Kent News

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1930

Governor Ritchie has been highly commended by the Eastern Shore people and by all Kent countians for his fine foward looking and progressive stand on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge proposition.

Acting under the advice of his physician, Judge Thomas J. Keating, of Centreville, has gone to the home of his brother, Dr. Frank W. Keating, in Baltimore county, for a protracted rest, from duties on the bench in this circuit, in the efforts to rebuild his health.

During the last year the duties of the judgeship have been exceptionally complicated due to an increased mass of both court and chancery business. Mrs. Keating and their son, Thomas J. Keating, Jr., of the Centreville bar, are at his bedside.

The regular January term of the Circuit Court for Queen Anne's county, scheduled for Monday was postponed until Wednesday on account of Judge Keating's illness.

Charles Evans Hughes, one of the foremost of the nation's jurists and statesmen, is to be the next Chief Justice of the United States.

He will succeed William Howard Taft, who, broken in health by arduous years in the public service, has been forced to resign and devote his entire attention to the betterment of his physical condition.

John A. Baker, President of Board of Commissioners for Dorchester, and Roads Engineer Henry S. Cochran were in Kent Thursday examining our slag roads in company with President S. J. Johnson and Engineer Taylor.

A GIGANTIC ENTERPRISE

Governor Ritchie hits the nail squarely on the head in advocating the building of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge by the State. It will be the biggest accomplishment in the history of Maryland. No personal interest should be allowed to thrust this enterprise. The good of the whole State especially Baltimore, is at stake and every citizen should sink his prejudice in helping to bring to pass the building of this structure.

Return of moderate weather has renewed the procession of Delaware and Maryland couples, as well as pairs from Pennsylvania and New Jersey toward this budding Gretna Green. During the past week the following licenses have been issued to couples by Clerk of Court Robert Shallcross: John T. Cole, 22, Smyrna, and Cora C. McGuire, 19, Locust Grove, Md.; Cornelius Wickes, 21, Edesville, Md., and Amanda Thomas, 19, Chestertown; Francis M. Buck, 53, Massey, Md., and Jessie T. Haley, 47, Locust Grove, Md.; Charles F. Nauman, 45, Cranston Heights, Del., and Annie M. Kelley, 42, Wilmington; George R. Woolsey, Jr., 21, and Anna Servella, 19, Wilmington.

Canners and growers of canning crops from all sections of the State are expected to attend the annual Canning Crops School, to be held at the University of Maryland, February 18 to 20.

According to F. W. Geise, professor of vegetable culture at the University of Maryland, a long list of interesting speakers has been arranged. The meetings will be held in the Agricultural Building and will start each day at 9.00 a. m. and 2.00 p. m. Tuesday evening there will be a get-together dinner at which President R. A. Pearson, of the University of Maryland, will say a few words to the visiting canners and field men.
