LOCAL NOTES.....

Hunters report rabbits and birds scarce when compared to previous years.

The next monthly meeting of the Maryland Turkey Growers' Association of Kent County, will be held in the office of the Chamber of Commerce, Saturday, for the purpose of discussing the outlook for the annual Thanksgiving and Christmas sale of turkeys.

A large delegation of members of the Chestertown Lodge of Masons attended the annual Armistice Day celebration held at the State Masonic Home at Bonnie Blink, Cockeysville.

Many people will regret to learn that the reduced freight rates on feedstuffs in the Drought Area will be in effect only through November. It was thought, by some, that the reduced rates would continue throughout the winter. The railroads, however, have served notice that full rates go into effect beginning December 1st.

Kent county has had the benefit of reduced rates since September 15th. Over fifty car loads of feedstuffs have been ordered. Many more should be ordered at once, since the roughage supply is especially short here, and much additional hay must be had for February and March feeding.

James Briscoe, colored, of Galena, and Ulysses Dorsey, colored, of Elkton, were lodged in jail here Thursday afternoon on the charge of stealing a number of chickens from William LeCates, a farmer living near Galena. The men were captured early on Thursday morning by Private Workman of State Road station, near Wilmington, who held the prisoners until the arrival of Sheriff J. Thomas Hadaway, from Chestertown. For a number of years past at this season of the year farmers in the upper section of this county from Kennedyville to Galena have lost hundreds of dollars worth of poultry and meat stolen by men who almost invariably haul their loot away in automobiles either to Wilmington or Chester, Pa., markets. A number of arrests were made last Winter by State Road station police. The men were en route to Wilmington with the chickens when taken into custody by Private Workman.

INJURED AS AUTO HITS TRAILER

Miss Elsie Dietrich, 20, of 1211 D. St., is in the Delaware Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull, internal injuries and cuts and bruises as a result of an automobile accident on the State Highway at Farnhurst last week.

Miss Cleta A. Green, 18, of 318 Claymont St., received lacerations of the scalp and possible internal injuries. Mitchell Skura, 21, 223 Townsend St., driver of the automobile in which the two girls were riding suffered a broken nose an dintenal injuries.

The automobile which Skura was driving north on the highway ran into the rear of the trailer of a truck driven by Lewis F. Holter, of Baltimore, which was parked at the side of the road. The truck is owned by the Davidson Transfer Company, of Baltimore, and Holter stopped at Farnhurst to pass on orders to another driver for the same company who was traveling south.

Private Hession of the State highway police who investigated the accident, said that the truck and trailer were apparently well lighted at the time of the accident. Skura and his companions were returning from Chestertown, when they crashed into the rear of the trailer attached to the truck. Miss Green was thrown out of the automobile. The others were cut by flying glass and suffered other injuries.

The three injured persons were taken to the State Hospital at Farnhurst and given first aid treatment there by Dr. M. T. Tarumianz who ordered that they be removed to the Delaware Hospital. At the Delaware Hospital it was stated that Miss Green Dierrich was resting uneasily

GENERAL DUPONT DEAD

General T. Coleman duPont, former United States Senator, financier and philanthropist, died Tuesday afternoon at his home in Wilmington, from a throat affection from which he had long suffered. He was sixty-seven years of age and is survived by his wife and four children.

General duPont was the donor of the duPont Boulevard to the State of Delaware, costing $4,000,000.

The programs at the New Lyceum Theatre are extra good.

Crop Of Turkeys In Del. And Md.

The 1930 turkey crops of Maryland and Delaware are estimated to be slightly larger than last year, according to reports of turkey raisers to Richard C. Ross, Federal agricultural statistician for those States. Reports also indicate that of the turkeys to be sold in Maryland this year about 48 per cent will be ready for market for Thanksgiving season, about 44 per cent for Christmas, and about 8 per cent after Christmas. In Delaware about 46 per cent will be ready about Thanksgiving, 45 per cent about Christmas, and 9 per cent after Christmas.

The turkey crop of 1930 for the country as a whole is about three per cent smaller than that of 1929 but larger than either the 1928 or 1927 crops. The decrease is larger in the States from which the commercial supply of turkeys largely comes, which are the States from the Dakotas to Texas and westward.

