BUG DEATH.

Be sure to use Bug Death on all plants, the great exterminator of insects, for house and garden plants and small shrubs. While it is non-poisonous to man is sure death to insects. The farmers who used Bug Death freely on potatoes last season had a large crop of good smooth potatoes, which actually brought higher prices in the market. It does not injure the potatoes or vine in the least.

MR. W. C. ROLPH, DEAR SIR: The Self-Feeding Huber Separator with Blower, that I bought of you last year gave me perfect satisfaction. It threshes very rapidly and does the work in perfect order. The Huber Self-Feeder, I think, is superior to hand feeding at all times. I like the way the Blower Fan is driven better than any I have ever seen. Wishing you success in the business this year, I am

GENTLEMEN: The Huber rig we got from you last season is a beauty. The engine the most economical in fuel, powerful, on road and belt, and the easier to operate than any other engine we have ever seen.
The thresher will thresh faster, save more grain, than any other, while the self-feeder handled the heavy straw of last season faster and better than hand feeding.
We can truthfully and cheerfully say that the Huber is the finest rig ever sold on the Eastern Shore.
Yours very truly,

PROHIBITION WORK.

Nearly Half the Population of the United States is Affected.

If we take prohibition in its most liberal interpretation, we find that nearly half the population of the United States is living under local option or State prohibition laws regarding the sale of intoxicating drinks. In studying the figures given by the prohibition enthusiasts we find at least five States have enacted prohibition or local option laws which cover every county and town. These five States, which have been the pioneers in this movement, are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Kansas and North Dakota. But other States are nearly as generally governed by the same prohibitory laws, the few exceptions hardly being sufficient to remove them from the same class. The whole of Georgia is under State prohibition or local option laws, with the exception of four cities; South Dakota, with the exception of four cities and towns; South Carolina, with the exception of 10 cities, and Iowa, with the exception of 25 cities. In Montana only a few counties have adopted local option or prohibition in any form; but in most of the other States there is a goodly array of towns, counties and cities which have decided to reform themselves concerning strong drink.

In New York State we have some 700 cities and towns that have thus drawn the strict line of abolishing the sale of spirituous drink, and in Massachusetts, out of 353 towns and cities, 263 have fallen in line. Illinois has to her credit 650 cities and towns enjoying local option laws; Ohio, 500; Michigan, 400; Wisconsin, 300; Nebraska, 250; Minnesota, 400; New Jersey, 200; California, 175.

All the other States have moved in line to a more or less extent, many of them adopting local prohibition laws according to counties rather than by towns or cities. In Alabama, 50 out of 65 counties are reported to be under prohibition laws; in Arkansas, 50 out of 73 counties; in Florida, 30 out of 45 counties; in Kentucky, 90 out of 119 counties; in Louisiana, 20 out of 59 counties; in Maryland, 15 out of 24 counties; in Mississippi, 71 out of 75 counties; in Missouri, 84 out of 115 counties; in North Carolina, 90 out of 100 counties; in Pennsylvania, 60 cities and towns and 20 counties; in Tennessee, 70 out of 95 counties; in Texas, 120 out of 246 counties; in Virginia, 55 out of 106 counties; in West Virginia, 40 out of 54 counties; and in Washington, 50 cities and towns. Little more than half the States under prohibition, and little Rhode Island 20 of its cities and towns. In these numerous cities, towns and counties it is estimated that there is a total population of about 30,000,000.—Harper's Weekly.

BLASTS FROM THE RAM'S HORN.

Narrow thoughts are never high. To despair of man is to doubt God. Death is the only escape from death. They only rule who scorn all ridicule. No wrong path can lead to a right end. A man's horizon depends on his heart. Success needs not to apologize for itself.

It takes a very small fool to commit great folly. No man can become greater than his own heart. Spiritual forces cannot be set down in figures.

The guide to darkness find their way to their own element. That cannot be right which is not rational.

Forbearance is sometimes nobler than forgiveness. It is hard to forgive an ostentatious forgiveness.

The self-satisfied man is pleased with a very little. He multiplies his troubles who runs to meet them.

A father's love is the best part of a child's inheritance. Christ would be considered a very poor centime today.

The powers we use as toys are unfitted for use as tools. We do not defer today's punishment by tomorrow's promises.

A man has never failed utterly so long as he has friends left him. When a man denies God in his heart he will deny humanity in his life.

Wickedness is a plant that is most likely to die if we cease to water it. You cannot expect God to honor your drafts when you refuse Him your deposits.

A sermon on our duty to God will not be accepted as a substitute for doing our duty to man. The fool who buries his head in the dust has equally the impudence to declare that there can be nothing divine.

An Alphabet for Young Americans.

The following alphabet is printed on a neat card and hung up in coffee taverns and places of resort and business in Great Britain. We commend it to Americans:

Attend carefully to the details of your business. Be prompt in all things. Consider well, then decide positively. Dare to be right; fear to be wrong. Endure trials patiently. Fight life's battles bravely, manfully. Go not into the society of the vicious. Hold integrity sacred. Injure not another's reputation or business. Join hands only with the virtuous. Keep your mind from evil thoughts. Lie not for any consideration. Make few special acquaintances. Never try to appear what you are not. Observe good manners. Pay your debts promptly. Question not the veracity of a friend. Respect the counsel of your parents. Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drinks. Use your leisure time for improvement. Venture not upon the threshold of wrong. Watch carefully over your passions. Extend to everyone a kindly salutation. Yield not to discouragement. Zealously labor for the right. Success is certain.
