TURKEY TOUR WELL ATTENDED

The fourth annual turkey tour, arranged by County Agent J. D. McVean, and Assistant, King and made up of growers from four States, took place Thursday. The tourists assembled on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. John Biggers, near Millington, for an inspection of their flock of about 800 breeders and stock birds. From there the tourists were conducted to the ranch of Albert Jervis, at Still Pond, where what is believed to be the largest flock of turkeys ever raised in the eastern section of the United States on one ranch, numbering 2,400 birds were viewed.

The tourists returned to Chestertown at noon, where lunch was served by the By-Kota Club of the Methodist Episcopal Church. From 1.45 to 2.30 in the afternoon a visit was made to the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Baker, in Quaker Neck, where 1,500 marketable birds and breeders were inspected. From 3 to 4, Professor W. H. Rice, extension poultry specialist from the University of Maryland gave a grading demonstration according to Government standards in William Smith Hall, Washington College.

The demonstration was followed by a general discussion of problems relating to the raising and selling of turkeys. Co-operating with the extension service of the University of Maryland in the arrangements for the tour were the Kent County Farm Bureau, the Maryland Turkey Growers' Association of Kent county, the Kent County Chamber of Commerce, and the growers.

Fine flocks, which owing to lack of time could not be visited on the tour, may be seen at the farms belonging to Mrs. W. B. Harris, Mrs. H. T. Williams, Mrs. Harry Willis, Mrs. A. E. Nicholoson, Mrs. W. H. Rambo and others.

"Lefty" Roe, an employe of the State Roads Commission, had his knee cap cracked in an accident on the road near Urieville early yesterday morning. He was carried to Easton Hospital.

Persons who know the most about the difficulties of printing newspapers by conventional methods will be impressed the least by predictions that some day newspapers will be "printed" in the home by radio.

Drug stores are going in for a greater variety of stock. Gosh! What's left them to expand on, unless it's real estate?

SERIES WINNERS GET $5,038 EACH

The 1930 world's series players pool derived from a major portion of the gate receipts for the first four games, only amounts to $323,865.50. It is the smallest in eight years and nearly $100,000 short of the high mark of $419,736.60, set in 1928, for the series between the Yankees and Cardinals.

Of the total amount of this pool, 70 per cent or $226,705.85 goes to the contending Athletics, and Cardinals on a basis of 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser.

Figured on the basis of a split-up on 27 shares by each team, the winners' money, $136,023.51, will mean $5,038 for each player on the victorious side. The losers' end of the purse $90,682.34, divided on the same basis, will mean $3,358 per full share

The A's and Cards, therefore in addition to the honor attached battled it out for the difference of approximately $1,700 per man and the Athletics won out.

The remaining 30 per cent of the total pool or $97,159.65 will be spread among the second, third and fourth place clubs of each league.

The split for the other clubs as follows: $24,289.99 each for the Chigo Cubs and Washington Senators the second place teams; $16,198.33 each for the New York Giants and Yankees, third place outfits; and $1,096.66 each for the Brooklyn Robins and Cleveland Indians.

Depending on how it is divided, but estimating on the same basis as the series contenders, each player on the second place clubs will receive nearly $1,000, with about $600 for each player on a third place club and around $300 for each fourth place performer.

46 KILLED IN AIR

The British airship R-101, leviathan of the air, crashed on a wooded hillside south of Beauvais, France, shortly after 2 A. M. Sunday, caught afire, and was destroyed.

Of the fifty-four persons aboard, forty-six either were killed by the impast or burned to death. Eight were saved. The passengers killed included the British Air Minister, Lord Thomson, and the director of commercial aviation, Sir Seften Brancker.

The disaster, the greatest the air has known since the French airship Dixmude cruised over the Mediterranean with fifty-two persons aboard in December, 1923, never to return, occurred as the giant ship, the largest in the world and sister to the R-100 which visited America last July, sailed southeastward across France on its maiden voyage of any length, a trip to India and return.

A heavy wind and rainstorm, which the airship encountered shortly after it crossed the English Channel, was believed to account for the disaster. Weighted by the rain, the dirigible lost buoyancy and finally bumped against the ground once or twice south of Beauvais. Then it struck the hillside there, and in ten seconds had caught fire and was a blazing inferno.

Officials of the Kent County Farm Bureau of which E. Thomas Massey is president, have begun a movement looking to an inquisitorial analysis of the county's annual expenses with a view to having them reduced, and also favoring a State income tax that wil' make possible a reduction of land and agricultural personal property taxes.

The bureau is composed of 300 tenant farmers and landowners in Kent county.

In the view of scientists who measure distance by light years, the earth was all but scraped by a small comet a week or so ago. We may feel easier however, under assurance that this "wheel's length escape" was by some 6,000,000 miles.

DEATHS

Miss Ella Watkins died Saturday evening at the country home of her nieces, Mrs. Emory Bonwill, three miles from Chestertown, aged 71. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Watkins, of Baltimore, where she made her home prior to her removal here with her sister, the late Mrs. James H. Brice. She has lived with her niece for some years and endeared herself to all with whom she came into contact.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon, from the home of her niece, conducted by Rev. John White, rector of old St. Paul's P. E. Church, interment in Chester cemetery. The bearers were Julian Jones, Wm. H. Bonwill, C. D. Hicks, Thos. H. Bryan Wilmer Watkins, Fred. G. Usilton; C. L. Dodd, undertaker.

Thomas P. Bradley passed away at his late home in Still Pond Saturday morning in his 72nd year. Mr. Bradley was one of our most highly respected citizens, a man of sterling character, devoted to his home and community.

As an occupation he followed farming successfully till the last few years when he moved to Still Pond and has lived a retired life yet active in everything that would help his community. Mrs. Bradley's devotion and constant care and attention to him through his late illness was a devotion of love. He is survived by his wife, nee Gertrude Jewell, and one nephew, Arthur Bradley, of Baltimore.

Funeral service was held at his late home in Still Pond Monday afternoon at 2 P. M., Rev. S. S. Hepbron, officiated. B. R. Fellows, undertaker; interment Still Pond Cemetery. Pall bearers were Joseph Norris, Albert Jervis, Bennie Herbert, Gale Rasin, Percy Hepbron, Julian Lawler.

Samuel H. Buckworth, aged 78 years, a well-known resident and retired farmer, was found dead in the yard at his home near Cayott's Corner, Wednesday morning, October 1. Death was due to heart trouble. Mr. Buckworth was a widower, his wife having died about ten years ago. He is survived by two sons and two daughters. Charles, of the Second district; Howard, of Delaware; Anna, wife of A. Lindell Beaston, of Galena, and Mary, wife of Harry George, of near Kimblesville, Pa.

HIGH PRICE BIRD

Talbot county poultrymen attended the cockerel show at Denton on Tuesday last. Mrs. W. W. Hopkins, of Cordova, bought a barred Plymouth Rock cockerel at the sale for $18, the highest price paid. Mrs. Howard Hubbard also purchased two fine birds, the price being $10.

There were 60 birds offered, but not all of them were sold. One Leghorn rooster was offered for sale which is said to be out of the hen which won the egg-laying contest last year at College Park. The bidding was not high enough, and the bird was withdrawn.

Another high-priced bird, said to be related to a bird which brought over $1,000 was not sold. The bidding was too low.
