THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Kent County voters, on ballots in November, will find "For Constitutional Convention" and "Against Constitutional Convention."

The Maryland charter requires that the question of whether or not the people of Maryland want a new constitution must automatically be placed on the ballot every 20 years. The year of 1930 happens to be one of those years, hence the question.

There is hardly a doubt but that the question will poll a negative majority in the few votes cast on the subject, and therefore the discussion of the need of a new Constitution is hardly worthwhile.

FOX THE HERO

Chestertown and Kent County joins with Sudlersville in rejoicing over the victory of the Athletics. Jimmie Fox was the hero of the series as far as the routers here are concerned. Groves and Earnshaw made wonderful records as pitchers. Radios supplied a great need to fans who could not see the games.

SHORE COMMISSIONERS TO MEET IN EASTON

The fall meeting of the County Commissioners Association of the Easern Shore, which is composed of the commissioners of all the nine counties on the Eastern Shore, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Talbot, Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester will ge held in Easton on Thursday, October.

The sentiment on the Eastern Shore is almost unanimous for two homes, one on the Eastern Shore and the other on Western Shore. It may be necesasry to make a third in Southern Maryland.

23 COUPLES WED AT CHESTERTOWN

Twenty-three marriage licenses were issued here y by Clerk Robert A. Shallcross during the week ending Saturday, all the couples having been married by local clergymen. Peninsula couples were: Charles Thomas Goodway, 22, Camden, N. J., and Clara Thelma Campbell, 19, Wilmington, Del.; William D. Atallian, 21, and Helen L. McGuire, 18, Wilmington; Reese Walley, 33, and Rhoda Frisby, 28, Chestertown; Walter Stewart, 26, and Blanche Thomas, 18, Chestertown; J. Weldon Kelley, 21, and Doris F. Downey (consent filed), Rock Hall, Md.; John Daniel Niessner, 22, Berlin, N. J., and Margaret Anna Pflugfelder, 20, Williamstown, N. J.; William Cordray Hudson, 22, and Catherine V. Russell, 19, North East, Md.; Elmer H. Downes, 31, and Gladys Dennis, 19, Salisbury, Md.; Glenn McGrady, 27, Rising Sun, Md.; and Fay McFadden, 25, Port Deposit Md.; Joseph Thomas, 53, Chestertown and Julia Kocsis, 50, Rollistown, Pa.

The Kent Musical Society held their weekly meeting Tuesday evening with a membership present of fifty. Mrs. Smith, the teacher, was at her best and is bringing out some beautiful music. The first concert will be presented early in January. Admission to membership is still open. It surely is a great opportunity for the young people of this community who desire to sing good music and who love music.

TWO ALMSHOUSES URGED BY BOARDS

A conference of county almshouse commissions of the Western and Eastern Shores probably will be called to consider the advisability of recommending to the Legislature in January the establishment of a single State institution for the poor, or two—one for the Easter nand the other for the Western Shore—it was announced following a meeting of the almshouse commission for the Western Shore in Frederick last week.

After the meeting members of the commission visited Montevue Hospital the county almhouse; Odd Fellows' Home, North Market street extended, and Hood College. Col. W. Hopper Gibson, of Centreville, is chairman of the Eastern Shore Commission.

The conference was called for the purpose of discussing State care for the poor and the subject was discussed from every angle.

Dr. Frank O. Miller, chairman, of Ellicott City, presided and an address was made by Miss Lavinia Engle, of near Chevy Chase, Md., a candidate on the Democratic ticket in Montgomery county for the House of Delegates. Howard W. Cutler, architect, of Silver Spring, submitted a report on plans for a State institution.

Miss Engle suggested that the commission communicate with the commission on the Eastern Shore to determine the feasibility of the establishment of one institution to care for the poor instead of having county almhouses or to learn if the other commission would consider the plan of recommending to the Legislature the establishment of an institution on each Shore of Maryland.

The two commissions were appointed last year by Governor Ritchie for the purpose of determining whether the aged poor of the State had been given adequate provision and after making their recommendations probably will be discharged.

LOCAL PLANT WILL FINANCE

Mr. Dell Hendershott, local fieldman of the Supplee-Wills-Jones Company of Philadelphia, is arranging a plan whereby dairymen desiring to purchase feed (with which to keep their cows up in production) may arrange with their local plant manager for an order to buy such feed as they need, from their own dealer or wherever they may buy to best advantage. The Milk Company pays the dealer for the feed, deducting the cost of the feed from the milk check.

This is a practical step, available to all who can make use of the plan. It may not appeal to every producer, but will appeal to many who, due to drought, are short of available funds to pay cash for their feed, and who get a better price than if credit is granted.

The plan appeals to many in that it causes no upset in regular trade channels. It makes feed readily available to those who need it and desire it. It means that cows need not be upset by changing from one feed to another. The dealer renders a service to the producer by coming to his aid the period "between milk checks."

It will be recalled that the Drought Committee, through J. D. McVean, its secretary, urges the purchase of feeds while reduced freight rates are still effective (until October 31st.) The committee cites four reasons for securing hay at this time, viz:

1. Take advantage of the reduced freight rates.

2. Save the advance in price that is sure to come as the visible supply dwindles. There is a 15 per cent shortage of hay in the country as a whole.

3. Feed to save the market from Western producers and to make a "good basic," since the amount of basic milk influences the value of all the milk for the year.

4. Feed to keep the cow in fair condition and vigor so that they may respond when feed and pasture is again available.

It would seem advisable for farmers to make determined effort to secure their needs at this opportune time. Lack of evidence of desire to secure the hay slows effort to finance and adequate supply. The time for action is short. "Be Wise in Time."

SHORT WHEAT ACREAGE

Indications throughout the county are that the total wheat tillage in Kent this year will be cut materially because of the excessively dry weather. Farmers are experiencing the greatest difficulty in getting much of their fallow ground plowed because of the hardness of the soil, and it looks now as if the bulk of the growers will have to depend upon their corn ground for wheat seeding.

Very few have sown any wheat at all yet, and those who ventured to put their seed in the ground during September hoping to get a good stand for Winter pasture, are fearful that there is not sufficient moisture in the ground to cause the grain to sprout.
