KENT COUNTY SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Marietta Loud, for a number of years a teacher in the Chestertown Elementary School, has been named as principal of that school for the next year in the place of Prof. Morris L. Stier, who has resigned.

Miss Loud is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Loud, of Chestertown, and taught in other sections of the county before being transferred to the local school some years ago.

David McMenamin has received notice that he has been appointed principal of the new $150,000 Alfred I. duPont School on the Concord Pike, Wilmington, Del. The building is a gift to the State from Mr. duPont and will be occupied for the first time this September. Prof. McMenamin has been teaching at Delaware College in Newark, Del.

Daniel W. Ingersoll, Jr., was awarded the Orphans' Court scholarship to Washington College, following the marking of papers in a competitive examination conducted for the purpose of filling the scholarship.

Blanche L. Hurd was awarded the Kent County Board of Education scholarship to Western Maryland College and Arthur J. Downey was awarded a scholarship to the same college by the Board.

The Board of Education awarded the Blue Ridge College scholarship to Elizabeth Dill and the Charlotte Hall Academy award went to Bill Beck Matthews.

Mrs. Lorraine Williams, of Worton, will be transferred from Worton to the Chestertown school. Other changes will be noted next week.

PAID $3 ABOVE PAR

The semi-annual statement of the Kent Building and Loan Company, published elsewhere in this issue, shows this institution to be in a prosperous condition. The 47th series of instalment stock which matured June 30, was liquidated at $103 per share, or $3.00 per share above par. A new issue of stock, the 60th series, was opened Monday night, July 7, with subscriptions aggregating an increase above the number retired. The installment stock of this company is payable 25 cents weekly for each share representing $100 at maturity. Shareholders are enabled to borrow money to build or buy homes, upon liberal terms, and the operation of the company during its existence of nearly thirty years, has proven a great incentive to thrift and frugality resulting in the owning of homes and other property by many in the community who otherwise would have continued as renters. In addition to the installment stock the company also issues full paid stock upon which interest at the rate of 5 per cent. is paid. The officers of the company are: L. Bates Russell, president; Fred G. Usilton, vice president; Chas. N. Satterfield, secretary-treasurer; John D. Urie, counsellor. These with James H. Sides, Charles S. Smith and Arlington L. Sparks comprise the directorate.

The thresher belonging to James Baxter took fire Tuesday on the farm of Newnam Evans and was totally destroyed. Fortunately no grain was lost and the burning machine was pulled away from the stack. Mr. Baxter purchased another machine and started work next morning without loss of any time.

The Old Line Construction Company of Chestertown, was the lowest bidder on 3.03 miles of road from McAlisters' Corner—Wesley Church, Sussex county. Their bid was $46,922.

CAMP CARVEL ON THE CHESTER RIVER

The beautifuily situated Camp Carvel on the Chester River, near Chestertown, on the Kratzer Manor, open en its second season on Tuesday of this week with eleven campers.

The camp is under the direction of Mrs. Richard Carvel, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Shaughnessy and the counselors are: Miss Olga Lofgren, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Cameilla Greetham, of Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss Sheldon Mackey, of Bethlehem, Pa.

Those attending the camp are: Betty Price, Ridgewood, N. J.; Ellen Skinner, and Mary Alice Emory, Bronville, N. P.; Barbara Hofman, Emmitsburg, Md.; Jane Brower, Philadelphia, Pa,, and Betty Beck, Elizabeth Fontaine, Patience Pyle, Phoebe Pyle, Willer Newnam, and Mary Margaret Eliason, of Chestertown.

A terrific hail storm visited the section of country between Cecilton and Bohemia bridge Wednesday night and did much damage to crops.

CHAMBER DINNER A SUCCESS

The Kent County Chamber of Commerce held its Sixth Semi-Annua. Dinner at Hotel Chesapeake, Betterton Maryland on the evening of Wednesday July 9th, with nearly one-hundred guests present.

The purpose of this get-together was to sound out the agricultural and business interests of Kent to see if the time would be ripe this Fall to hold a Kent County Products Show. After a discussion and outline of the plan a vote was taken on the question and carried.

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, president of the Chamber, was toast-master and introduced the speakers of the evening Mr. Thomas Roy Brookes of Bel Air, secretary of the Harford County Fair and State Grange organizer sketched the procedure of the Harford Fair and presemnted both the bright and dark sides of the picture. Professor Charles S. Reynolds of the University of Maryland gave an interesting talk on what a Products Show can mean to a community. Mr. James D. McVean briefly sketched the tentative plan for a Kent Products Show of which he is bearing the burden of general chairmanship. Dr. Titsworth invited new memberships in the Organization and announced the extent of the publicity the county is receiving through its new road program as completed this year. Closing the meeting Mrs. Evelyn Harris reminded the guests that the dinner was in part a farewell to Dr. Titsworth who is sailing for Europe on July 11.

