Royal Swan's New $50,000 Golf Links

The Chesapeake Bay front of Maryland's Eastern Shore will have one of the finest golf courses in the east when the $50,000 18-hole course being constructed by the Royal Swan Club of Philadelphia and Wilmington in Kent County, at the junction of the Sassafras River and the Chesapeake Bay, is officially opened Decoration Day, May 30.

The announcement of the opening date was made at a meeting of the officers and directors of the club at the duPont Biltmore Tuesday night.

Many prominent yachting and golfing enthusiasts of Wilmington and Philadelphia are members of the club. Decision to construct the golf course and build a yacht basin along the Lloyd's Creek in Kent County, Maryland, was reached at a meeting of the club last year. The permanent clubhouse planned by the club will be erected at an approximate cost of $100,000.

The opening of the new golf course said to be one of the finest in the East, promises, according to J. H. Van Sciver, president and others at the meeting Tuesday night to be a real gala occasion. Many of the best professional and amateur golfers in the country will be present to tee off. A special program of matches and other golf play is being arranged. William Mack, well known golfer of Tredyffrin, Pa., has been engaged as the professional for the club.

The yacht basin has been dredged to a depth of seven feet and will harbor more than 100 boats. A number of buoys have been purchased to mark the channel and the Federal government is expected to grant the club a light buoy.

In order to accommodate the huge crowds expected for the official opening of the links, Decoration Day, a hotel at Betterton, which is just 20 minutes distance by motor, will be leased. The same hotel will also be used until the proposed new clubhouse is constructed as a club headquarters, the present temporary club house being insufficient to meet the demands of the members.

SHOREMEN TO MEET

The Kent County Board of County Commissioners will be host to the Eastern Shore County Commissioners' Association at a meeting in Chestertown Thursday, April 17.

Samuel J. Johnson, president of the Kent Board, said preparations were being made to entertain 100 members and special guests at a dinner which will be served in the Chestertown Armory by the women of St. James' Methodist Protestant Church.

There will be a round table discussion of topics of county government of mutual interest to all counties on the Shore. The association is composed of members of the boards of County Commissioners from all of the nine counties on the Shore.

DOROTHY REDDING FATALY INJURED

The News records another fatal automobile accident which occurred on the Quaker Neck road Saturday afternoon near Hubbard's factory gate. Dorothy Redding, the 8-year-old daughter of Aaron Redding, of Chestertown, was the victim being run over by an automobile driven by Frank B. Hines, Jr., of this place son of Major Frank B. Hines, chief surgeon of the First Maryland Infantry. A jury called by Corpner Harry L. Dodd exonerated young Hines of all blame following the girl's death in Easton Emergency Hospital.

The child ran in front of an automobile driven by young Hines. The latter is 19 years old and a University of Maryland student, who was home for the week-end.

The car was ladened with Washington College students, when the accident occurred on Queen street extended. Hines ran into a ditch in order to avoid the accident, it was revealed at the inquest, but the girl was knocked down, her skull fractured and her back broken. She was taken to the office of Dr. Hines by young Hines at once and Dr. Hines did all he could for her and then carried her to Easton Hospital where she died Sunday morning.

Dr. H. P. Copeland, a local physician, was the only witness aside from the occupants, of the car, to the accident, and he testified the accident was unavoidable.

FIRST BAY BRIDGE HEARING APRIL 16

Three angles of the discussion concerning the proposed $10,000,000 Chesapeake bay bridge will be heard at the first public hearing before the State Bridge Commission April 16.

The committee on procedure will arrange details of the meeting, which will call engineers who planned the bridge, those who favor the Sandy Point-Kent Island site, and representative of the Annapolis-Claiborne Ferry Company.

This will give the committee an insight into the views of those favoring the proposed site from Miller's Island to a point near Tolchester, those who favor another site, and the interests of existing transportation between the Eastern and Western Shores.

The committee on procedure includes B. Howell Griswold, Jr., chairman ex-officio; Emerson C. Harrington, former Governor; Randolph Barton, Jr.; J. Frank Harper, executive secretary of the Public Service Commission, and former State Senator Edgar Allan Poe.

