FINE PICTURES TO BE SHOWN

No patriotic or educational project of recent years has made a more profound impression upon thinking men and women than the work of the Yale University Press in producing the Chronicles of America Photoplays, a series of authentic and dramatic film in which events of outstanding importance in the annals of America are recreated with vividness and faithful accuracy.

It is, therefore, of unusual interest to announce that 14 or 15 Yale Press pictures thus far completed are to be shown in the New Lyceum Theatre, Chestertown, under the auspices of seven local organizations, namely, the Parent-Teachers' Organization, Kent County Musical Society, London Bridge and Old Kent Chapters of the D. A. R., High School and College History Clubs and the Women's Literary Club.

In sponsoring these remarkable films, these organizations feel that the whole community will have a remarkable opportunity to study American history in a new way. The Chronicles of America Photoplays are being shown extensively and are declared to be intensely interesting, not only from the viewpoint of historical accuracy, but as film portrayals of rare charm and human interest.

The first of these pictures are next Wednesday afternoon at 3.15 at New Lyceum, at which "Columbus" and "Jamestown" will be shown.

KENT PLAYS AN IMPORTANT PART

300TH ANNIVERSARY OF SERVICES HELD ON KENT ISLAND — THE NAMING OF THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH AT CHESTERTOWN ENACTED BY CHURCHMEN FROM KENT — LARGE CROWD — BEAUTIFUL SETTING.

Two thousand persons attended the function at Camp Wright Thursday, among whom were several hundred Kent countians. Camp Wright is within a few yards of Matapeake. A more picturesque spot would be hard to find. With a back ground of autumn tinted woods, a carpet of green grass sloping to the majestic waters of the Chesapeake Bay, and with a mellow glow from a partly clouded sky the beautiful pageant was enacted before the astonished eyes of men, women and children from all over the State and elsewhere.

Three hundred years of history was unfolded in pageantry commemorating the tri-centennial of the first church service in Maryland on almost the exact spot where the Rev. Richard James. Church of England clergyman, brought the Word of God into a virgin wilderness of stalwart settlers and uncivilized aborigines.

Almost every parish on the Shore had some part in unfolding the story of church and community progress through the 300 years extending from 1631 to 1931. Pageants embracing outstanding episodes from the landing of Capt. William Claiborne until the present time were presented by church leaders and parishoners, many of whom can trace their ancestry back to the men and women who first settled Kent Island or who figures in the early development of the Peninsula of Plenty.

The NEWS presents only one of the many episodes, viz., the third period divided into four episodes embracing the period from 1780 to 1931. It was during this period that the convention met in Chestertown and gave the church the name of Protestant Episcopal Church, which it bears today. The initial episode is a scene showing the conference at Chestertown on November 9, 1780, and presented by Emmanuel Church, Chestertown.

The composition of the convention held in Emmanuel Church, Chestertown, November 17, 1780, was as follows and names of characters:

Clerical Delegates—The Rev. Wm. Smith, D. D., represented by Rev. Charles L. Atwater, Rector of Chester Parish; Rev. James Jones Wilmer, represented by Rev. John White; Rev. Samuel Keen, represented by Rev. S. S. Hepburn, D. D.

Lay Delegates—Col. Richard Lloyd represented by Wm. G. Smyth; Mr. James Dunn by R. H. Rogers; John Page by S. Scott Beck, Jr.; Mr. Richard Miller by C. H. Skirven; Mr. Samuel Wickes by Owen Selby; Mr. T. W. Tilden by Simon W. Westcott; Mr. St. Leger Everett by Philip G. Wilmer; Mr. James Wroth by Eben F. Perkins; Mr. John Kennard by Raymond Wilkins; Mr. Geo. Moffett by S. C. Emory; Mr. William Keating by R. H. Collins, Sr.; Mr. John Brown by Ernest Brown; Mr. Sturgess by H. T. Hartman; Mr. John Scott by Wilbur R. Hubbard; Mr. John Bolton by Chas. C. Schreiber; Mr. Christopher Hall by B. R. Sutton; Mr. Downs by Rolph Townshend.

The first twelve Lay Delegates are represented either by direct or collateral descendants, still living and taking an active part in the parishes their ancestors represented. For instance, Ernest Brown is a direct descendant of John Brown, and the former is a vestryman in the same church the latter represented. R. Hynson Rogers is a descendant of James Dunn. Simon Westcott a descendant of both J. W. Tilden and Samuel Wickes, Philip G. Wilmer of the Rev. James Jones Wilmer, Owen D. Selby of Samuel Wickes, etc. Thus the majority of the present assembly is composed of men descended from members of the original convention, and these men are still living in the same locality, and vestrymen or members of the same parishes and churches their forbears then attended.

The choir was made up of wives from many parishes. From Kent were Mrs. Belt Townshend, Mrs. Owen Selby, Mrs. Chas. Schreiber, Mrs. Mamie Sweatman.

The Washington College orchestra of eight pieces furnished music and accompanied the hymns under the direction of Prof. Fred. G. Livingood.