Mr. Jack Owens, proprietor of Hotel Chesapeake served an elaborate menu which was greatly enjoyed The dining room was beautifully decorated with flowers from the hothouses of Rumsey Anthony and Cunningham's Five furnished the music for the occasion.

GALENA WINS IN BASE BALL

At the close of the first half of the Chesapeake Bay League season Galena is sitting on top of the heap. With honors even between Galena and St. Georges, Del., the local outfit defeated Kennedyville and the Blue Hen State contingent was swamped by Newark.

The race for second-half honors is on and the winner of the final period will meet Galena for the championship. After dropping the first two games Galena came back to win eight straight tilts. Manager Richard Woodall and his crew are rarin' to go, with St. Georges running a close second for honors.

Middletown still occupies the cella position, with Kennedyville, Cecilton and Newark running a neck and-neck race for third place.

One of the outstanding pitchers being developed by the six-club loop is Earle Coleman, 19, who has big-league aspirations. A veteran of the Dover staff, the Eastern Shore hurler is going strong with the Chesapeake loop and hopes next year to connect with the Blue Ridge League.

Loller and Williams, heavy swatters of the Kennedyville club, are among the foremost performers with the willow and the former, veteran of many an Eastern Shore diamond struggle, is doing yeoman service on the mound in addition to holding his own at bat.

President Norman A. Wallen, of Millington, has taken over the temporary management of the league in place of the Rev. Jos. R. Baird, of Kennedyville, resigned. A permanent league head soon will be chosen.

KENNEDYVILLE SWAMPS GALENA IN LEAGUE TILT

After attaining the highest average in the Chesapeake Bay League at the close of the first half of the season, local flingers were swamped under a barage of hits from the heavy-swatting Kennedyville club and went down under a 15-to-4 defeat.

A series of hits by Tobin, Crew, Smith, Loller, Archibald and Williams drove six runs across the pla in the fourth inning after Bill Johnston had relieved Hadlay on the mound for the home team.

The relief pitcher was touched for four tallies in the sixth and three more in the ninth with Williams and Loller continuing their stick work. Loller, hurling for the visitors, held the league leaders well in hand.

Thomas G. Wroth, who died at his home here recently, left an estate valued at more than $150,000 and which his son, Dr. B. Blackiston Wroth, has been appointed administrator under his will. Several years ago Mr. Wroth divided the bulk of his etsate among his widow and two children.

Chesapeake Bay Bridge Endorsed

The executive boards of the Delmarva Eastern Shore Association stand committeed as favoring the general plan for construction of a toll bridge across the Chesapeake Bay to be carried out by the State "if necessary."

Action of the county vice-president and board of governors in approving the proposal at a meeting in Salisbury late Monday was announced by Edwin C. Totten, executive secretary.

A resolution offered by a special committee of the association appointed several months ago was approved. It reads as follows:

"Whereas the needs of modern life require more rapid, flexible and continuous transportation facilities between the Delmarva peninsula and the Western Shore of Maryland in order to advance the economic and social welfare of all our people and

'Whereas careful engineering estimates of bridge construction and traffic reveal the feasibility of building a bridge between Bay Shore and Tolchester, and

"Whereas seventy per cent of the taxable basis of the State of Maryland lies within the immediate area of the proposed bridge heads—that is in Kent county, Baltimore county, and Harford county, and Baltimore city;

"We, the Delmarva Eastern Shore Association, look with favor upon the construction and maintenance by the State, if necesasry, of the bridge which the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Company has already received national and State authorization to construct, or upon any other construction at some other point if such different construction and location should prove to the best interest of the Chesapeabe Bay Company, with the understanding that such construction shall cost a reasonable sum and shall be operated as a toll bridge."

The special committee which had been instructed to investigate the feasibility of the project was headed by Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, Chestertown.

Other members were: Lawrence B. Towers, Denton; Fred P. Adkins, Salisbury; Edwin H. Brown, Jr., Centreville; Charles C. Gelder, Princess Anne; W. D. Corddry, Snow Hill; Milford Nathan, Cambridge, and Charles H. Bradley, Easton.

While the meeting was called primarily to act on the bridge project, several other matters of importance were also considered.

Those attending from Kent were Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, Harry C. Willis, Marion deK. Smith and Conlyn E. Noland.

Five Chestertown men were named members of the board of governors of the Delmarva Eastern Shore Association by Senator Louis A. Drexler, of Dover, president of the Association: R. H. Collins, W. B. Copper, C. E. Noland, Dr. Paul E. Titsworth and Harry C. Willis.

The Queen Anne's county list includes the name of W. Irving Walker, of the Rich Neck section of that county, near Chestertown.

Announce Stollenwerck-duPont Wedding.

