SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1931

GOV. RITCHIE had an hour and a half's conference with former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Thursday, and found his views coincided with theirs in many important particulars, chief among them being prohibition. Gov. Ritchie occupies a high place in the party's conference and may become the candidate for President.

THIEVING IN KENT

Elsewhere in the NEWS is noted an unusual number of robberies in and about Kennedyville. This is to be regretted. However, when the facility to move produce by truck is considered and the ease with which poultry and other stock can be made away with it is surprising that more robberies are not mentioned.

The States Attorney, Sheriff and other arms of the law are at the service of our citizens, but they can not move except upon information from those who have been robbed or neighbors who know of the occurrence.

The winter is just opening. Would it not be a wise thing to organize vigilant committees in each town and village who would act in co-operation with the Sheriff and thus the thieves brought to punishment.

We are confident the County Commissioners would aid in the apprehension of this band of robbers thru the means at their disposal.

It is a serious situation when farmers and others spend their money, time and energy in raising poultry and then when ready for market have them stolen and carried by truck to some partner in the crime in the city.

Phillip Burnet, 52, president of the Continental American Life Insurance Company, and one of the outstanding life insurance executives in the country, died suddenly Tuesday morning in the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, from a heart attack.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 at his home in New Castle, interment private.

Mr. Burnet would have been 53 years old December 2. He was born at Dover and started his business career as a clerk in the Wilmington office of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. He later became a general agent for Delaware and the Eastern Shore of the National Life Insurance Company of Vermont.

In 1907 he organized the Continental American Life Insurance Company, and was its president from the beginning until the time of his death.

Frank V. Simpers is the representative here.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

The annual Red Cross Roll Call which was inaugurated on Armistice Day is getting in full swing throughout the county under the direction of the Rev. John White, rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal parish, who has been selected chairman of a county-wide committee which will conduct the drive. At a meeting of the Red Cross Association of the county held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James G. Beck, last year's officers, including Howard Turren, county chairman; Mrs. James G. Beck, vice-chairman; Mrs. Frank W. Smith, secretary, and Allan A. Harris, treasurer, were re-elected, and plans for making the annual Roll Call for memberships were completed.

The county will be divided into district committees have been appointed to conduct the drive in their respective localities. It should be remembered that one half of the funds raised by the Roll Call remain in Kent county for Relief Work. Every one is urged to rally to the call this year as it is believed that there will be urgent need for funds for the relief of the needy in this county during the winter months. Don't wait for some one to call on you for membership. Send your contribution to Allan A. Harris, Mr. Turner, or Rev. John White, who will give you full credit for tht amount forwarded.

COL. E. AUSTIN BAUGHMAN, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, proposed to locate a police snb-station at Easton in the near future.

The station house will be built along the lines of others in the State and will be located near Easton.

Motor Police Captain Johnson says that several police will be located there permanently and will be in quick calling distance from any part on the central Eastern Shore.

The nearest station now is Salisbury, and in case of emergency much time would be lost in getting police from there.

The location will proceed promptly and will be completed, within the next thirty days.

KENT FARMERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Every indication points to better times. Wheat is advancing, butter fat is rising in price, and farmers feel just a trifle more optimism now than they did a few weeks ago. Still there is room for improvement. Kent county will before long feel the effects of better times. Last week's reports of butter fat prices showed that prevailing prices were 8½ cents lower than this time last year. Yet if you go in the store and purchase a pound of butter you will pay more for it than you did a short time ago.

Dairymen are suffering from overproduction and low prices. This industry has had a big boost in Kent and during the past ten years has grown in leaps and bounds, until today it is the mainstay of the average farmer in this county.

The storage houses were bulging with butter a few months ago, and the prices dropped to new low levels. The farmers put on a drive for butter consumption in place of butter substitutes and this has had the effect of lowering the amount of butter in storage.

But the best signs of improvement to the farmer is the price of wheat and corn. It has advanced during the past few days, and this has greatly encouraged the producer. In the wheat fields the corn fodder is still in the fields. Sufficient rains have occurred to provide plenty of hay and grass and the farmer is not bothering with corn fodder as much now as he did a year ago. Care should be exercised at all times to save every parcel of food on the farm. Years ago farmers would not think of leaving their corn fodder out in the field this late. It was hauled in and the entire field planted in wheat.. Not so today.

This year, with plenty of hay in the loft, and much other feed, the corn fodder is neglected.

A farmer was in Delaware on Saturday last. He reports seeing load of sweet potatoes sell for eight cents a basket, and the buyers not very anxious to buy many at this price. The potatoes were being stored in the potato houses, and farmers seemed glad to get that price for them. Not much profit growing the tubers at such a low figure.

This farmer said he was buying sweets for 25 cents a basket. Another grower had an order to ship some to New York city. When he brought them to the post office he found the parcel post charges were more than the potatoes cost in the city, and he refused to send them.

All farm produce is now low in price and hard to move, but in spite of this there is an optimistic spirit prevalent throughout the county. Many believe that some fine morning in the near future they will wake up to see very encouraging reports and the country on its way to more prosperous times. The rise in the price of wheat is but the beginning. Some think this is just a quary for the gamblers, who will force the price down again after they have made a different spirit throughout the county, and the inborn hope of better times is stronger now that it has been for some time.