WASHINGTON WINS

The Washington College baseball team won its initial baseball game here last Saturday by defeating the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy 7 to 2.

Griffin, pitching for Washington, held his opponents scoreless, while he worked as did Cary, a freshman, who followed him. Osteopathy scored both their runs in the ninth inning off a recruit pitcher after one out. Alexander and Robinson divided the catching assignment and both turned in creditable performances. Osteopathy's pitcher had trouble finding the plate and Washington bunched hits with his walks to score its runs.

The last of series of intercollegiate debates on the subject: Resolved, That the United States should withdrawn from the Kellogg Peace Pact was won here Friday night by the Washington College team. The local debaters took the affirmative over St. John's College, of Annapolis.

Local speakers were Elmer Bennett, Nelson Harley and J. H. Clow. Visiting speakers were Charles Robinson, Roland Blaul and James Geck-nack.

GEO. MITCHELL CONFESSES

Sheriff J. T. Hadaway and Deputy Lee arrested George Mitchell on a nearby farm at Fairlee last Friday morning. He was put through a grilling and late that afternoon made a confession of the beating and robbing Alfred L. Baker, of Fairlee, on Wednesday night. Mitchell is about 30 years of age and lives with Ida Wright near the scene of the robbery. He said he was out of work and had seen Baker handling money in Bramble's store the night of the assault. He laid in wait for him and after beating him with a stout stick, robbed him of the money. He employed a lawyer and paid a fee of $75 and put the balance in the weatherboarding of the house. The officer found the $25 as stated and his lawyer corrobrated the $75 payment. He denied any connection or knowledge of the Ivens or Lieberman robberies. Mitchell was raised from a child by Harry Rash but left him some years ago.

Barn And Stable Are Blown Down

An unusual wind storm accompanied by rain, hail, lightning and thunder visited Kent county at noon Monday doing considerable damage in several places. John Carvil Sutton, tenant on the E. B. Pennington farm, near Kennedyville, reports serious damage.

Sweeping out of the west the terrific wind completely demolished a silo, badly wrecked a barn and twisted and damaged trees in a nearby apple orchard. Fortunately, no one was hurt.

Trees were uprooted and twisted and branches were blown loose as limbs crashed from the trees. A silo directly in the path of the twister, was lifted from its foundation and crashed to the ground, a complete wreck. One side of a 150-foot barn and part of the roof of the same building, which was erected in 1887, were blown loose. A shed housing several calves was toppled inward, imprisoning the cattle. The roof of a small stable for a registered and viscious bull was lifted from the walls of the building and blown into a nearby field.

Directly in the path of the storm, and a short distance from the damaged property, was the farm house of Mr. and Mrs. George Sutton. The twister either lifted or had spent its fury when it reached that house. A few shutters were blown loose but that was the extent of the damage.

The farm, on which the damage occurred, is owned by Miss Elizabeth Pennington and Mrs. George Sutton, jointly. John C. Sutton, who operates the farm, estimated the loss at about $2,000 without any storm insurance.

A large barn on the farm of James A. French, at Hanesville, was torn from its foundation and large shade trees on the property of John T. Moffett nearby were uprooted.

A poultry house owned by Martin Wagner, of Rock Hall, was wrecked by the storm and in various sections of the county small buildings were blown down and much damage done to shade trees.

A large stained window in Bethel A. M. E. Church was blown out and broken.

FIRST CANDIDATE TO FILE IN KENT COUNTY

Ex-Sheriff George W. Carter, Jr., on Thursday paid his $25.00 and filed as a candidate for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. The primaries will be held in September.

HOLD CLERK IN THEFT OF $5867

After having been presented by the grand jury on charges of stealing $5,867.47 from the University of Maryland Medical School, Robert R. Ayres surrendered at the Central Police Station Friday night. Ayres is employed as clerk at the school.

After the return of the presentment Judge Robert F. Stanton, in the Criminal Court, set bail at $7500.