Announcement was made Thursday of the engagement of Lammont duPont and Mrs. Carolene Hynson Stollenwerck, daughter of Mrs. Rodgers Wilson, of 1301 Franklin street, Wilmington, and the late Richard D. Hynson, of Chestertown, Md.

Mr. duPont is president of the E. I. duPont deNemours Company. Mrs. Stollenwerck is the widow of E. Carroll Stollenwerk, of Baltimore, and now lives with her son at Scarsdale, N. Y. Mrs. Stollenwerck's son is now at Camp Red Cloud in the Pocono Mountains for the summer.

The following graduates of the college last June have been appointed to teaching positions: Miss Elizabeth Titsworth, instructor in English and French, Lewes (Del.) High School; Miss Jane White, instructor in French and Latin, Pocomoke High School; Miss Myrtle Bryant, instructor in English, Oxford High School; Elmer L. Bennett, instructor in the Bridgeville (Del.) High School; Laura D. Wooters, instructor in Latin in Talbot county; James H. Clow, instructor in English, Crisfield High School; Bernice P. Wooters, instructor in Bridgeville (Del.) High School; Thomas V. Warthen, instructor in science in St. Michaels High School.

ROTARY INSTALLS OFFICERS'

An interesting meeting of the Chestertown Rotary Club was held last Monday night at the Maryland Inn. The new officers of the club: W. Robt. Huey, President; Clinton C. Jones, Vice President, and A. S. Turner, Jr., Secretary, were installed.

Wm. B. Usilton, the retiring president, was given a number of remembrances of appreciation of his services. Among them being a silver Rotary button. Short addresses were made in presenting the tokens by Paul E. Titsworth, J. S. Kreeger, C. E. Noland and A. S. Turner, Jr.

A short talk was given by Walter N. Kirkman, of the Baltimore Rotary Club. He is head of the State Purchasing Bureau.

GUESTS UNAWARE OF FIRE

The Cheaspeake House, one of the largest and oldest hotels in Betterton, narrowly escaped destruction by fire Friday when a blaze discovered near the kitchen chimney set fire to the woodwork and burned a large hole in the floor of the kitchen before being extinguished. The Chestertown Fire Department sent two of its large trucks to the scene of the fire. The loss was trifling. There was no confusion among the 100 or more guests who were being entertained over the week-end, who knew scarcely anything about the blaze until put out.

Thieves entered the garage of Lee and Barnes on the Chestertown-Tolchester boulevard one night the past week and robbed the strong box of $50. The proprietors have no clue to the indentity of the thieves.

Democratic Rally; 10,000 Expected

Accommodations for at least 10,000 persons are being planned for the Democratic get-together and Ritchie rally to be held at Tolchester on July 22, it was said by officers of the organization sponsoring the affair.

The rally is the outgrowth of annual excursions held by the United Democratic Club of the Eighteenth Ward and the Stonewall Democratic Club of South Baltimore, and will include this year's representations from the nine Eastern Shore counties and Harford county. The city organizations expect to send at least 5,000 excursionists to the resort and an equal number of county Democrats are planning to attend.

Executive management of the excursion and rally is in the hands of Edward Gross, Clerk of the Criminal Court and president of the Eighteenth Ward Club, and Gilbert A. Dailey, president of the Stonewall organization.

Governor Ritchie and another Democrat prominent in national affairs will be the speakers. The latter has not been selected to date.

The excursionists will make the trip from Baltimore on a chartered boat. Those from the Shore counties will go to the resort in automobiles.

A flotilla of private boats from Baltimore and the Eastern Shore, it is planned, will meet the State steamer Governor McLane, on which the Governor and his party will make the trip, and escort it to Tolchester.

The program for the day includes a concert by The Evening Sun Newsboys Band, games and a barbecue lunch. The games will be under the supervision of officials of the Playground Athletic League.

The day is to be called Democratic Day, and during the rally it is expected that the preliminary organization of the Governor's campaign will get under way.

Committeemen who will arrange for the delegations from the counties are as follows: Thomas H. Robinson and Robert H. Archer, Harford county; Benjamin Decker, Emerson Crothers and Omar Crothers, Cecil county; S. Scott Beck, Kent county; Dudley G. Roe, Queen Anne's county, Emerson C. Harrington, Dorchester county; T. Clayton Horsey, Nelson H. Fooke and T. Alan Goldsborough, Caroline county; Louis N. Milbourne, Hadring G. Tull, Lorie C. Quinn and Wallace Quinn, Somerset county; Mason W. Shehan, W. Earle Withgott and Henry Turner, Talbot county; Wm. S. Gordy and Jesse D. Price, Wicomico county; Frank P. Bratten, James W. Crockett, W. W. McCabe and Marion T. Hargis, Worcester county.

The Kent local committee is composed of Messrs. Wm. B. Copper, H. W. Vickers, Elsworth Leary, Elmer S. Jarman, Clarence Newsome and B. Raymond Sutton.
