DUSTING SEED WHEAT IN KENT

Profited Kent Farmers — $56,758.00 Above Cost Of Treating, Estimated By Horace B. Derrick, County Agent.

Wheat seeding time in Kent is only three to four weeks away and it is felt that a final report of covered smut and seed wheat treating should be made by the County Agent.

Covered smut in wheat is on the increase in the East and obviously so in Maryland. Efforts to control smut have been made by treating with Copper Carbonate Dust. Results of this treatment are shown in the report of F. W. Oldenburg, Extension Agronomist, and Dr. Jehle, Extension Pathologist, after an inspection over the State, as follows:

Treated fields inspected 140.

Free or nearly free of smut, 132 or 94 per cent.

Untreated fields inspected, 121.

Free or nearly free of smut, 45 or 36 per cent.

Certainly 94 per cent is far above 36 per cent.

Last fall Kent farmers treated 41,600 bushels of seed wheat, which were sown on 25,000 acres. One of the largest wheat buyers in Kent gives the following figures on smut in wheat and dockage for smut:

Docked for smut: 1927, 85 per cent. Average dockage per bushel for smut 10 cents. 1928, 60 per cent. Average dockage per bushel for smut 4 cents.

They attribute this result to the fact that Kent farmers treated 67 per cent of their total seed wheat last fall.

25,000 acres yielding an average 20 bushels per acre would be 500,000 bushels of wheat. Using the figures given above, which were 1927 upon untreated wheat, 85 were based 500,000 bushels equals per cent of shels. 425,000 bushels at the a number of bushels at the average of 10 cents per bushel would be $42,500. Now the 500,000 acres would be 60 per cent of 500,000 bushels equals 300,000 bushels. Dockage for this number of bushels at the average of 4 cents per bushel would be $12,000. Subtracting the 1928 dockage from the 1927 dockage would give $30,500.00 less dockage in 1928 than in 1927. This is for delivered wheat. How about the increased yield due to treating the seed wheat? An average of 5 per cent less smut on account of treating is conservative. Yet 5 per cent would be one bushel out of every 20. For 25,000 acres this would mean 25,000 bushels, which at $1,25 per bushel would be worth $31,250.00. Adding the decreased dockage of $30,500, and the value of increased yield of wheat $31,250.00 would give $61,750.00. Subtracting the cost of treating 41,600 bushels of wheat at 12 cents per bushel or $4,992 would give $56,758 or the estimated value of treating seed wheat above the cost of treatment, to Kent county farmers.

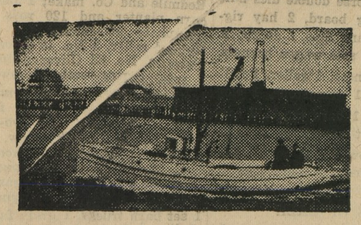

From the above records and my personal inspections and obsevrations I recommend the following for the consideration of Kent county farmers in regard to wheat smut and seed wheat:

1. Use cleanest seed wheat available.
2. Treat with Copper Carbonate Dust.
3. Sow between October 10th and 20th.

Directions for treating seed wheat with Copper Carbonate Dust will be furnished upon request.

Use WARNER'S "LIMOID" for ALFALFA PROFITS

ALFALFA won't thrive in acid soil. If your soil is acid you won't have a profitable crop. But you can correct soil acidity and get a better, more profitable alfalfa crop by spreading Warner's "Limoid" on the soil right now.

"Limoid" has been used to sweeten sour soil for over a quarter century. It has the endorsement of agricultural authorities for it is pure hydrated lime. Less of it is needed than of many forms of lime for it thoroughly penetrates the soil, quickly conditioning it so that alfalfa will thrive.

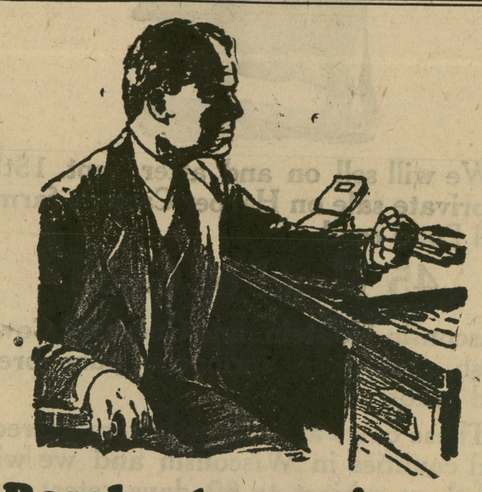

"Limoid" comes in handy 50 lb. paper bags and can be spread easily with a lime spreader or by hand.
