Meandering Mike—Tell me, lady, what can a poor man do when he's the father of 10 children?

Harboiled Lady—Move to Italy and get a bonus.

Vydas—I hear that Sweig stopped on the steps of the church and wouldn't go in while his mother was getting married.

Yazge—Yes, he couldn't go a stepfather.

Sammy—I don't see why my dad says that ma is always changing her mind.

Willie—Why not?

Sammy—Well, I asked her for a dime three times today and she said "no" every time.

Honoring the Dead

Annual Decoration day is most enthusiastically observed by the Lower Yukon River Indians. Late last autumn fifteen families of Indians from Nulato and other villages met together to fulfill the custom of erecting houses over the graves of those who died during the year. The shelters of the old graves were given a fresh coat of brilliant paint.

Many of the unique mausoleums have windows and floors and contain rugs and other articles that were used by the departed ones.

Every western Alaska Indian tribe has a different method of protecting the spirit of departed ones.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

New York has set every State in the Union a good example in passing a law whereby any motorist who is twice convicted of driving while intoxicated forfeits his driving privilege forever. We presume, however, that there will always be States slow to recognize the fact that booze and gasoline will not mix and will go right on tolerating the greatest menace to human life that this age knows-the drunken driver of an automobile.

Every State has laws against driving while under the influence of liquor but the penalties are not as strict as they should be and drivers who have experienced the danger of traveling along the same road with a drunken driver will back us up in this assertion. The last place on earth for a drunken man is behind the wheel of an automobile and the quicker every State fixes it so he cannot get there, the quicker will the annual death toll from this source be reduced.

"Nurse," said an amorous patient, "I'm in love with you."

"Don't worry, you won't," she assured him. "The doctor is in love with me too and he saw you kiss me this morning."

Humors Are Hormones

Another belief of the old time doctors has been upheld. What they called "humors" in the blood has proved to be the modern "hormones" which are secreted from certain ductless glands and not from the heart and liver as once believed. The old time dotors claimed the disposition of their patients and some of their ills were due to these "humors." Scientists now admit that they were not far wrong and declare that the "hormones" play an enormously important part in determining the disposition of an individual.

Old Time Legal Date

Lady day was originally the name for all the days in the church calendar marking any event in the Virgin Mary's life, but now restricted to the feast of the annunciation, held on the twenty-fifth of March each year. Lady day was in medieval and later times the beginning of the legal year in England. In 1752 this was altered to the first of January, but the twenty-fifth of March remains one of the quarter days; though in some parts old Lady day, on the sixth of April, is still the date for rent paying.

How to Get Into Print

When we tell somebody that if we had sufficient money we'd stop writing, the invariable comment is, "Oh, you might stop for a little while, but you'd be at it again soon." Maybe so, but maybe we couldn't get anything printed. Well, if we had to get our name in print again, if the urge were too strong, we know what we'd do. We'd write one of those Letters to the Editor—of any paper at all. The letter would begin, "I wish to express my appreciation of your editorial."—F. P. A., in New York World.

Historical Law Codes

The earliest code, which is the name given to a collection of laws, or constitutional articles, was that of Hammurabi, about 2100 B. C. The codes of Theodosius and Justinian, Roman emperors, were the basis of the Code Napoleon of France. Theodosius appointed a commission of 16 in 435 A. D., to collect and codify the edicts and constitutions of the provinces of the Roman empire. This was published in 438. It was revised in 523 by the Emperor Justinian. The Code Napoleon, completed in 1804, consisted of 2,281 articles. There were partial codes in France previous to this. The Code Napoleon is the basis of the codes of the Two Sicilies, the Netherlands, the Swiss cantons, Bolivia and Louisiana. The Code Frederick is the codification of the Prussian laws, codified under Frederick the Great, and was the basis for the law of the German empire.

For Insomnia Sufferers

As treatment for insomnia, there is advised a systematic mapping out of the day; early rising, then work, punctuated by regular meals, followed by half an hour's rest after each, a fair allowance of exercise and recreation, the latter to be pursued genuinely and not as a make-believe. Physical exercise is beneficial, and discipline in the selection of food a necessity.

A glass of hot milk and a biscuit or a hot-water bottle often have remarkable effects, while the bedroom should be quiet and cool, with an open but darkened window. Hot baths before retiring are helpful in some cases, but may aggravate others.

Medieval Care of Books

Censure not the pupil who writes in his book that no one is to purloin it under various fears: he is only doing what the medieval monk did before him. Men of religious orders were for centuries not only the custodians but indeed the creators of books and libraries and the Benedictine order laid down many rules for the care of its books and manuscripts. "Wash" lest touch of dirty finger on my spotless pages linger," is a literal translation of one. Another, "May whoever steals or alienates this manuscript, or scratches out its title, be anathema. Amen."—Detroit News.

