ENOCH KING IS FATALLY HURT

Enoch King, 68, prominent farmer of near Millington, is dead as the result of having a drill dragged over his body when horses attached to the machine ran away.

The accident occurred on Monday, on the farm of Mr. King, near Millington. He died at 7.30 on Monday evening in Union Hospital, Elkton.

The drill was hooked to the back of a farm wagon and drawing the farm wagon were a pair of horses. Mr. King was standing between the wagon and the drill when the horses became frightened and dashed across the field. The drill passed over Mr. King, breaking one leg, several ribs and injured him internally.

Some time later, neighbors hearing his cries of distress went to his aid. A county doctor was called and Mr. King ordered to the Elkton Hospital. He died there Monday evening.

Funeral services were held from Millington Thursday afternoon, with Rev. E. Davis Walraven officiating.

Mr. King is survived by his widow and the following children: Mrs. Norman Darrell, of Blanco; Mrs. Harry Moffett, of Newark; Mrs. Stanley Passwater and Mrs. John Dixon, of Massey; Mrs. Noland Robinson and Mrs. William Rolph, of Millington; Roy King and Julian King, of Chester; Edgar and Susie Bell King, of Millington.

SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS

Plans for the annual series of entertainments and lectures given for the benefit of the Chestertown Public Library have been completed by the Board of Managers, and their patrons are assured that the high standard established in previous years will be maintained by the 1928-29 series.

On the opening night, Nov. 5, Dr. Kenneth Rede will give an informal talk about "The Newer Voices in Fiction and Biography." Dr. Rede is a native of Georgia, who has lived for fifteen years in Baltimore, a very cultivated lover of books, and a frequent contributor to the review columns of the Evening Sun. He writes also for magazines and is now doing special work for the Pratt Library.

Mr. A. H. Vautier, the popular current event speaker, has promised to give three talks in Chestertown this season, and is scheduled to appear on December 3, Feb. 4 and April 1.

Dr. M. H. Nichols will be he speaker on Jan. 7; his subject "The Mirth and Melody of Eugene Field." Dr. Nichols is an unusually gifted speaker and holds the attention of his audience as few people can. He is pastor of Arch Street M. E. Church, in Philadelphia. Situated in the heart of the financial district, this church occupies one of the most strategic and costly sites in America, and the congregation comes from many states and foreign lands.

On March 4 Mr. Guy Caldwell will give an illustrated lecture "Bird Songs and Wild Flowers." Mr.Caldwell was born in the Mississippi Valley, and has been imitating birds and animals from boyhood. The slides of wild flowers which he uses are beautifully colored, and the imitation of bird songs a delightful feature of his entertainments. During the past season Mr. Caldwell presented one hundred and thirty-five programs to schools, colleges and clubs, and the American Nature Association, under whose auspices he travels, testifies that the usual comment was "The most beautiful program we have ever had." HISTORICAL RELIC MUSEUM STARTED

Under the direction of Dr. Esther M. Dole, head of the history department at Washington College, a historical museum for relics, pertaining to the past of the Eastern Shore has been started.

Dr. Dole, realizing the abundance of historical material and relics in this region, has for the past two years urged the people of the Shore to cooperate with Washington College in the establishment of a museum that will preserve these antiquities that are symbols of the pas grandeur and tradition of the Eastern Shore.

A collection of old Indian darts, axes, and tools has already been presented for display by Dr. H. G. Simpers. Glass cases are being purchased so that the objects displayed may be well protected and interest among the students is keen.

Dr. Dole is also anxious to interest the people of the entire peninsula for, as one can easily see, this museum will in years to come be of inestimable value.

Dr. Dole and the committee will appreciate any contributions of relics of any description, that any one would like to make. These contributions are considered merely as loans by the committee and they will be labeled with a brief synopsis of their history and marked with the name of the donor.

SERIOUSLY HURT

Frances, the 5-year-old daughter of Hessey Wiltbank was seriously injured at her home near Black's Station Monday. The child was on the running board of her father's automobile when he started from his garage. She fell off and the machine passed over her head. Her father heard her cry and stopped the car, went to her relief and at once sent for Dr. Scott. She was sent to Elkton Hospital where she was treated.

A message from the hospital yesterday said an X-Ray showed internal injuries and condition serious.

The automobile damage suit of Charles Gillis, of Salisbury, against Warren G. Painter for $5,000 on account of accident to him while driving a wagon was on trial at hour of going to press.

Men are always complaining that they don't understand women, but the women seem to have no trouble in understanding the men.
