals, and the sheep—yes, especially the sheep.

A Dark Chapter

A boy had been absent from school for some time and on his return the history teacher asked, "When were you here last, Johnnie?"

"When we murdered Edward II, sir," came the reply.—London Daily News.

How It Struck Her

Older Sister—No, you can't stay. Mother says it is absolutely necessary for you to come home.

Peggy—Oh, dear! I sometimes think that mother is the inventor of necessity, instead of necessity being the mother of invention.

Cause of Baldness

"Mamma, why has papa so little hair?"

"Because he does so much thinking."

"But why have you so much?"

"Now, my dear—it is time to go to bed."

A Radio Fan

Teacher—The captain was singing during the battle. What do you suppose he was singing, William?

Little Willie—"Show Me the Way to Go Home."—Good Hardware.

Polite

Teacher—What do you know of the microbe family?

Little Girl—Please, miss, mamma has forbidden us to gossip about other people's family affairs.

Misdirected Endearments

He—I always kiss the stamps on your letters, because I know that your lips have touched them.

She—Oh, dear! and to think that I dampen them on Fido's nose.

The Gullible Male

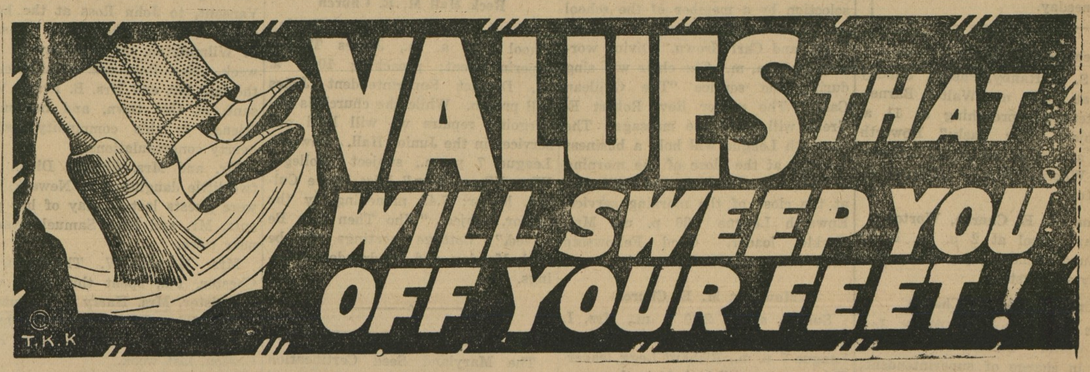

Always give women credit for this: When a fakir gets busy on a street corner it is the men who furnish him an audience and money.—Atchison Globe.

Both Are Desirable

Greater usefulness and not a long life should be man's aim, a New York health expert insists; nevertheless, the impulse in some men is to strive for both.