Virtue the Great Bulwark

It is virtue alone which can render us superior to fortune; we quit her standard, and the combat is no longer equal. Fortune mocks us; she turns us on her wheel; she raises and abases us at her pleasure, but her power is founded on our weakness. This is an old-rooted evil, but it is not incurable; there is nothing a firm and elevated mind cannot accomplish. —Petrarch.

What Produces Cobwebs?

"Cobweb" means spider web, "cob" being an old English word signifying spider. It is the common name given to the more or less formless webs spun in buildings by certain species of spiders and the larvae of some insects. Most of the tangled webs which annoy thrifty housewives are produced by the little house spider, theridion tepidariorium. Cobwebs on the ceilings and in the corners of houses are usually not noticed until they become covered with dust, a circumstance which gave rise to the belief that cobwebs consist merely of dust. The impression was confirmed by the fact that the house spider is seldom observed at work.—Pathfinder Magazine.

The Better Part

Persevering mediocrity is much more respectable, and unspeakably more useful, than talented inconstancy. —James Hamilton.

Pleasure and Profit in Scorpion Hunting

One of the most peculiar hunting expeditions on record is that which takes place at more or less regular intervals in the town of Mardine, in Asia Minor. The town is surrounded by ancient walls built to protect it from invaders, and hidden in various places in these walls are hordes of scorpions which often become a menace to the population. In order to keep down the number of these pests, said to be death-dealing, a bonus is offered by the municipality and regular hunts are organized. The hunts take place at night when the hunters, armed with lanterns, poke around the walls and dislodge the scorpions. The next day they carry them to the town officials and collect the money due them as a reward. It frequently happens that they must wait upon the pleasure of that official, when they while away the time by making their ferocious captives engage in combat. Bets are made on the results, and it often happens that members of the waiting party have lost their money before they receive it.

On the Road to Truth

All opinions, properly so called, are stages on the road to truth. It does not follow that a man will travel any further; but if he has really considered the world and drawn a conclusion, he has traveled as far. This does not apply to formulae got by rote, which are stages on the road to nowhere but second childhood and the grave. To have a catchword in your mouth is not the same thing as to hold an opinion; still less is it the same thing as to have made one for yourself. There are too many of these catchwords in the world for people to rap out upon you like an oath and by way of argument. They have a currency as intellectual counters; and many respectable people pay their way with nothing else.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Algerian Grasshoppers

Some Algerian grasshoppers, just arrived at the London zoo, have beaten all records for the genius of leaping. They seem to have sacrificed everything for this as, though the body is barely an inch long, the hind legs are fully three inches.

The newcomers are confined in a glass case, two feet high, yet, when first put in, their horny heads were continually tapping on the roof.

Unlike other grasshoppers, they are carnivorous, feeding on raw meat and dead insects; and instead of living amongst grass they haunt damp caves. This species has never before been seen at the menagerie.

Keep Ideals High

A famous artist strictly resolved not to look at silly or funny pictures, simply because, when he himself wished to paint, all these funny pictures crossed his thoughts, and consequently they were interwoven in his work. Hence he made it a rule to look only at great masterpieces. By doing this he ever kept his mind full of great conceptions, and thus he found it much easier to paint great pictures himself. If people would only make it a rule to observe only that which is great and good, they would find it much easier to live a great and pure life.

Fossil Ivory

Mammoth ivory, sometimes called fossil ivory, comes from Siberia. The tusks, longer and more curved than those of the elephant, are found in the frozen mud of the "tundras" or frozen marshes of the northeastern Siberian wastes.

One mammoth tusk found in Siberia was 13 feet 7 inches long and weighed 185 pounds. Ordinary fossil ivory realizes from $75 to $100 per hundredweight.

Plow with the Farmall!

THE McCormick-Deering Farmall offers the row-crop farmer a wonderful advantage. With this sturdy, 4-cylinder, 2-plow tractor on the farm you can put all of your work behind you quickly with power—from the first tillage job in spring to the last belt job in winter. The Farmall pulls a 2-bottom plow as ably as does any other tractor. It turns short, handles easily, operates economically, and requires very little attention.

As the season progresses you can shift from one important job to another with amazing speed. Tilling, plowing, seeding, planting row crops (with 4-row planter), cultivating row crops (with 2 or 4-row cultivator), mowing, raking, loading hay, harvesting grain, harvesting corn, and doing the hundred and one belt jobs around the farm.

You can't beat the Farmall. It makes the horseless farm practicable and possible. It cuts the corners off expense and puts the profit in your pocket.

We can't TELL you the whole Farmall story here; but we can prove every point in mighty quick time if you'll ask us for a field demonstration.