The money was found missing on February 28. It had been placed in a locked strong box in the safe at the office of the medical school the night before and represented students' tuition fees.

Dr. Heatwold investigated and then reported to Captain Burns. Later members of the State auditor's office checked the books of the school and as a result a man was questioned by Mr. Stewart with the hope he might throw some light on the theft.

It developed, however, that the man declined to answer most of the questions on the ground that to do so might incriminate him.

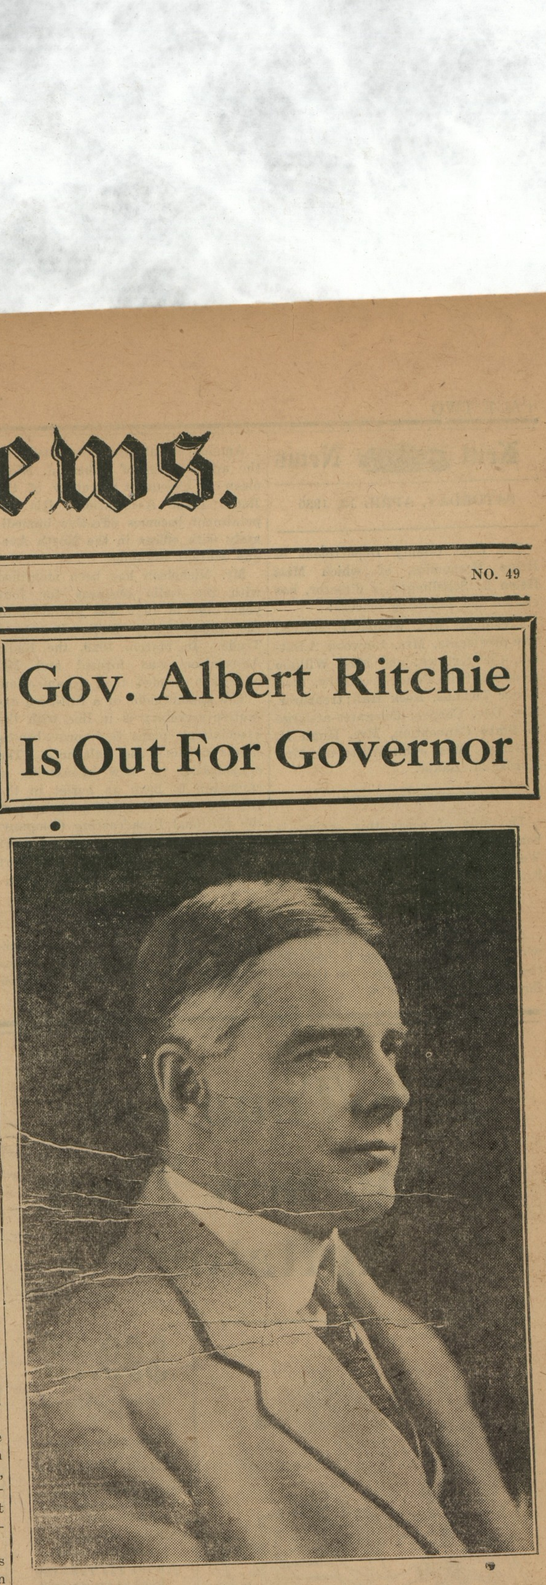

According to detectives, the thief apparently knew the combination of the safe and had a key to the strong box. Neither lock, it was said, bore evidence of having been forced.

Mr. Ayres' many friends in Kent sympathize with him in this case. We learn from good authority that the testimony against him is very poor and that the State admits they have only flimsy evidence.

The people of Chestertown and vicinity will be treated next week to special programs of music. Emmanuel P. E. Church will present a sacred cantata at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Church. Thursday evening a visiting choir will present a musical program in M. E. Church. Palm Sunday will be observed in all the churches with appropriate sermons and music. Why not attend these services?

I. Hollins & Co., manufacturers and distributors of the factory clothing line, advertise in this issue of the Kent News, their Spring opening at their Millington Department Store. Men and boys' Spring suits, dainty ladies' gowns, new coats, new daytime frocks, silk dresses, swagger coats, etc., and at low prices.

