W. C. DEFEATS ST. JOHN'S TEAM

Purcell Pitches Fine Ball As Shoremen Win—4 to 1.

Kibler's Colts again took the measure of Riggs' Johnnies when they defeated the latter in baseball on the local diamond on Friday. Except for a poor start in the first inning, when he walked in a run, Purcell pitched airtight ball thruout the game. Backed by splendid fielding, and timed hits in the eighth frame, he well deserved his victory.

Dean, leading off in the first inning, sunk a three bagger into deep right field and started the fireworks.

Roseberry, of St. Johns, pitched a very creditable game and with the exception of errors by his teammates at crucial moments the game was very good and closely contested.

QUEER VARIETY OF BIRDS AND BEASTS

A catbird that partakes of breakfast each morning side by side with a friendly house cat, a flock of crows that wheel out of the sky and alight for a meal handed out by humane farmers, and a fox that swims the Chester river are some of the zoological curiosities abounding on Kent and Queen Anne's County farms bordering the stream that divides the two counties.

The bird first made its appearance last week on the farm of Mrs. Sarah Skipper. The land was once the rendezvous of the Sulking Indians and the point at which the farm dips toward the river, now known as Primrose Point, was once, in the early days, called Skulking Point. It lies across the river from Chestertown and Mrs. Claude Parks, Mrs. Skipper's daughter, is authority for the story of the catbird.

Mrs. Parks, a lover of animal life and an enthusiastic supporter of Eastern Shore Audubon societies, the other day found the bird on the river shore and scattered food within its reach. Since then the bird comes each morning at the same time Mrs. Parks calls her cat. The bird answers with the call of a kitten and hovers over the plate of food, but will not eat until the house cat appears on the scene, answering the call in like manner. Both then breakfast side by side.

The performance has continued for over a week and the bird and cat are still chummy over their bread and milk.

The same day that a flock of wild crows alighted on the shore and eagerly ate bread from the hands of women on the farms, a fox in the same district was chased by marauding dogs over the river to the Kent side. Half the distance was negotiated on thick ice, but when the fox turned to find the dogs hot in pursuit, without hesitation he plunged into the water where the ice floe ended and swam the remainder of the distance to the Kent county side, disappearing in the underbrush.

MILLINGTON HIGH GIRL WILL REPRESENT KENT

In the annual contest among representatives of the county high schools to determine Kent county's representative in the annual Eastern Shore interscholastic declamation contest to be held in William Smith Hall Friday evening, Miss Eva Adkinson, of the Millington High School, won the honor before a large audience in the assembly hall of the high school here

There were two other contestants Miss Esther Grant, of Rock Hall, and Miss Isabelle Crow, of Chestertown.

The finals were held last Friday night and the result known too late for this issue of the News.

28 PERSONS SUED BY JAS. B. DUNN

Former Owner Of Kent County Stock Farm Sues Twenty-Eight — Value Put At $750,000—James B. Dunn Starts Action In United States Court Here.

James B. Dunn, formerly owner of a large stock farm for the raising and training of race horses in Kent county, Saturday filed suit in the United States District Court against twenty-eight individuals and corporations, in an effort to recover his property, which, he charges, was taken from him by underhand means

The suit was docketed by George L. Pendleton, Negro lawyer.

The list of defendants includes S. Scott Beck, Acting State's Attorney for Kent county; J. Thomas Hadaway, former sheriff of Kent county, and his surety, the National Surety Company of New York; Mrs. Mackey Perry Beck, and Bessie P. Kibler, sureties for Mr. Beck; Representative T. Alan Gildsborough, Denton; Harrison W. Vickers, Chestertown.

W. Mason Sheehan, Easton; Chas W. Wallace, Baltimore; Herbert E Perkins, Chestertown; William F. Russell, Jr., Chestertown; Robert V. Moffett, Chestertown magistrate; Milton L. Cann, New York; George W. Baldwin, Chestertown; Henry H. Dineen, Baltimore; T. Hughlett Henry, Easton; Wm. H. Sanner and wife, of Baltimore.

