DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For President of the United States
ALFRED E. SMITH.

For Vice-President:
JOSEPH T. ROBINSON.

For United States Senator:
WILLIAM CABELL BRUCE

For Representative in Congress:
T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH.

Alfred E. Smith in his great speech in Oklahoma Thursday night handled the religious issue without gloves. He said:

"I here emphatically declare that I do not wish any member of my faith in any part of the United States to vote for men on any religious grounds.

"The absolute separation of state and church is part of the fundamental basis of our Constitution. I believe in that separation in all that it implies."

Gov. Alfred E. Smith in his great speech Thursday night did not confine his counter-assault to the Republicans in this campaign. He arraigned those Democrats led by former Senator R. L. Owen, of Oklahoma who are opposing him on the ground that he is a member of Tammany Hall. He charged them with resorting to "pretense and subterfuge to cover treason to the fundamentals of Jeffersonian Democracy and American liberty."

Nor did his indignation rest there. He heaped his invective on the Ku Klux Klan, declaring that "the world knows no greater mockery than the use of the blazing cross—the cross upon which Christ died—as a symbol to instil into the hearts of men hatred of their brethren."

TEACHER SUPPLY VERY SMALL

In view of the recent statement of Dr. Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Schools, that the demand for trained teachers in Maryland is notably greater than the supply, an opinion expressed by E. Clarke Fontaine, State Supervisor of High Schools for the Eastern Shore, is especially interesting at this time.

The Shore educator believes that Washington College has unusually excellent facilities for training high school teachers for service on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula. The opportunity of the Chestertown institution for such service, he declares, lies in the close cooperation existing between the Kent county public school authoirties and the department of education of the college which for several years has been able to conduct its practice teaching work at Chestertown High School where prospective pedagogues are being trained under the watchful eyes of Dr. Frederick G. Livingood.

Each student-teacher is given individual instruction in methods and practice, in addition to the regular educational courses in the college itself. The practice work has been made to fit into the schedule of the high school curriculum and such college student has the opportunity of teaching a full week at a time while the close proximity of the school to the college is another advantage resulting from this arrangement. Students are not compelled to travel to distant towns for this work and the school lies within a stone's throw of the college campus.

As an evidence of the efficiency with which the educational courses are being conducted college authorities point to the fact that approximately 60 per cent of Washington graduates during the past five years are now teaching, the maiorjty on the Eastern Shore. From an enrollment of 25 in the graduating class of 1926 twelve went out to teach or 48 per cent of the total number. This year eleven are still teaching or 44 per cent of the class. Nineteen members of that class took the educational course of 75 per cent of the whole number. Last year there were 25 in the graduating class. Seventeen are teaching this year or 68 per cent. Eighteen of the class pursued the educational course or 72 per cent. Out of this year's senior class of 31 eighteen are taking education or 58 per cent. Of the junior class of 55 forty-one are taking education or 75 per cent. In all the college classes from 50 to 75 per cent of the students are taking education and many will go out to teach in Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore counties.

It is further said by educators that the Eastern Shore college is admirably equipped to train teachers for service in this territory because of its familiarity with conditions and that some of the high school teachers graduated last year are unequalled in training and teaching ability. The Shore college numbers among its distinguished alumni in the teaching profession State superintendents of schools, county scholastic heads and teachers, elementary school principals and teachers, high school principals and teachers, normal school heads and faculty members, college professors and private school teachers.

ALMSHOUSE FOR EASTERN SHORE

One of the principal topics of discussion at the fall meeting of the Association of County Commissioners of the Eastern Shore, in Salisbury, October 15, will be the establishment of an Eastern Shore community home.

At that time tentative plans and estimated costs for the proposed plant now being prepared by architects, will be submitted.

Recommendations of Dr. Arthur P. Herring, Commissioner of Mental Hygiene of Maryland, made to the association just a few days before his death, call for a community house and infirmary to supplant the present county almshouses, which now have dwindled to six on the Shore. The proposed institution, he advised should include in its care certain other sick and infirm persons, not necessarily of an advanced age but not general hospital cases, and persons having a mild form of mental disability who might be used as help about the premises.

A central and accessible location is suggested, one near a county seat, within reach of a county general hospital and with a good supply of drinking water available, as well as a satisfactory disposal of sewage and availability of good farm land.

It is advocated that the board of managers be composed of the presidents of the nine boards of county commissioners and three additional members, to be appointed by the Governor, one to be a woman.

Two plans of financing are to be considered. These are a legislative act for a State bond issue of $300,000, which would add .15 of a cent to the State tax rate, or authority to be granted by the General Assembly for each of the nine counties on the Shore to issue from $40,000 to $50,000 in bonds, costing each county from 2 to 3 cents on the tax rate.

The estimated cost of the plant would be between $800,000 and $400,000. It is advocated that maintenance be by the counties and State upon a per captia basis for patients at the institution.

Tentative plans of Dr. Herring called for a 100-patient institution, to consist of an administration building four cottages, a power plant and laundry, in all six buildings.

Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Talbot and Somerset are the counties still maintaining almshouses. The average cost to the counties is around $5,000 a year and the average inmate per capita cost about $275. In Talbot county, with four inmates, the per capita cost is $625. These figures, it is contended, show that the care of the county indigent is very expensive compared with estimates for a central institution.

OCTOBER 2 AND 9 REGISTRATION DAYS IN KENT

Kent county voters who must register or transfer to make them eligible to participate in the approaching election will have but two opportunities to attend to this important duty.

The first county-wide registration day will be on Tuesday, October 2nd, and the final chance will be on Tuesday, October 9th. Those who fail to become properly enrolled on one or the other of these two dates will lose their suffrage.

Persons who have moved from one precinct or district to another are required to transfer just as if they had moved from another county or state. Those who fail will be cited and stricken from the poll books.

Regardless of how you intend to vote, be sure to register-

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of Samuel R. Newcomb, age 51, who passed away after a long illness at his home near Chesapeake City, August 12th 1928. Mr. Newcomb was born in Kent county in 1877 and learned the trade as a carpenter until five years before his death he became a successful farmer in Cecil county. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and five children also relatives and a circle of friends.

In sad but loving remembrance of Angeline J. Davis, who departed this life one year ago, September 27, 1827
It was a beautiful September morning
That my dear wife past away.
She seemed to hear a voice calling,
Leave thy afflicted bed.
To live for Christ it was her pleasure
To die for him it was her gain,
For on the cross the Saviour suffered
That she and all might live again.
By Her Husband.

How sadly we counted the hours
That measured this sorrowful year
Since we laid 'neath a mantel of flowers,
Our mother whom we loved so dear
She completed each task unfailingly
And with life's work well done met God's call,
And the memory of her love and patience
Shall live in the hearts of us all.
She has gone to the home of her Saviour,
Who loved her and bore her away
From earth's sorrows and sufferings and heartaches
To that realm of endless day.
Shall we grieve that her voyage is ended
And her storm-tossed soul at rest?
She has entered the haven of refuge
That eternal home of the blest.
And left sweet memories to blossom
Bearing fruit for the years to come
In the lives of those who loved her,
Precious memories of the days that have gone.
By Her Children.
