The Circuit Court for Kent County will convene next Monday. Judge Keating is still unable to serve on the bench. Hon. Lewin W. Wickes has been at Denton Court alone for the past two weeks. There are 24 prisoners in jail awaiting trial.

DEMOCRATS GET TOGETHER

At a conference of representatives of the two factions of the Democratic party held in the law library on Tuesday afternoon it was unanimously decided to bury past differences and to support a divided ticket in the general election in November. Twofold purpose of this agreement is primarily to bring about a united effort of all elements of the party for the success of the Democratic ticket in the fall and also to avoid the cost to the taxpayers of a primary contest which leaves nothing in its wake but bitter political enmities and social estrangements. It was conceded by those attending the conference that the natural reaction to a movement of this kind in Democratic politics in the county would be a wide diversity of opinion and much criticism of the methods employed to produce the desired results, but viewed from the standpoint of the welfare of the party both in the county and State in the approaching election as well as in the future, the movement on the part of those who were instrumental in bringing about a coalition of forces of the party is the wisest move that can be made. It is apparent that the people of Kent County are weary of the bitter strife which has characterized Democratic primaries in past years, and it is believed that the decision of the representatives of the two factions to bring about harmony through the selection of a well balanced ticket composed of representative citizens in the county will meet with the unqualified approval of the taxpayers as well as of all Democrats in the county who sincerely have the welfare of their party at heart. According to the decision reached at the conference on Tuesday composed of an equal number of representatives of each faction and which action was afterwards ratified by the county-wide representative meetings of the factions the ticket will be apportioned in such manner as to give the Beck faction the State Senator, one member of the House, State's Attorney, Register of Wills, Three Judges of the Orphans' Court, six members of the State Central Committee, and three delegates to the State Convention, while the Copper faction will get the three members of the Board of County Commissioners, Clerk of the Court, Sheriff, County Treasurer, and one member of the House, each faction being empowered to select its own candidates. We urge the party to present a united front for the election of the ticket that will be nominated.

There is every reason for the compromise and Kent county will be benefited in every way.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

Wm. A. Burk, who is a candidate for Town Commissioner, of Chestertown, has been a liberal man to the town. He has given land in three different parts of the town to straighten and improve these places. He has been a tax payer in Chestertown over forty years, and he has paid taxes to help lay every foot of cement the town has laid. Now he hopes the tax payers will help him put a walk up Cannon street, so people can get to his place of business without wading through mud. Wm. A. BURK. a19

The Modern Funeral

The methods and systems in vogue a few years ago, and still adhered to by many, are no longer applicable. In this age and generation a better understanding of the duties of the funeral director has changed the old order. One of the most difficult problems confronting the modern funeral director will be solved when the public realizes that SERVICE is the principal, and in fact, only commodity which we have to offer.

The casket and funeral appurtenances are negligible, or practically so, requiring little or no expense and, in the matter of expense, consist only with the costs of production.

Service is the main consideration—the care and disposition of the body of the one that has passed on. Knowledge and ability and a readiness to relieve the burden of those who are left to mourn.
