KENT REGATTA IS NEXT WEEK

What is believed to be the only celebration of the tercentennial of the establishment on Kent Island of the first permanent settlement in Maryland, by Captain William Claiborne in August, 1631, will be staged by the Chester River Yacht and Country Club which will dedicate its annual regatta festivities, August 21 and 22, to the commemoration of the doughty sailor's exploits on and around the Island where the first events of the regatta will be run off near the point where Claiborne made his first landing August 17.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, State Conservation Commissioner Swepson Earle, Senator Milard E. Tydings, Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Congressman T. Allan Goldsborough and other prominent personages have been asked to attend the celebration and regatta.

Every type of boat which has carried out the classic traditions of the Chesapeake Bay since the time of Claiborne, one of Maryland's first sailors, will take part in the events of the two-day affair, including the well-known Chesapeake Bay log sailing canoes, the log canoe power boats which have been transformed by modern invention into power craf and the dead-rise power workboats of the Chesapeake.

Many fishermen are expected to take part, with their working craft, in these special races for an aggregate of $200 in gold cash prizes offered by John J. Raskob, member of the local club. The first night of the regatta will further celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of Claiborne's exploit by a big fireworks donated by Mrs. Helena S. Raskob, at the local anchorage in the Chester river.

Special rockets to travel over a mile high are being brought here for the spectacular event and arrangements are being made to accomodate 10,000 people from all parts of the upper Delaware Peninsula, as well as visitors from large nearby cities. Last year nearly 6,000 people watched the fireworks display on the Pioneer Point Farms of Mrs. Raskob on Chester River and the event has been transferred here this year in honor of the celebration.

The regatta and its accompanying fetes have the backing of Kent and Queen Anne's county officials and citizens who will jointly stage the races and tercentennial festivities, chairman Truslow said: Hundreds of fishemen who make their living on Claiborne's Kent Island in Queen Anne's county will take part in the regatta the first race of which will be for the Bill Raskob Memorial Gold Cup for the sailing championship of the bay.

The Toodles and the Patsy 10 and 12-meter international sloops of John J. Raskob are expected to compete, together with an impressive number of other sailing craft. The Star boat race will be run for the Callahan Trophy.

Trophies and prizes have been offered for each event, the majority of which will be staged in the Chester River here August 22.

THE Woman's Literary Club wish to take this means of publicly acknowledging the kind generosity of The Kent Mutual Fire Insurance Co., in providing for the past twenty-five years, a room free of rental charge for the use of the Public Library; also the kindness of the Chestertown Electric Light Co. for free electric service, thereby rendering a distinct service to the community, for, without their generous support it would have been impossible for the club to have maintained a Free Library.

Sec. The Woman's Literary Club.

The home of Lloyd Kennedy, near Kennedyville, was the scene of the Groves family re-union last Sunday. Judge James T. Groves is the head of this old Kent county family now. Forty-two children, grandchildren and descendants of Judge and Mrs. Groves were present upon this happy occasion. The dinner was served on the beautiful lawn at 1.30 with sixty persons seated at the table at one time. The menu consisted of Kent county fried chicken, chicken salad, country ham, roast beef, six vegetables, besides trimmings, with watermelon and cake as dessert. These reunions of the Groves family are annual affairs, the one on Sunday being at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy.

Baby and Beauty Contest At Picnic

The Kent County Farm Bureau will hold its annual picnic at Tolchester Beach next Tuesday. There will be no horse shoe pitching but other interesting contests.

At noon a Baby Show will take place in the annex. There will be two classes—6 to 12 months and 12 to 18 months, all babies to be white and from Kent county.

A County-wide Beauty Contest will take place at 1.30 P. M., limited to Farm Bureau family. The winner will receive an appropriate ribbon entitling her to compete for one of three prizes, given by the state organization, at the State Farm Bureau Beauty Contest which will be be held during the annual State Convention in January, 1932, in Baltimore. She will be the guest of Mrs. Harry T. Williams, State chairman of the Farm Bureau Home and Community Committee; and Miss Venia M. Kellar, while attending this convention.

The judges in each instance will be from out of the county and will favor simplicity in dress, posture, good grooming and well chosen accessories. And, should the beauty and charms of the contestants prove equal otherwise, the one or ones attired in the most becoming dress suggesting simplicity will be favored in the final contest.

Frank Payne, State Secretary, J. W. Davis, State President, and others will make short talks.

The Kent County 4-H Club Girls who will be at Camp Fairlee will attend the picnic in a body and render songs, stunts, etc.
