Infants Fond of Music

Some infants may show a preference for different kinds of music even before they are a year old, in the opinion of a mother who has found that the time to teach children appreciation of good music is when they are very young, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Instead of singing her babies to sleep, she plays to them and has discovered that pieces of different rhythm and tempo seem to have different effects. One child apparently preferred music of rapid movement, while another evidenced a liking for slower melodies. Five or ten minutes of soft playing usually sufficed to lull the children to sleep and often their crying could be stopped by playing for them.

Too Much to Expect

Angrily the policeman on point duty stopped the little car that had tried to sneak past his outstretched arm.

"Can't you see me?" he demanded of the driver.

"I—er—must confess I did," returned the motorist meekly.

"Then why didn't you stop?" asked the policeman, becoming more angry than ever.

"Well, I lost my head," explained the wrongdoer sadly. "I had just spent half an hour in getting this thing to start, and I thought it was a pity to stop her so soon."

"Since I had the Flu--"

How often do we hear that expression explaining another ailment which has developed as an after-effect of grip or influenza?

In influenza, when physical resistance is close to normal, is seldom very serious in itselt, but is characterized very often by a break-down of tissue and cell, which shows up later as deafness, stomach or heart trouble, or some one of a hundred possible complications, IF—

The treatment used to combat the 'flu' is of a type that is aimed to alleviate the effects rather than to remove the cause. Only under Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments is the cause removed, and Chiropractic patients alone report no after-effects.

HE SUFFERED FOR FIVE YEARS AFTER

"In 1919 I was taken down with influenza, which left me a weak heart and a bad nervous condition, so that I was unable to do any kind of work. In 1923 I had another attack of "Flu" and my condition was such that the attending physician told my wife that I could not live. My wife decided that I try Chiropractic, and in October, 1924, we came to Dr. Tobin. After the first few adjustments I started to feel better, and after taking twelve adjustments I felt like a new person. It's now 3 years since I took the treatments from Dr. Tobin and I am glad to say that I am feeling fine and have done more work than ever before. I can not praise too highly Dr. Tobin for what he has done for me and my family."
