Chestertown, Maryland

WHEAT threshing has been delayed this week by the heavy rains. The combines have had hard luck also, on account of rains.

QUITE a number of foreign families are seen going through Chestertown by truck this week to work in the canning houses elsewhere on the Shore.

BASEBALL still showing great interest among Kent countians. Today is the big final to the first part of season when Rock Hall and Church Hill will tussle for the championship. This game today will be at Chestertown on the Washington College Athletic Field.

Sheriff John T. Vickers' wife and daughter are being rewarded for their work this Spring in planting flowers about the rear of Court House yard. They now have blooming plants which add to the surroundings.

Since the death of Undertaker Casey in Rock Hall, three local men have established agencies. They are B. R. Fellows. of Still Pond, Ellis Clark, of Chestertown; and Randolph Burgessfor Mr. Good, of Church Hill. C. L. Dodd already has connections there.

HOWARD B. STRONG'S canoe, Mayflower, made a fine showing at the regatta held Saturday at Oxford. Any doubt as to the ability of John D. Williams' new transom-stern canoe were dispelled when the still nameless boat scored an overwhelming victory against four of the fastest canoes in local waters.

EXTENSIVE improvements are being made in this section to the telephone lines and poles by Contractor Edgar Pyle and his force. The C. & P. are certainly not stinting money in their effort to give the Eastern Shore the very best telephone service possible.

H. CLAY BROWN, skipper of the famous Chesapeake Bay log sailing canoe Island Blossom and prominent member of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club, has added to the fleet of Chestertown pleasure craft a 34-foot hunger model cabin launch, which arrived in Chestertown harbor last week.
