KENT'S HONORED DAUGHTER

The News announced last week the naming of a lady from Kent as a prize winner. Mrs. L. A. Sutton, of near Chestertown, is one of the first women in Maryland to receive the title of Master Farm Homemaker. The honor was accorded to only three of the women attending the Rural Women's Short Course at the University of Maryland and gold pins were given at the exercises held at the university on Friday last. Others to receive the title were Mrs. Chester R. Hobbs, of Mt. Airy and Mrs. Annette W. Smith, of Westminster.

The title was conferred by representatives of the Farmer's Wife, a national magazine, in cooperation with the home demonstration department of the university. To receive such an honor the name of some outstanding farm wife and mother must be presetned to representatives of the magazine by five of her neighbors The Farm Wife magazine then sends her a detailed questionnaire containing over five hundred questions covering the many different phases of her farm life.

On the basis of this information the judges together with the State Leader of Home Demonstration work in the extension service—Miss Venia M. Kellar, of Maryland—Choose those whom they think worthy of the honor

It was pointed out that the recognition is not only an unique honor to the three women, through them for all farm women of Maryland, and beyond them to the rural homemakers whose contributions to their families to their communities, and to society has won a tardy recognition.

Mrs. Sutton's many friends are congratulating her on this added recognition of her many kindness' to others and her ever willingness to help out at any time and in any way possible.

THE DEMOCRATIC HOSTS MEET IN TEXAS AMID ENTHUSIASM

One of The Greatest Assemblages In The History of The Country—A Vitriolic Arraignment of The Republican Administration By The Temporary Chairman—The Farmers of The United States Applaud With Great Enthusiasm.

A Democratic National Convention is always expected to furnish plenty of thrills and the 1928 assemblage is no exception. It has been full of surprises of various kinds while the people of the Texas city have done. Everything to make their stay pleasant.

The keynote speech of the temporary chairman, Claude Bowers, of New York, will go down into history as a second Bryan utterance. Limited space prevents its publication but speaking of the millions out of employment, Mr. Bowers asks, "And what does the ruling caste say to this? It calls it "temporary depression." And what does it propose? It proposes that the farmers shall become better business men.

Now, when it suits the pleasure of the privileged to legislate money into its coffers, it is applauded by the claquers as patriotic statemanship; but when the farmer demands his share in the unhappy game of parternalism they denounce him as a radical and a crank.

One month ago the President bitterly denounced with contemptuous phrasing the revolving fund of a farm relief bill; and the next day he heartily approved the revolving fund for the favored shipping interest."

"And then, with millions of producers on the verge of bankruptcy and despair, they contemptuously kicked their case from court and adjourned the Congress with a cheer. Thus for eight long years they have stood in the midst of the wreckage of the farms and have done nothing—nothing to decrease the cost of transporting the farmers' produce to the marts; nothing to rehabilitate his lost markets across the sea; but they have added a billion a year to the cost of the things the farmer has to buy.

Now we do not ask paternalistic privilege for the farmer, but we do demand that the hand of privilege shall be taken out of the farmer's pockets and off the farmer's throat. We propose to tear down the system of privilege and put the farmer on an absolute equality with every other industry—that is Jeffersonian democracy. We do not propose that the most basic of all our industries shall longer be a doormat for all the others to wipe their feet upon as they enter the Temple of Privilege."

SMITH IS NOMINATED

Gov. Alfred Emmanuel Smith, four times Governor of New York, was nominated by the Democratic National Convention as the party's candidate for President at Houston, Texas, Thursday night on the first ballot.

Before balloting for the Presidential nominee the convention adopted a platform in which rigid enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and all supporting laws was promised. The declaration of principles also contained a pledge of farm subsidy, although the McNary-Haugen equalization fee principle was not mentioned.

The candidate for vice-president is likely to be Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the permanent chairman of the great convention.

ROTARIANS AT BETTERTON

The Hotel Rigbie, Betterton, was the scene last Tuesday evening of a meeting of Upper Eastern Shore Rotarians. It was the annual meeting and inter-city meeting of Centreville, Chestertown, Denton and Elkton. All these clubs of the 34th district. Nearly 200 persons were present and a memorable evening was spent.

The Elkton Club managed the affair.

Albert Mackey, Esq., of the Elkton Club in a few well-chosen remarks, introduced the speaker of the evening. He was Dr. E. J. Cattell, of the Philadelphia Rotary Club.

It was a 100 per cent optomistic address and he enthused the crowd with his humor, pathos and sage advice.

The singing was a big feature of the evening being led by Rotarian Harry M. Kimmey, of Westminster.

Manager Brice, of the Rigbie, certainly did himself proud in taking care of the menu and with his bevy of efficient young lady waitresses served the following:

Fruit Cocktail
Sweet Gherkins Olisve

REFUSED LICENSE HERE MARRIED IN CHESTERTOWN

They were at once seized upon and hurried to the quiet little town of Chestertown, Kent County, and during the hour's drive grew to be of legal age. The couple according to the Philadelphia Bulletin, Robert A. Hopkins, Chestnut Hill and Ruth A. Bollard, Germantown Pa., were married at Chestertown after being refused a license here.—Elkton Whig.

WOMAN CAUGHT RUNNING A STILL

Sheriff Hadaway and Deputy Lee arrested Mrs. John Phillips, of near Lambson's Station Saturday morning on a charge of selling intoxicating liquors. Upon investigation they found a "still" in operation and 100 gallons of mash besides a quantity on hand. She was taken to Denton on Tuesday where she gave $500 bail for her appearance at the Federal Court and returned to Chestertown jail to await trial for violating the local option law.

It is the second time the woman has been arrested on charges of manufacture and possession of liquor. Her first trial before the local court here, resulted in a fine which she paid. She has a husband and several children one of whom is afflicted.

CHORAL CLUB GIVE CONCERT

Wiliam Smith Hall, Washington college, was the scene of a brilliant social event as well as an incident in the musical history of our town and community on Firday evening, June 22nd. After only seven rehearsals the Chestertown Choral Club, under that tactful and skilled directress, Mrs. Emma Shaub Wheeler, presented their first concert. It was a marvelous exhibition of what can be attained in the training of amateur voices. The program, published in full, shows the high character of the music presented and each number was richly appreciated by the elegant audience.

The stage decorations were hard to surpass being a veritable garden of roses and hydrangeas, and when the curtain lifted and the big chorus broke forth with rendition of "Greetings of Spring," is was indeed an an inspiring scene.

WORTHY BEQUESTS

At the death of Mrs. Alexander H. Smith, of New York, St. Michaels Parish and the Children's Home of Easton will be the beneficiaries of an estate estimated at from $60,000 to $7,000. Mrs. Smith was a Miss Marshall, of Church Neck, and her husband was a New York business man. He had little interest in this section save as it was reflected in the mind of his wife. He was not a native but was an admirer of this country. With this bequest, when it ultimately comes, St. Michaels Parish will be the largest endowed parish in the Diocese of Easton and the Children's Home invested funds will be increased to a point where the maintenance of the Home will not be the burden that it now is.