Lewisburg, Pa., November 3—Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, president of Washington College, represented that institution at the inauguration of Dr. Homer Price Rainey as sixth president of Bucknell University on Friday, November 13.

The presidents of 42 colleges, together with delegates from more than 70 other colleges and universities, marched in the academic procession preceding the installation. Representatives from numerous learned societies and foundations were in attendance.

TO TRY NEGRO FOR SLAYING

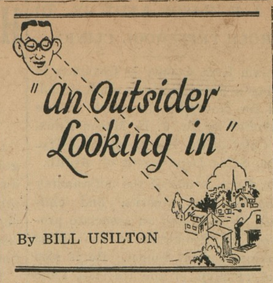

The November term of the Circuit Court for Dorchester County, which convened Monday, promises to consume several weeks because of the lengthy docket. Sessions will be held in the armory on account of the rebuilding of the court house.

The most important case will be that of Ruel Lee, removed there from Worcester county, where he is accused of killing four members of the family of Green Davis, of Taylorsville.

The case, which has attracted wide attention not merely because of the brutality of the crime, but because of the attempt of Bernard Ades, attorney for the International Defense League, to intervene.

The Lee case is not expected to come up until next week.

DR. J. S. WM. JONES, Dean at Washington College, and secretary-treasurer of the alumni association of that institution, headed a party of fourteen from Chestertown which attended the card party tendered by the Baltimore Chapter of the Washington College Alumni Association last Saturday. The party, which was attended by nearly a hundred guests, was held at the Pickwick Inn on Saratoga street.

By BILL USILTON

NOT having any particular paragraph in mind with which to start the chatter this week I bethought myself of some amusing and interesting things done by Toledoeans; and in ways that are absolutely foreign to the habits of an Eastern Shoreman:

When election day arrives, with all its arguments, vote-buying and liquoring as in towns the country over, Toledo brings out on wheels little poll houses, not unlike the meat house on your farm, which are placed on the busy corner in each precinct.

From eleven at night until the yawning hours your eight hours' slumber is constantly interrupted by freight cars being hauled down the main thoroughfares by clanging trolleys.

If you are on the telephone and say, "thank you," to the voice at the other end of the wire, you are invariably answered with the silly phrase, "You bet."

Slot machines, where nickles, dimes and quarters are paid back in the real McCoy, are a permanent fixture in every drug store, restaurant, cigar store and hotel in the hamlet. (Note—you can't beat 'em.)

Toledoeans say the depression is over, the panic is on. With a population of 300,000 there is only one bank open for business.

Toledo newspapers have revived the barter system, where you run a Swap advertisement; and can trade your bathtub for a shower, your antiquated Victrola for a meat grinder, or even your old tooth brush for some nice resharpened safety-razor blades.

Is the only city in the United States that has refused to cooperate with the President's Relief organization; feeling that things are so bad here that the city, working as a separate unit with its own plans and no hindrances, could accomplish much more and better relief.

Toledo is the most over-worked convention center in the world, averaging three a week year in and year out. I expect to see Doctor Titsworth before very long.

Has a municipal university of 2500 students; no dormitories, athletic field or football team.

NOT that there's some little beauty this here neck of the woods. The other morning at five o'clock—(nothing but business got me out at that hour, you know that)—we were gaily riding along the shore of Lake Erie on the way to Cleveland and, as the sun rose behind us and cast its rays out over all that fresh expanse of water, I've never seen a more beautiful sight.

The highway runs along the edge of the lake, being just a few feet above the beach itself, and I know of no other drive that is more peaceful and delightful. You zip along with the breeze in your face, wind 'round a point and across a mile long bridge that spans Sandusky Bay, and you have covered the hundred miles to Cleveland before you have gotten comfortably settled in your seat.

Then, in Cleveland, if you gaze out of the north windows of the city's skyscrapers—and they have some—, Lake Erie is poured out before you as far as the eye can see; while Canada is barely visible far to the north, like a darker streak of water cutting across the lake at its horizon.

Turning about, you come face to face with business in all its shabbiness devoid of beauty, and the scene is forgotten. Then, the ride home again along those lovely shores and you are actually aware, and supremely happy, that you are alive.

I HAVE WONDERED, while in New York, Baltimore and even Chestertown, just what knowledge voters, in this here neck of the woods. The Annapolis, had of Maryland's chief executive; and what was their reaction to his being proposed for the Democratic nomination.

My residence in Toledo has certainly not given me any great joy as to Bert's prospects in this section, and it has clearly and definitely pointed out to me that Frank R. Kent, and the rest of his press agents, have done a very poor and lazy job.

As the result of numerous queries made to citizens of all classes. I find that, even if he is known by name, there are few who can see any reason why he should think that tte Presidency is a job he can tackle completely.

They all know Roosevelt, Al Smith and Clarence True Wilson—a day never passes without a yarn appearing insome paper concerning one of the three—but Albert Cabell's publicity is centered in Maryland's Bible for the digestion of voters who have shown their loyalty for four terms, and he only "cracks" the country's press when he is listed in the radio programs as the speaker of the evening. Harry Russell and Bill Collins can do better than that.
