Give Ritchie 909 Lead In Counties

Many discrepancies between the official and unofficial tallies of the county vote on State-wide candidates became apparent with the receipt of the final count from the entire State with the exception of Baltimore city.

The unofficial totals for the counties, which appeared Thursday, credited Mayor Broening, Republican Gubernatorial candidate, with 119,804 votes, and Governor Ritchie with 120,980. At that time eleven precincts from three counties had not yet reported. One precinct out of twenty-one had not reported from Cecil county, and returns had been received from only twenty out of twenty-five in Montgomery, and twenty-four out of twenty-nine in Prince George's.

The complete official returns from all the counties showed that Mayor Broening had lost the counties to Governor Ritchie by 909 votes. The official totals for the two candidates for Governor were: Mayor Broening, 125,997; Governor Ritchie, 126,906.

William S. Gordy, Jr., Democratic candidate for Comptroller, defeated his opponent, W. Newton Jackson, by a plurality of 14,469. The official totals were: Mr. Gordy, 120,233; Mr. Jackson, 105,764.

W. Preston Lane, Jr., carried the counties against his Republican opponent for Attorney-General(David A. Robb, by a count of 16,441. The totals were: Mr. Lane, 123,325; Mr. Robb, 106,884.

In the race for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, final returns showed that James A. Young, Democratic candidate, had defeated Dr. Charles S. Warner in the counties by a plurality of 16,645. The official totals were: Mr. Young, 121,107; Dr. Warner, 104,462.

According to both official and unofficial returns, Governor Ritchie carried eleven of the twenty-three counties, and his republican opponent twelve. Mayor Broening polled his heaviest vote in Frederick and Washington counties, where he had a plurality of 1,000, and Somerset and Garrett counties, where the count was about two to one against the Democratic candidate.

The Governor's heaviest vote was polled in Anne Arundel county, which he carried by almost 2,000; in Howard, which he carried by about 1,000, and in Prince George's county, which he carried by approximately 900.

Sea Claims English Land

Every year England loses by erosion a tract of land the size of Gibraltar. On the east coast the annual loss equals in territory the island of Heligoland. In the last 100 years a portion of England equal in area to the county of London has been submerged.

No National Flower

The schools and a number of societies have popularized the goldenrod so that it is sometimes regarded as the national flower, but there is no national flower. Bills naming one have been introduced in congress from time to time, but no official action has ever been taken on a national flower.

Join! KENT CO. RED CROSS HONOR ROLL CALL

A telegram from Washington, D. C., Nov. 11, 1930, as follows:

Howard Turner, Chairman:

In the present Roll Call, the Red Cross faces serious and exceptional demands, calling for the earnest devotion, courage and persistent effort of all the Red Cross men and women.

We must measure up to the demands and make the Roll Call a great success. The Red Cross has its own great responsibilities and must meet them. (Signed)

JOHN BARTON PAYNE.

The Kent County Chapter of the American Red Cross starts their Roll Call in Kent County, Nov. 11 to 27, ending Thanksgiving Day.

The above telegram shows the urgent necessity for the citizens of Kent county to do their part.

The Kent Chapter retains one half of the receipts from the sale of One Dollar Memberships. It is proposed that the money so collected be used in this County this winter for the relief work among our needy. The Chapter is made up of twelve units which means to spread over the entire County. Each unit through its Chairman, by and with the cooperation of the Chapter will have charge of the relief work.

Therefore in buying Membership in Kent County the citizens will be helping their own people.

It is most important that each locality give the Chairman hearty support.

The officers of the Kent Chapter are: Howard Turner, Chairman; Mrs. James G. Beck, Vice President; Allan A. Harris, Treasurer; Mrs. Frank W Smith, Secretary.

The Chairmen of the local units are:

Galena — Mrs. Geo. R. Jones
Massey — Mr. Thos. Massey
Millington — Mrs. Merritt Brice
Kennedyville—Mrs. James W. Urie
Still Pond — Mrs. Wm. Medders
Betterton—Mrs. Howard F. Owens
Lynch — Mrs. A. N. Stavely
Worton — Mrs. Carroll Loller
Chestertown — Mrs. Barclay Kilbourne.
Fairlee — Mrs. Frank W. Smith
Pomona—Miss Minnie Brooks.
Rock Hall — Mrs. W. O. Selby

The young men and young women of the County could help the different Chairmen very definitely if they would take an active interest in this ROLL CALL.

Babylonian Canal

The river Ulai beside which Daniel received an important prophetical vision (Daniel 8:2) was one of the canals by which water from the Euphrates was carried through some of Babylon's cross-streets for the use of the people living there, and to enrich the arable land within the walls wherefrom the city received much of its sustenance.

Ancient Portugese Coins

Records show that there was a mint for making coins at Ementa, in Portugal, established by the Suevic Goths between the years 430 and 457. It is therefore quite possible that jewelry and coins of Portugal be marked with dates of more than 1,000 years ago.

Better Speech Results In Better Telephone Service

Modern communication is undoubtedly responsible for better speech. With more than 600 licensed broadcasting stations, a radio set for every seven families, and sound pictures affording entertainment for millions of people weekly, the technique of speaking as revealed by radio announcer, political orator, occasional speaker, or screen actor is open to an analysis that is severely critical, says William P. Banning, assistant vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in the Bell Telephone Quarterly.

"Listeners in millions of homes, school rooms, and theatres, with daily opportunity for contrasting methods as well as messages," Mr. Banning says, "are constantly changing their standards Speakers have become aware that the human voice is on trial everywhere."

Speech itself has in this way been advertised in an inescapable way, he states, by its newer transmission agencies and a tremendous impetus has been given to the activities that are promoting better speech.

To the telephone companies comprising the Bell System, Mr. Banning says, the speech habits of telephone users have always been a matter of specialized interest. The reason for this is the fundamental one that better speech means better telephone service. A familiar expression of this interest is the educational effort that calls attention to the value of distinct enunciation and explains how telephone facilities can best be used.

From the standpoint of the number of words which the telephone user should be able to enunciate properly in order to carry on effective conversation, the task is not a large one. Recent investigations of the words used in telephone conversations show, according to Mr Banning, that in 500 conversations in which about 80,000 words were noted, only 2, than 3 per cent, were different words Fifty words account for 60 per cent of the total words in these conversations and 700 words account for 95 per cent Proper pronunciation, therefore, of relatively few words, he says would go a long way towards improving the effectiveness of speech.

Katherine Donovan knows that clear enunciation is necessary when telephoning.

It is from the standpoint of the user that telephone service is improved by better speech, and this standpoint is the one by which the telephone companies must and do measure the success of their efforts This is because of the unique and important characteristic that differentiates telephone service from other public services, namely, that it is a personal service, placing at an individual's request a private communication channel for exclusive use between distances that may be a
