CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS HERE AND THERE

R. H. Rogers last week purchased a sailing scow at St. Michaels.

After serving almost two years of a five year sentence in the Maryland penitentiary for fraudulently obtaining money while acting as representative for an insurance company, Adlai S. Bryan, of Grasonville, this month faces his first opportunity to obtain either a pardon from Governor Ritchie or a reduction in his term. Announcement is made that Wednesday, January 25, had been set for a hearing for parole before State Parole Commissioner Edward M. Parrish, Baltimore. Many citizens and business men will urge executive clemency for Bryan.

One of Little Rock's citizenry, an ardent prohibitionist, has poured into the ears of the police a tale of woe that is a tale of woe, to wit:

Every morning for a week some sinister individual removed the customary pint of milk from his door stoop and in its place left one pint of what the police aver is "alleged" liquor.

But here did not end the tale—since the story got out, the victim has had thirteen offers to sell his home and more than fifty offers to rent. This has caused him "undue embarrassment," the victim, whose name was withheld by the police, declared.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Kent and Queen Anne's National Farm Loan Association, the following directors were elected: William G. Smyth, H. Stockton Startt, James W. Brown, Charles C. Meredith, and Daniel W. Ingersoll. The following officers were elected: President, Wm. G. Smyth; vice-president James W. Brown; secretary-treasurer, T. D. Bowers; attorney, Herbert E. Perkins; local appraisal committee, H. Stockton Startt, Daniel W. Ingersoll, and Charles C. Meredith. The association has a membership of 43 stockholders, representing a capitalization of $20,000.

The Chestertown High School basket-ball team is marching right along toward the championship. They defeated the strong Rock Hall team and followed this with a victory over Easton last Friday night by score of 28 to 13. They played in Elkton last night.

H. Stockton Startt has bought of Henry K. Miller the Thomas farm, near Chestertown, containing 140 acres. Price $6,000.

A Warwick product worthy of mention is a Poland China hog raised by Fred Smith and butchered last week. It weighed, when dressed, 627 pounds.

SPORTFOLIO

BY WILL U.

We have not the slightest doubt in the world as to the realization in Baltimore that the Flying Pentagon is more than a myth. With the defeat of Loyola last Saturday night by a score of 41-24 Washington College established itself as a strong contender for state championship honors. There was no question as to who won the game but, we want to say that that Washington College did not, by far, exhibit its best brand of basket ball in defeating the Jesuits. Giraitis, who is usuelly high scorer, was unable to even make reasonably easy inside shots and his passing was far below his usual standard. However as luck would have it Carrington had his first good night this season and his scoring offset the inability of Giraitis. Dutch Dumschott has said that he certainly does feel sorry for the team that meets the Pentagon boys when they are "all on;" and our feelings are along the same line.

Coach Tom Kibler in speaking of the game, said, "They're only a bunch of youngsters but, they will give any team a hard battle—and you keep your eye on them."

We have heard a slight undercurrent of talk about organizing a Chestertown Firemen's basket ball team. This is a good idea and will, if achieved, do more than a hundred oyster scalds to keep up interest in the Fire Company. We earnestly endorse it and have a brilliant idea about a Firemen's basket ball league for Del-Mar-Va. A physical department for the company could organize teams of sports and at the same time provide physical recreation and development for the Fire-Eaters. We are launching this in the form of a motion! Was there a second?

Miss Adeline Lambert performed far below her usual standard in the recent National Competition at Bermuda. Adelaide finished second in the 100-yard back stroke, which is the style that she has shown her proficiency. During the past year, in meets held thruout the country, Adelaide established six worlds' records in varying backstroke distances, and a world record in the 300-yard medley swim. She was also recognized by the New York Athletic Club as the best all-around swimmer for the year.

"Gump" Matthews, who hails from Worton, has expressed his intention of entering the Olympic try-cuts to be held in Philadelphia in April. Personally we think that Gump, with his present methods of training, will not go far in these try-outs. However we admit he has the ability, and with the correct training and right spirit he will have a good chance of making good.

Fred (Dutch) Dumschott, in answering a comment of Paul Menton upon discontinuing the dribble brought out, more clearly than we have ever before seen it, the importance of the dribble.

We agree with Dutch that the rules committee are a bunch of "book basket ball" men who feel themselves delegated at every meeting to make some absurd changes in the playing rules, for the "betterment of the technique and the further development of the science and interest of the game;" so their attempt, at the past meeting, to abolish the dribble, caused such a wave of criticism among the coaches of the country that the rule was annulled. Basket ball is gaining popularity every year and we hope that in their future meetings the rules committee will not halter the game by needless technicalities that will kill its popularity.

We can hardly wait for spring to roll around and usher in the Chestertown Golf and Country Club as an actuality, and not mere idealistic dreams.

This organization, which will embody not only golf enthusiasts but tennis, yachting, dancing, and bridge as well, will be of great value to this community and with the proper support, that it deserves, it will be a success.

A CORRECTION

The article in this paper last week stating that Emmanuel Guild had gone over the top by $1.00 in its effort to raise $164.00 for the Easton Home for Children was an error in the fact that the plan was not sponsored by the Guild of Emmanuel Church, but was raised by members of that and other organizations; also by membtrs of St. Pauls, Massey, I. U. and Millington, all of whom took a keen interest in carring out the plan. As the Home as been enlarged and there are many more to care for various ways and means are being devised for its maintenance.
