LOCAL NOTES.....

A low bid of $25,250 for 10.33 miles of concrete shoulders from Chestertown through Kennedyville toward Locust Grove was made by Field, Baker & Underwood, of Philadelphia. The bid was one of ten opened Tuesday at the office of the State Road Commission in Baltimore.

One of the big improvements to Chestertown property is the repainting of the Kent-Bibb House owned by Thos. W. Eliason. Mr. E. also had the homestead and adjoining property occupied by John Hilyard repainted. Ym. Benjamin and helpers, did the work.

A tanker, sunk last week off Poole's Island, has been pulled into Worton Creek, Kent county, where it is being floated and the damage repaired.

The public sales this week have been well attended but prices have been low on most of the offerings. Cows have been selling for $60 to $100 while horses only bring around $50 and $75. This is better than a Queen Anne's sale where a pair of mules only brought $15.

John H. Clendaniel, dealer in timber, residing in Chestertown, was painfully injured when a large log which he was assisting in handling fell on one of his hands severing the end of a finger. He is under the care of a physician.

The Board of County Commissioners has purchased a road machine costing $400 for use in scraping and repairing the slag roads which have recently been completed in the county. The machine is similar to those now in use in Delaware and County Board Engineer Gilbert B. Taylor states that with favorable weather the entire 50 miles of slag roads in the county can be scraped in a week.

Postmaster Wm. G. Smyth, who accompanied a party of friends from Chestertownto the races held in connection with the annual regatta of the Miles River Yacht Club at St. Michaels on Friday and Saturday, was stricken with ptomaine poison Friday evening. The Kent county ambulance was sent to St. Michaels and the patient was brought to his home here where he soon recovered He was at his office Monday.

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company Band was awarded first prize at the parade Tuesday night in connection with the annual carnival of the Church Hill Fire Company.

Ray S. McKee has moved into his new residence on the Skipper farm, near Chestertown. He has bought 10 acres from Mr. Skipper and will engage in the chicken business. Stavely and Bowers were the contractors.

Help for Centreville cannery went thru Chestertown Thursday. It required a half dozen large busses and several trucks.

Kent Boys Win Nathan Cup

Every time anyone builds an attractive new house, and most new houses are attractive, something is done to make a community more pleasing to people. If the citizens of a town want to see their home place develop, they need in most cases to set aside some portion of their savings and capital to erect new dwellings. New homes, put up with all the recent improvements. seem so very attractive to people, that a lot of them want to move in right off when they see such a house. When a town has plenty of such new homes, it is a wonderful aid toward the growth of that community.

AMOS-ANDY SIGN UP FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Amos 'n Andy are to be on the job another year.

Renewal of contracts with the National Broadcasting Company to continue their broadcasts over two networks each night has been effected, according to available information. Whether there would be a "raise" in the reported $125,000 they received for the first year as chain features could not be ascertained. There is to be no change in the sponsor.

Amos, who is Freeman Gosden and Andy, who is Charles J. Correll when away from the microphone, soon will have been on the air five years. On August 17 they will have completed their first year on a nationwide network.

FIRST REGIMENT FIGHTS SNAKES AT CASCADE

Camp Richie, Cascade, Md.—Members of the First regiment, Maryland national guard, encamped here are having a taste of battle conditions in the war against copperheads and rattlesnakes.

The snakes have been driven down from the mountains by the drought. While marching to the rifle range members of one company killed eight copperheads and two rattlers.

The Medical Detachment of the First Maryland Infantry, with headquarters in Chestertown, now in camp at Camp Albert C. Ritchie, is due home on Sunday, Aug. 17.

HOUSE BURNED

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company was called out about 6 P. M., on Tuesday to fight a blaze that eventually destroyed the house on the Grollman Farm, on Worton Point, tenanted by George W. Wheat, now owned by Mr. Copeland, of Wilmington.

The blaze, which is said to have started in the kitchen, proved too much for the local firemen after water from a well had been exhausted. The property destroyed was valued at $3500 and was partly covered by insurance.

The farm was formeriy owned by the late Hon. Wm. M. Slay and has changed hands several times since sold by him. It overlooks the Chesapeake Bay but the firemen were unable to put their engine in a position. to pump water from the Chesapeake.

A bed afire in a colored home on Railroad avenue caused the Chestertown Firemen to be called last Sunday evening. The blazing matress was removed from the house and little damage done.

Requesting an ordinance compelling pasteurization of all milk sold in Salisbury, Dr. H. S. Hurdle, physician in charge of the local Department of Health office, told Mayor and City Council Monday night that it was the only positive way of preventing a recurrence of the typhoid epidemic now prevalent.
