Piecing.

That's a word which may not be in the dictionary in this sense of its use, but which is in very common use in some sections of the country. "She's always piecing" they say of the woman who runs to the cupboard at irregular hours and eats a piece of pie, cake, or some other dainty. This irregular eating is one of the chief causes of dyspepsia and "weak" stomach.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are completely cured by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the supply of rich, pure blood, and gives the body vitality and vigor.

"A year ago I was feeling very badly," writes Mrs. Lizzie Abrams, of 158 Johnson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. "I had a very poor appetite and when I sat down at the table I could not eat, but would have to go away without even tasting the food. Chancing to hear from a friend who used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a disease similar to mine, I thought I would give the medicine a trial, and I can hardly express the benefit received from it. The first dose seemed to do me good. My appetite returned and I was able to eat heartily. I have improved so much since taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I do not look like the same person. Am to-day well and strong—the result of taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SOME BRYAN STORIES.

Cross-of-Gold Orator Tells A Few on Him-Self.

William J. Bryan, who described himself as "a country editor from the plains," was the guest of honor at the Press Club's last spring smoker last night, and for half an hour he amused his fellow newspaper men with funny stories and incidental references to his political past and future.

He began with a story apropos of the declaration that he had defeated himself by talking too much:

"I didn't tell this story in the campaign," he said. "A man died in a town and no one knew him. They took him to the morgue, where a young man came and said it was his father. He ordered a handsome funeral. The undertaker put the body in readiness for a fine burial, and when all was prepared the son came in to take a farewell look. Just then the corp's mouth fell open and a set of false teeth rolled out. 'It's not my father,' cried the young man, and refused to pay for the funeral."

"The indignant undertaker protested, but it was no use. He pulled the body out of the upholstered coffin, remarking angrily: 'You idiot, you might have had a glorious burial if you'd only kept your mouth shut.' Well, that story doesn't hurt my feelings now. I'm used to it."

Story No. 2—"My mouth has been a subject for criticism ever since I entered politics. When I look in the glass I feel there is room for criticism. I spoke during the campaign in a little Illinois town. In front of me sat a man rigidly attentive. He drank in every word I said; I think he had drunk in something else besides. When I finished he came up and wrung my hand. 'Mr. Bryan,' he said, 'you are wonderful, wonderful. You are the first man I ever saw whose back teeth I could see all the time he was speaking.'"

Story No. 3—"I enjoy the cartoons, even though they are at my expense. There was one I enjoyed best of all. It appeared just after the Kansas City Convention. It represented me as a toper standing in a state of utter intoxication in front of a gin mill, a bottle in my hand labeled '1600 L.' David B. Hill was represented as a little girl, with braided hair down his back, tugging at my coat-tails and pleading: 'Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now.'"

Story No. 4—"Back in 1888 I took part in my first campaign. In the fifty speeches I made I explained as well as I could the reasons why I thought the Republican candidate for Governor should not be elected. I went more into detail than I do now. After the election and the Republican candidate had been elected by 28,000 majority, I felt that the Governor-elect must feel a little hard toward me for the part I had taken against him."

"I felt nervous every time I was in his presence. I expected him to reproach me. A few months afterward we were on the same platform, and I was all trepidation. It was a mixed programme, and the Governor introduced the speakers. When it came my turn a man whispered, 'W. J. Bryan next.' He said: 'I introduce W. J. Bryan.' Then as I stepped forward he detained me by holding out his hand. I was greatly agitated, remembering how I had antagonized him. He said: Beg pardon, Mr. Bryan, do you speak or sing?"

THEY CRUSH THE POWERS

This is written in mid-October. The long, oppressive summer is quite gone. Fading leaf, withering tree and the rustling corn in the fields are signs of the season. Fog, frost, rain, snow, are coming. You remember last winter, of 1900 and 1901. The weather was cruel. Ah! the thousands it killed, and the hundreds of thousands it maimed and crippled. Oh, the rough grasp it laid on men at work, women at home, and children in cribs and cradles. Coughs that began before Thanksgiving Day are racking and tearing them still; yes, and growing worse as they dig deeper into the poor, tired throat and lungs. Many were cured by using Benson's Porous Plasters. For the soothing and healing power of these Plasters is wonderful. They conquer the complaints

THAT ARE KILLING THE PEOPLE.

No other plaster, no other medicine or application, can compare with them. Coughs, colds, backache, rheumatism, lumbago, kidney and liver troubles, asthma, influenza, —they all go down before Benson's Plasters like a snow image in the sun. You can't throw money away on a Benson's Plaster. Everybody is going to use them this season. But make certain you get the genuine. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each. Seabury & Johnson, Mfg. Chemists, N. Y.