In general the dry, hot weather of the past season was exceptionally favorable for raising young turkeys and the proportion of turkeys raised to poults hatched was larger than usual. This had the effect of offsetting to considerable extent the decrease in hatchings due to the relatively unfavorable prices received last year.

LOCAL MINIATURE PAINTERS HONORED

At the exhibit of the Pennsylvania Society of Miniature Painters at the Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, four miniatures by Mrs. Emma Hess Ingersoll are attracting considerable attention. Two of these are reproduced in the catalogue which features about a dozen of the more important miniatures of the entire exhibit. Philadelphia papers have also featured several among which was a charming one of Mary Meigs Ingersoll, daughter of the artist.

At the same exhibit is being shown miniatures by Mrs. Grace Brooks Hildebrant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. M. Brooks, of Chestertown.

Luncheon At Kitty Knight House

Quaint old Kitty Knight house, located on Sassafras River at Georgetown, was the scene Wednesday afternoon of a charming bridge luncheon given by Mrs. John F. Stokes, of Sudlersville, for Mrs. Dudley G. Roe, Jr., who recently was married.

The luncheon took place at one o'clock and the charming old house, with its beautiful antiques was a fitting setting for the guests all of whom were charmingly gowned. The decorations were in two shades of yellow. Among the guests were:

Mrs. Atwater, Mrs. Kenny, Mrs. James G. Metcalfe, Mrs. J. Browne Metcalfe, Mrs. Scott Beck, Mrs. J. Thomas Kibler, Mrs. Philip G. Wilmer, Mrs. Harry P. Brown, Mrs. Frank B. Hines, Mrs. Eben F. Perkins, Mrs. William B. Wilmer and Mrs. Claude Truslow, Mrs. Thomas Massey and Mrs. Henry Evans, of Chestertown.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AND FAMILY REUNION

A surprise birthday party and family reunion was a very notable and enjoyable occasion celebrated in honor of Mrs. Emma Wheatley at her home near Galena, on Sunday last. The gathering was comprised of more than forty persons, relatives and friends, the immediate family of Mrs. Whiteley consisting of seven children, seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren, gathered from four states.

An interesting and perhaps unusual coincidence regarding the birth day feature of the party, was that the birth date of four members of the family occur on three successive dates.

A bountiful dinner, served in the good old Maryland style consisting of turkey, chicken and roast with all the "fixins," salads, fruits and cake was partaken of and enjoyed to the limit.

SPEAKS AT ROTARY CLUB

Walter C. Lowrie, vice principal of the accounting and business administration department of the Beacom Business College, Wilmington, was the speaker before the weekly meeting of the Chestertown Rotary Club here last Monday. Mr. Lowrie spoke on "The Heroic in Business."

J. W. Hirons, vice president of Beacom College and a former Chestertown, boy, accompanied the speaker here.

Mr. Lowrie is one of the leading after dinner speakers of Wilmington and in the past few weeks has delivered addresses before three service clubs.

DUCKS EATING THEIR HEADS OFF

Two millionaire sportsmen, with 3,800 tame wild ducks eating three squares a day, figure the only way they'll have any shooting this season is to put the ducks' food in a captive balloon and make them fly to get it.

The ducks, property of W. E. Corey, steel magnate, and Joseph F. Knapp, director of a score of large corporations, are making themselves comfortable on the millionaire's extensive preserves at Back Gay, Va., and Currituck Sound, N. C.

Mr. Knapp did it. He figured wild ducks could be raised like tame ones and attain wildness with maturity. But apparently whatever makes a wild duck wild faded before the prospect of regular meals and the companionship of wealthy men.

The 3,000 ducks, bred by experts in 18 months, refuse to fly. They waddle about the preserves or swim out to a boat, loaded with armed men, and greet their would-be slayers with derisive quacks.

Refusing to feed them doesn't work. Mr. Knapp tried it for two days and the birds sat down in protest and quacked so loudly that the entire community was aroused. They got their food again.

Mr. Knapp's friends are making various suggestions, one being that the ducks be catapulated out of traps, like clay pigeons.
