KENT COUNTY LOCAL NOTES

ROCK HALL

Edward Kendall received a severe scalp wound last Wednesday when a wire cable on a sand scoop at Tolchester broke and struck him on the back of the head. He was attended by Dr. W. O. Selby.

Capt. and Mrs. Joshua Thomas spent the week-end from Kent Island. With them was Mrs. Hill Haxter, and all were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Coleman. The former's little girl, Elma Thomas, and four other children from the Island were operated upon for tonsils.

Mrs. Pennington Bennett, of Washington and New York, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Downey, Sr., is critically ill in Mercy Hospital, Baltimore.

Mrs. Elizabeth Casey was called to Baltimore Monday by the illness of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Apsley.

Rock Hall Council No. 149 Junior Order United American Mechanics met in their hall Thursday evening for their anniversary supper and entertainment. An elaborate menu was served.

The Seventh Day Adventist Church had several speakers present Sabbath. Elder U. D. Pickard and wife, of Catonsville, in the interest of Harvest Ingathering; Elder East, a returned missionary from China, who was here in the interest of bookwork; and Elders Fishell and W. O. Groves. It was found that the goal of a thousand dollars from this church had nearly been reached and several members went out to complete the sum.

The supper by patrons of the High School cleared about a hundred and twenty-four dollars. The money is part of a fund to lay a cement sidewalk from the center of the town to the school. The Rock Hall Progressive Association has promised a hundred dollars when work starts, as it has also promised a hundred to the M. E. Church which is assuming responsibility for its share of the wa Marion T. Miller will pave along his store property.

A number of Sterling Hersch's friends surprised him with a visit Monday evening at his parents home.

John J. Scoone continues quite ill.

A fracas occurred Monday between Dewey Price and a neighbor William Pierce, on Eastern Neck Island in which the latter was severely beaten and rendered unconscious for some time. Then Price was threatened with a pistol by Jimmie Morris. He was prevented from doing any harm, but Price had him arrested. A hearing was held that evening before Police Justice Charles R. Kerr and Morris was sentenced to ninety days in jail for having a concealed weapon and threats.

Officers and Teachers of Still Pond Parent-Teachers Association were delighted at the splendid attendance at their regular monthly meeting held on Friday evening, October 26th at the Still Pond School House. Wm. Medders had charge for this month and put tireless effort into "Hobbies" which certainly brought pleasing results; handiwork of many kinds was on exhibit—rare old quilts, afghans, lace and flowers. After a short business meeting, Miss Kincheloe , who will be with us for the next three months bringing us a message on "Nutrition," gave us a short talk on "Hobbies" and made us feel that if we had no hobby, it was worth our while to find one. Dr. Dole, of Washington College, then gave us a very interesting talk on "Education," bringing it to us in such a way that made it helpful toall. We appreciated having these folks with us, and trust that the members and friends who attended will keep the last Friday in each month open for these meetings.

TURKEYS SELLING FOR 80 CENTS

Turkeys were seen on Saturday in Wilmington. There were not many, none being seen along the entire length of the King street market, but some Wilmington stores are carrying them at 80 cents a pound.

The price of turkeys may be slightly lowered on account of the increase in the number produced in Pennsylvania, New York and other eastern central states and the increase in production of turkeys in the West.

The Delmarva Peninsula is becoming yearly a more important center for the production of turkeys and this year's crop is expected to exceed that of any previous year. Kent Queen Anne's and Talbot counties of Maryland have large numbers of turkey farms with turkeys in good condition ready for the holiday seasons.

GRAVE-YARDS IMPROVED

The News last week referred to the interesting ceremony which was noted to take place Saturday when a monument was unveiled on the Tilden Cooper farm, by members of hte old Hepburn family of Kent county. The monument was unveiled by the Rev. John White, rector of Old St. Paul's, of Kent, and Harry Willis, prominent county farmer, spoke on the development of the idea originated by Dr. Hepburn. A score of farmers in the vicinity gathered for the exercises. The memorial is composed of remnants of old tombstones found recently in the old Hepburn burying ground. In 1677 the farm was surveyed for James Hepburn. In 1906, after having been in that family since its acquisition, it was bought by Tilden Cooper, who now occupies the farmhouse.

The movement has been started by the Rev. Dr. Sewell S. Hepburn, oldest living member of the family and oldest Protestant Episcopal clergyman on the Eastern Shore. He reviewed its history before twenty-five younger members of the family. Recently he was intrumental in rehabilitating a similar dilapidated graveyard on the farm of Elwood Morris, near Worton, where gravestones had fallen and were in danger of destruction by the elements.

A similar mounment, containing on its four sides all the tombstones thus preserved, has been erected by the surviving members of the Wroth family, of which Thomas G. Wroth, of Chestertown, is the oldest living member.

The next step in the movement will, Dr. Hepburn announced Saturday, be marking the grave of Isaac Perkins, near Urieville. It was this native and resident of Kent, who, with Robert Morris, of Pennsylvaina, supplied Washington's army, Valley Forge, with food. He is bured at Perkins' Mill and the grave is unmarked.

Other neglected graveyards and church yards throughout Kent county will be given similar attention.

A committee headed by Mrs. Hattie Brown has greatly improved the old grave-yard at Bond Chapel.

Chester Cemetery, Chestertown, never was in better condition than at present, due largely to the faithful work of Edw. Newton, the keeper, who has the hearty co-operation of the trustees.
