Do Husbands Really Trust Their Wives?

HERBERT: (to Betty, his wife) I'm sorry, but you'll have to stop going to Guido Petti's studio. His affairs with women are the talk of the town.

Betty: That's silly. No matter what Guido's relations with other women may be, he is a perfect gentleman — with me. I shall continue my studies with him.

* * * *

Weeks pass. Guido Petti and Betty are in the studio alone.

Guido: (drawing her to him) So beautiful you are. Soon we shall go abroad—just you and I.

Betty: But—my husband—

Guido: Bah! What does he know of your desires? So young you are—so lovely—

Suddenly he clasps her in his arms—kissing her with a fierce passion she is powerless to resist. Unheard by either, the door opens — someone starts to enter—then retreats, closing the door softly.

* * * *

Two hours later Herbert bitterly accuses his wife.

Betty: Stop, Herbert! You don't know what you are saying. I swear to you—

Herbert: (flinging her aside) I'm through with you. I should have killed you as you lay in your lover's arms. Take what you want and get out.

What happens to Betty after she is driven from home by her husband completes one of the most pathetic dramas ever enacted in real life. Don't miss "First in a Woman's Heart," in May True Story Magazine.