Gov. Albert Ritchie Is Out For Governor

Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, will be a candidate for renomination. This announcement dispels a doubt that has existed, although it was believed the governor would yield to importunities that have been made, that he seek a fourth term.

Governor Ritchie, who is now serving his third consecutive term as chief executive of our State, has, during his incumbency, made a decidely creditable record. He has applied himself to the job continuously regardless of personal considerations, and what he has done, he has been instrumental in having done, has left no doubt of his interest in the welfare of the State and its people.

We see no impropriety in a fourth term for a governor who has given such a splendid account of his stewardship; who has done such constructive work, or who has such a keen conception of the needs of the commonwealth as has Maryland's executive.

In announcing that he was candidate for the Democratic nomination for a fourth term as Governor of Maryland, Governor Ritchie Monday made the following statement:

I will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland.

I have made this decision only after very long consideration. This has not been at all to any uncertainty about the way I regard the Governorship of Maryland. I have always said that next to the Presidency I regard it as the greatest honor that can come to an American citizen. This is so because the office not only administers the affairs of the State, but it is representative of the Maryland ideal of government, which is the life of democracy and liberty everywhere. So naturally there is nothing I had rather have than the opportunity of serving my State as Governor another term.

But the people of Maryland have honored me in very full measure and I would have no right to ask the public for another term, until sentiment on the question, particularly in my own party, had very full opportunity to crystalize, one way or the other.

Thinks Opportunity Given

I think everyone will agree that there has been this opportunity. If there was any advantage to me in getting into the field quickly, as many of my friends strongly urged, certainly I have not taken advantage of it.

For months now the public have been discussing available candidates and the character of government which Maryland has had during recent years, and particularly have the public been discussing whether they wanted to continue me at the head of this great business of theirs—which is what the State Government really is—with the experience I have acquired by working for eleven years n the job.

The fourth term question in particular has been not only discussed, but publicly debated, and men like Dr. William H. Welch, Mr. Randolph Barton, Jr., Mr. Sylvan Hayes Lauchheimer, Dr. Cary B. Gamble, Jr., Mr. W. Irvine Cross, Mr. Waldo Newcomer, Mr. Francis King Carey, Mr. William L. Marbury, Mr. R. Howard Bland, Mr. James M. Easter, Mr. Frank Novak and others, disposed of any objection on this point effectively.

Gives Basis Of Decision

Everyone in the Democratic party, who would like to be Governor, has had the opportunity to be considered. Some of the most influential men in the party, after canvassing the available field, did, in fact, support another candidate, behind whom, for a very considerable time, opposition to me has had the fullest opportunity to center. This candidate has now withdrawn.

These and other occurrences during the past months, the support which has been offered me from so many sources, and particularly recent developments, including the open letter published Sunday and signed by 1,500 representative citizens of both parties, have finally decided me to become a candidate for another term.

I cannot express in any way at all adequate the gratitude I feel for these evidences of confidence in me. It is something I never can forget.

There is ample time to discuss the issue of the campaign and all pertinent subjects, so I need say nothing about them at this time.

"Intense Pride In State"

I have an intense pride in my State, and its political ideals are the sum and substance of the only political philisophy I know. I have been proud to proclaim them wherever and when ever Icould , both at home and abroad, because I believe that in them lies our best hope of political salvation.

If the people honor me with another nomination and election I will continue during the next four years to devote my life exclusively to the service of the State and to trying to make it a model of good government and of sound political doctrine.

And as long as I am Governor of Maryland I will do my best to preserve those policies which safeguard most and interfere least with the just liberties and well being of our people.

Thomas H. Robinson, Attorney-General of Maryland, and William S. Gordy, Jr., State Comptroller, have announced their candidacy for renomination on the Ritchie ticket as harmony in the Democratic ranks continued to grow and their nomination is a foregone conclusion.

James A. Young is also expected to be on the ticket for clerk of the Court of Appeals.

This ticket is composed of men who have been tried and found competent and faithful to every trust.