The Caroline County Bank, Denton; Peoples Bank, Chestertown; Wright Dill, Chestertown; Harry B. Alexander, Baltimore; the Federal Land Bank, Baltimore branch; Robert Shallcross, Clerk if Court, Kent county; Charles B. Lloyd, clerk of Court, Easton; S. Hackett Turner, Clerk of Court, Centreville, and John Hartnett, Elkton, court stenographer.

Mr. Dunn, in his bill of complaint, alleged that there was a conspiracy to deprive him of 420 acres of land and live stock valued at $750,000.

Embodied in the complaint is a recital of martial troubles and divorce from his second wife, Minnie E. Dunn, daughter of Harry B. Alexander. The lawyers mentioned were his attorneys or acted for interests which sued him and obtained judgement. The clerks of court, the bill charges, also were parties to the conspiracy, and Magistrate Moffett, he alleges, accepted jurisdiction and rendered judgment in a theft case which should have gone to a higher court.

Because of the dismissal of the charges the complaintant was sued and two $5,000 judgments were recorded against him and later executed.

The Federal Land Bank, the complaint charges, foreclosed on a mortgage of $10,000 on the property when there was no legal default.

The name of Mr. Beck appears in various deals by which the complainant alleges he was defrauded of his property. In one instance he is accused of buying some of the assets at a forced public sale one and a half hours before the advertised time of the sale.

The complaintant asks that the foreclosure of the Federal Land Bank and the various judgments against him be set to make returns on property sold to satisfy judgments, and "that the defendants, and each of them, be required to account for any money had and received from the complaintant concerning any proceedings herein mentioned."

Discussing the suit, Mr. Dunn explained that his troubles began in 1920 after the death of his first wife when he was forced to leave his property in the hands of caretakers while he went about on his racing business. He married the second Mrs. Dunn, he said, in 1924.

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company are enthusiastic over the plan suggested by the Kent Mutual Insurance Company, viz., to ask for a tax of 2 per cent on all insurance premiums doing business in the State. This revenue would be a great help to the various volunteer fire companies in the State.

Senator S. Scott Beck and Thos F. Healey, Esq., were named a committee to frame a bill to be presented for action at the State Firemen's Convention to be held next month in Elkton.

FISH NETS SEIZED IN COUNTY RIVER

Seeking to protect the spawing areas in Baltimore county waters, approximately 100 nets have been confiscated by the Conservation Department within a few weeks, Swepson Earle, State Conservation Commissioner, reported Friday.

Last week, Mr. Earle said, twenty-eight nets were taken in Bird river, a tributary of the Gunpowder. The use of nets is prohibited in the county waters by laws passed by the last Legislature creating a closed season in order to give protection to the fish spawn.

"Through the closed season for fishing in the Baltimore county waters, the fish are given such protection that will result in greatly increased numbers later in the season," Mr. Earle explained. "The closed season is from March 1 to June 15."

He added that the use of nets in Bird, Middle and Back rivers, and Dundee, Saltpeter and Seneca creeks and tributaries was forbidden under the terms of the acts.

Mr. Earle said that reports reaching him showed a heavy run of shad in the waters of the Chesapeake Bay last week. Many of the fish were in the upper waters of the bay as far as Chester river.

They were caught in such quantities by the fishermen in the lower bay that the price for roe shad dropped from 35 to 18 cents in the Chrisfield market, Mr. Earle said.

WORK BEGUN AT "PRIMROSE" FARM

Work was begun last Friday on the development at Primrose Farm, across the Chester river from Chestertown. The proposed settlement at this point has been much talked of lately but the starting of work last Friday was the first definite step made.

Surveyors and engineers will be at work at the Primrose farm for at least a month. They will lay out the golf course, baseball grounds, tennis courts and the road that is to lead along the high bluff overlooking the river.

A central clubhouse and several cottages will be erected near the edge of the bluff.

Interests from Philadelphia, Washington and Brookline, Mass., are said to be backing the project.

The surveys being made at the present time are under the supervision of Frank D. Sturtevant and A. B. Watts, of Philadelphia.

Of the many proposed developments in Kent this is the third to begin actual work on a golf course. The Chester River Yacht and Country Club course has been finished and plans are made for the opening of the course at the Royal Swan Club near Betterton.
