BUG DEATH.

Be sure to use Bug Death on all plants, the great exterminator of insects, for house and garden plants and small shrubs. While it is non-poisonous to man is sure death to insects. The farmers who used Bug Death freely on potatoes last season had a large crop of good smooth potatoes, which actually brought higher prices in the market. It does not injure the potatoes or vine in the least.

MR. W. C. ROLPH, DEAR SIR: The Self-Feeding Huber Separator with Blower, that I bought of you last year gave me perfect satisfaction. It threshes very rapidly and does the work in perfect order. The Huber Self-feeder, I think, is superior to hand feeding at all times. I like the way the Blower Fan is driven better than any I have ever seen. Withing you see us in the business this year, I am

THE HUBER MFG. CO., HARRISBURG, PA.:
GENTLEMEN: The Huber rig we got from you last season is a beauty. The engine the most economical in fuel, powerful, on road and belt, and the easier to operate than any other engine we have ever seen.
The thresher will thresh faster, save more grain, than any other, while the self-feeder handled the heavy straw of last season faster and better than hand feeding.
We can truthfully and cheerfully say that the Huber is the finest rig ever sold on the Eastern Shore.
Yours very truly,

BRIEFLETS.

Self complacency is said to cover many a defect of the mind.

The manners of a man have no small part in his success or failure.

There are no cloudy days for the man who wears sunshine in his heart.

Heaven will not be as badly crowded as the epitaphs on tombstones would indicate.

There is no cure for the itching nose of a young lady who is wearing a diamond engagement ring.

The man who is right and knows it never offers to compromise as long as he is determined to remain right.

You never see "Closed for the summer; manager away on a vacation," on the doors of the devil's workshop.

We always have our doubts about the liberality of the hostess who cut her pie into more than four pieces.

Sammy (admirably) surveying his lately arrived twin sisters—Did you get them cheaper by taking the two, papa?

"Circumstances alter cases," remarked Uncle Joshua, pushing the cat out of the rocking chair and seating himself with every evidence of satisfaction. "When a man is about to die he calls on the preacher, and when he gets well he forgets the doctor. Now that meat is so high I notice that people ain't a makin' as much fun of the vegetarians as they used to."

A little Cambridge girl was discovered whispering in school, and the teacher asked: "What were you saying to the girl next to you when I caught you whispering?" The little culprit hung her head for a moment, and then replied: "I was only telling her how nice you looked in your new dress."

"Well, that—yes—I know—but we must—the class in spelling will please stand up."

The late Rev. Dr. Talmage used to tell this story on himself with gusto: One summer day he was preaching. The windows of the church were down from the top. His text was: "And the Spirit of the Lord descended upon him as a dove." Right in the midst of the sermon, at the most impressive point, just as the doctor had repeated the text, a dove flew in the window and settled on the pulpit. The effect was electrical, and Dr. Talmage made good use of the incident we may be sure. The sermon created a sensation and was the talk of the city. So much so that he was requested to repeat it. He consented but how to get another dove to fly into the church was his problem. Then the thought struck him of having the sexton carry a dove into the roof above the dome of the church and at the opportune moment let it loose. "Mind, now, Michael," said the doctor; "when I come to the place in my sermon where I say, 'and the Spirit descended upon him like a dove,' let the dove down." The church was thronged. Dr. Talmage grew more and more eloquent as the sermon proceeded. At length he came to the critical passage. Drawing himself up, as was his wont, and dropping his hands to his side with a startling bang, he hoarsely whispered: "And the Spirit descended upon him like a dove." No answer from Michael. Again the doctor said, this time louder, looking toward the roof: "And the Spirit descended upon him like a dove." Then, from the dome, Mike was heard in a stage whisper: "Yer riveness, the cat's ate up the dove. Will I send down the cat?"

WINDOW PLANTS.

The Best to Use For Various Exposures.

"If I were asked to give a list of plants adapted to the several exposures," said a noted florist recently "the list would be something like this: For eastern windows, fuchsias, begonias, callas, Chinese primroses, primula obconica, azaleas, plumbago, stevias, iobellias and all kinds of bulbous plants; for southern windows, geraniums, roses, chrysanthemums, carnations, lantanas, axalis, oleanders, abutilons, hibiscus, marguerites and most of the plants having richly colored foliage; for western windows, bright-leaved plants and a few of the more "accommodating" plants like the geranium, provided the effect of too strong sunshine is modified somewhat; for the northern windows, ferns, araucarias, English ivies, palms, aspidistras, ficuses and selaginellas, Roman hyacinths, Primula obconica and Chinese primroses will often bloom well in sunless windows."—Exchange.

Large Oil Tanks.

Steel oil tanks of large dimensions have been ordered by the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass Railroad Company for use in supplying oil fuel to the engines of that road. Two of these tanks will each hold 55,000 barrels of oil, and four will have a capacity of 30,000 barrels each. The location of these tanks has not yet been fixed upon. This 9,000,000 gallons of oil will supply fuel for eight months to 60 engines, according to the estimates made. They will be filled during the dull season. The engines will be equipped with oil burners as rapidly as the material can be secured.
