LOCAL NOTES.....

The will of the late Mrs. Eshman has been filed in the Orphans' Court here but not yet probated. In it Bernard Eshman, a son, is named as executor. One of the provisions is that in case any of the six children want to retire from the Voshell House ownership they may do so upon the payment of $5,000 each. The Court will consider the matter Tuesday.

Tomato acreage in Kent county approximately 2,500 acres as compared with a ten-year average of 5,500 acres. To date, about 2,000 acres have been contracted for by packers at from 20 to 22 cents per basket. One-fifth of the acreage is left on the open market. Only four local canneries will reopen.

A contract has been signed between the Red Star Bus Company and the Baltimore Aircraft Corporation to deliver passengers to this town from the projected landing field at Tolchester. The Baltimore corporation will shortly start a regular passenger service from Logan Field, near Baltimore, to a field now being prepared on the old Gresham Hall farm, near Tolchester. Newspapers and freight will also be carried across the bay. Efforts are being made to secure a mail franchise. The trip will take about 15 minutes, it is said.

Levi Johnson, colored of Coleman's Corner, was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Olin B. Stafford for driving a car without a license. Lester Butler, colored, was given a similar fine for the same offense. Dorothy Bennett, also colored, was fined $100 and costs for driving on a beginner's license. She had previously served three months in jail on a similar charge. Robert Conway, another Negro, was fined $150 for failure to give the right of way when his car collided with one driven by Mrs. Howard Chaires.

Olin Stafford has removed his store two doors below his old stand. He has received permission to instal Texaco tanks. There is some objection and the new venture is held up. Norman Carter, with Allen Stradley as assistant, has taken charge of the Standard Oil business.

J. Bonn Towner, of Morgnec, purchased this week from Smith and Robinson a fine registered Guernsey bull, Cavalier of Green Gables.

The mercury has been trying itself this week. Tuesday the thermometer registered 92 degrees; Wednesday 93, Thursday 95 and yesterday was up in the 90's.

Dr. Alva B. Burris, physician and dairyman of Ocean City, formerly of this town, has been elected commodore of the newly organized Ocean City Yacht Club. The purpose of the club is to stimulate interest in aquatic sports at the resort, including motorboat racing.

O. E. Yerkey, a stock grower of Kent county, has entered a litter of pigs in the annual contest of the Maryland Swine Growers' Association which is being held to encourage the production of a 1500-pound litter within 150 days. Prizes are offered for the best litter grown during that time, and the best products will be exhibited at the annual State fair at Timonium, Mrs. J. W. Bigelow and William Heweth, of Talbot county are the only other Eastern Shore growers so far, taking part in the contest.

The automobile club of Wayne, Pa., will be entertained here July 25th on their annual tour of the Eastern Shore. A similar organization of Kutztown, Pa., is now touring the nine-county area after having stopped here on their way to Salisbury. Both organizations will return by way of the duPont Highway to Wilmington, Del.

Dr. Thomas Spranklin, former State veterinarian, who last week purchased the country home of Frank Worrell on the outskirts of town for $25,000, has taken possession of the property and will occupy it during the remainder of the year.

There have been 38 marriage licenses issued at the clerk's office during the past week. Some of the applicants called at 2 a. m., another 11 p. m. and at all hours there have been seekers for licenses. Among those issued to local folks were the following: Frank O. Estes 22, and Anna C. Wiltbanks 20, of Kent county; Herman R. Yerkie 26, of Salisbury, and Viola N. Stevens 18, of Kent county; Harry Thomas Bidwell, of Philadelphia, and Sarah Baynard Parrott, of Kent county; Newton Kelley 26, and M. Gertrude Blades 18, of Kent county; Harry H. Smith 24, and Mary E. Scotten 21, of Kent county; Thomas B. Willson, Jr., 22, and Clara T. Williams 27, of Kent county.

Pleasure-seekers at the carnival held by the Federalsburg Fire Department were amazed Friday night when one of the firemen, clinging to a point of vantage on a booth, broadcasted with a megaphone: "A colored man wants to announce that he is ready to go home but can't leave the grounds because some-one has parked a white baby in his car!" The broadcaster added that the man would greatly appreciate it if the owner of the baby, which was asleep, would remove it so that he might drive his car home. Evidently the request was complied with at once, for no further bulletins were broadcast, and it is thought that the child's mother put it into the wrong car by mistake, thinking it was her machine.

MRS BURRIS HURT

Mrs. James Burris, of Crumpton, was injured in an automobile accident Thursday in the Pocono Hills, near Easton, Pa., and is now in the Easton (Pa.) Hospital, as the result of injuries to her back.

Mrs. Burris was on a motor trip with friends from Overbrooke, Pa., where she was visiting, and was then on the way to their summer home in the mountains. They were caught in a tremendous rainstorm, while driving through the mountains and their car struck another car that had turned over in front of them. All four occupants in the car in which Mrs. Burris was riding were injured. Mrs. Burris suffered a severe sprain of the back, but is resting most comfortably in the hospital and hopes to be out soon.