SEEKING SITE FOR NEW POST OFFICE

AN inspector from the Post Office Department in Washington has been in Chestertown looking over available locations upon which options have been secured by Postmaster William G. Smyth for the erection of Chestertown's new post office building. Prior to the visit of the inspector Postmaster Smyth had obtained options on three desirable locations, one the store property of G. E. Noland & Son, on High St., directly opposite the present post office, one known as the Rockwell building on the corner of Cross St. and Park Row, and a third the property of Owen C. Smith on High St., opposite the Voshell House.

The inspector conferred with the postmaster regarding the availability of each location, but gave no intimation as to what his recommendation will be.

Maryland's federal building program exclusive of military posts, will total $7,500,000, if Congress appropriates funds for buildings authorized before the close of the last session.

Among the buildings, for which funds are yet to be appropriated, are the postoffices at Belair, $70,000; Cambridge, $50,000; Chestertown, $75,000, and Elkton, $75,000.

Among the buildings for which funds are available and now under construction are postoffice buildings at Crisfield, $105,000, and Easton, $125,000.

DUCKING SEASON OPENS NOV. 15TH

Kent county sportsmen and owners of ducking shores along Chester river and Chesapeake bay are preparing for the opening of the season for shooting wild ducks and geese which begins on November 15 and closes December 16. Sportsmen of the county will have only 11 days in which to shoot in Kent county this year because of the shortened season, and also because of the fact that during the short time shooting is permitted in this county only two days a week, Mondays and Fridays.

While efforts were made by influential sportsmen and owners of expensive ducking lodges throughout the State to induce the Federal Government to rescind its ruling limiting the season to only 30 days, the Government would not retract. It is estimated that thousands of dollars will be lost in this county by people thrown out of employment by the Government's edict and also by farmers and millers who sold thousands of bushels of grain for baiting the gunning shores. It is also indicated by the very few gunning licenses issued to date by the clerk of the Circuit Court that considerable money will be lost from this source.

INTERESTING SAMPLERS

Mrs. Mary E. Hadaway, formerly of Broad Neck, now residing at H. T. Jewell's on Princess street, Chestertown, has a sampler made in 1798. It belonged to Sarah Glackiston, aged 54, dated September 14, 1798. It records the death of Sarah Chance April 28, 1836. Altho in her 80th year Mrs. Hadaway is quite alert in mind and enjoys tating. She is a regular reader of the KENT NEWS and has had it in her home for many years.

Mrs. Etta Trew Rollison has a sampler which is dated 1790. It has the following lines worked on it.

The loss of time is much,
The loss of grace is more.
The loss of Christ is such
That no man can reckon.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Washington College team went to Swarthmore Saturday and held the score to 20 to 0. The last half was a tie. When the comparative scores are noted it will be seen that Washington has greatly improved over previous years. Maryland won from Navy 6 to 0 while Hopkins won from Albright.

Washington will meet Haverford on the latter grounds this Saturday afternoon. A victory is expected altho a number of our boys are out of the line because of injuries. Let's give them loyal support.

Green K. Davis, 55, farmer, wife and two children 15 and 13, of near Berlin were found slain in their beds about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon when neighbors who had missed them broke into their home near Taylorville, three miles east of Berlin on the Ocean City Boulevard. Orphan Jones, a negro aged 60, employed by Mr. Davis, is in Baltimore city jail charged with the crime. He says Mr. Davis owed him $1 and did this in a fit of temper to get even with him.

KENT COURT NEXT WEEK

The October term of the Circuit Court for Kent county will convene here on Monday, October 19.

Two murder cases, one removed from the Cecil county court and the other from Talbot, will feature the court sessions. The Cecil county case is that of McKinley Keith, charged with the murder of Hassel Benton on November 1, 1930. The case was tried in the Queen Anne's court last May, when the jury disagreed.

In the Talbot case, which created wide interest in both Caroline and Talbot counties, Granvil Downs, a deputy sheriff of Caroline county, is accused of slaying Arthur Wooters in Talbot county on March 25, 1931. Owen Knotts, of the Caroline county, bar, will defend Downs at the trial here. He will be assisted by Senator S. Scott Beck, of the Chestertown bar. Besides these cases eighteen cases have been marked for trial on the appeal docket, while thirty cases appear on the criminal docket for the consideration of the grand jury.

D. A. R. HAVE BIRTHDAY

ON Saturday, Oct. 10th, the Old Kent Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown to a most delicious luncheon in honor of the Chapter's eleventh birthday. Lunchen was served at 12 o'clock to twenty-one members and visitors. The out-of-town guests were State Regent, Mrs. Lillburn, Mrs. James A. Dorsey, Mrs. Loyal Alden and Mrs. Wright. A birthday cake with eleven candles graced the table of the State and County Regent. Most pleasing talks were given by the State Regent, Mrs. Lillburn and Mrs. Dorsey. The program was completed on the Washington College Campus, when a tablet was unveiled —marking the Washington Elm, under which George Washington took command of the American army in 1775) which was placed there a few years ago by the Old Kent Chapter. The tablet was dedicated by Mrs. J. A. Dorsey in her usual pleasing manner. Dr. Paul E. Titsworth most graciously accepted the marker.

Kent county is proud of the Kennedyville Baseball Club for having brought home the State Championship. They won the Chesapeake Bay series and on Wednesday clinched the State series by defeating Havre de Grace Club. This is quite a feat and each member of the team including the management are to be congratulated. Kennedyville is sitting on top of the world in baseball.
