LAWMAKERS GREETED ROYALLY BY KENT CO.

The members of the Maryland Legislature, about 125 strong, are having a great time this week on the Eastern Shore. Kent county did its share in entertaining the visitors.

Senator S. Scott Beck took charge of the party when it reached Kent and with the help of able assistants gave them a royal time while in Kent.

They stopped at Washington College and then went to the beautiful home of Mrs. Hope H. Barroll, "Byford," near Chestertown, where Mrs. Barroll, her sons Wethered and John, Dr. John L. Wethered, Senator Beck and Delegates Arthur H. Brice and E. C. Bowers, the public officials of Kent, Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, and a bevy of charming ladies made them all feel at home. About one thousand chicken and ham sandwiches, and gallons of fruit punch were served.

LARGE ACERAGE OF WHEAT BEING CUT

Kent county enters upon the wheat harvest time for the year 1927 today. From all indications the crop for 1927 will be a big crop.

Vast acres of wheat are grown in Kent county every year since the days of Revolutionary war. The wheat crop continues to be the leading crop. Almost every farm can boast of many acres planted and every farmer is looking forward only a few weeks when the thresher has finished its work and bags of this "money crop" have been carried to the mill.

The beautiful picture of only one week ago,—the wind blowing over a field of ripening wheat, causing waves and ripples, not to be surpassed in grandeur by even the waves of the Chester or Sassafras rivers,—has now become a scene of golden sheaves stacked in uniform heaps throughout the fields of Kent county affording the lover of nature a picture no artist has yet done justice to in colors, picturing to the tiller of the soil a reward for his work and to the average wayfarer the vision of wheat ground into flour and baked into the staff of life.

Local buyers are offering $1.30 for wheat to be delivered in July. As high as $1.30 was offered last week and the market may improve. Wheat harvest in Kent will be general next week.

TOLCHESTER BEACH FIFTY YEARS OLD

J. FRANK WHEATLEY

Surely the location of this spot for a summer resort challenged the finest mind of man and we are not at all surprised that it became a reality, and, after a service of more than 50 years is still in full bloom, and the really popular place for comfort and recreation. Go to Tolchester Beach so beautifully situated in the banks of the grand old Chesapeake whose wide expanse invites every possible admiration.

At a banquet of a recent notable event the speaker for the occasion told his audience that after Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden they made diligent search for a similar place in which to live, and the very best they found was right here in good old Kent county.

The Colonel may have been a little bit extravagant, yet, when one is comfortably seated on this bluff for even a short period one realizes its incomparable charms — natives very own.

A whole-souled Irishman of Media, Pa., once said within the hearing of the writer—"this is a pretty place and the Almighy must have designed it for just the use the Tolchester Co. is making of it." Continuing, said, this is my first visit but I am coming back to it.

Adding therto the many man-made improvements there is scarcely an equal to its advantages and pleasing attractions to one who wishes a vacation for a day, a week or a month.

It is truly interesting as well as restful to enjoy the tread of the ten acres sward of green beneath the giant shade trees, together with its graveled walks leading to every section of the grounds.

The diversions are many and enjoyable so that one need not be lonely but rather entertained. The steamers Express, Annapolis and Emma Giles discharge the passengers at frequent intervals every day. John, Mary and hundreds of others have delightful times on the moonlights.

Looking up or down the bathing shore one sees only a grand succession of nature's wonders all which seemingly extend the invitation to tread its sands or plunge into the blue waves where bathing is now famous.

Next to deciding where to go for recreation one needs to be rightly informed as to locality and the natural recruiting facilities together with the social features and adult in the landscape designs of the Master Architect that man may observe and appropriate for his happiness, His wisdom and goodness.

A few years ago Dr. Buttles, an eminent M. D., of New York City, spent several weeks here hoping to recover from ill health. During his stoy he and his long time friend the late Dr. A. P. Sharp, of Baltimore, made a chemical analysis of the ozone on these banks, and each of them was delighted with the results, as they had never known a better condition anywhere. Dr. Buttle's praises for Tolchester are still ringing his testimonial for benefits received.

Nature's wonders abound and so marvelous is the atmospheric conditions, the Tolchester Estates Company, Inc., never ceased their efforts until they had safely secured the entire bay front for at least a mile to the north of here and are busily engaged with surveys, selling and offering lots for building purposes.

Hotel Tolchester is on the swing and Manager John J. Federer will endeavor to meet the wholesale requirements of his guests.

The resort is fifty years old, but under its present management has seemingly put on youthful clothes and manners and is surely abreast of the times.
