How to Save Your Silver.

Whenever "Uncle Sam's" mail bag goes a liberal quantity of ELECTRO-SILICON goes when a housekeeper asks for it. Send your address on a postal card to the Electro-Silicon Co., 30 Cliff St., New York, N. Y., and it will be sent to you; when tried its story is told; then it is for you to decide whether or not it is the best. It's unlike all other silver polish, it never scratches or wears, that's how it saves your silver, its brilliancy producing power is surprising. A full sized box will be sent post-paid for 15 cents in stamps. Your grocer should have it; it has been in the market 35 years, and is sold in nearly every civilized country.

DON'TS FOR GIRLS.

Don't ignore instinct. God has endowed women with it for her own good.
Don't borrow money or jewels from your chums; the first you may find difficult to pay, the last if lost must be replaced.

Don't rob your old father of comforts in order to be stylish. The wage-earner should be given his rights before Fashion has her privileges.

Don't take liberties with verity. Men especially shun girls who exaggerate.

Don't go out with men unless you are well acquainted with their habits, station in life, even financial position in a degree, for you may be taking from another needed expenditure.

Don't touch any sort of beverage that has alcohol in it in a public cafe unless your mother or a male relative is with you. Scandal lurks in cafes habitually.

Don't stare. Girls do too often, then unjustly resent return stares from strangers.

Don't swing your arms while walking. The habit is common; it looks coarse. Girls think it looks athletic.

Don't permit men to use your name familiarly. Be self respecting in order to be respected. Men are very rational censors.

Don't boast. If you are one of the god's favorites it will be manifested; boasting is vulgar.

Don't use superlatives. Reposeful girls who are used to the things of life that are desirable, admire, but never gush!

Don't go into debt; it is remorseless; it robs one of sleep; it turns day into night, and it harasses brain and body. Better a few things paid for than many with debts.

Life is But a Span.

To the Editor of THE NEWS:
With all the merry "jingles of the month," there is a serious side which appeals to us in their symbolic character, for, after all, life is but a span from the first-born month to the dying year:

The jingles now have ended;
The days and months have blended
To make good folks the wiser
In this rhythmic wit of man;
But let us all remember
That January and December
Are universal emblems
Of the life we have to span.
While some have reached September,
And others ere December,
The beautiful May is dawning
With her tints of emerald green;
The youthful ones are dancing,
With wistful eyes all glancing,
So eager in their ardor,
To win this building Queen.

THE FEMININE WAY OF DOING THINGS.

When little Mrs. Dimpleton returned from the club she was trembling on the brink of a flood of tears.
"I'll never go near that horrible old club again!" she declared, with a catch in her voice. "I hate it so, I do! I hate Mrs. Bronkhorst Thump, our adorable grand chaperon, too. She is a mean old thing, and I'll never speak to her again as long as I live. Why, the vote on the question of—oh, dear, I forgot what it was, but it was horrible, anyhow, and I didn't see any sense to it then, and I don't now, either. The vote stood 15 to 14, and she voted making it a tie of 15 to 15; and then she calmly announced that according to the constitution and by-laws she had the power, by virtue of her office, to decide all questions in case of a tie, and at once proceeded to decide it on the—boo hoo!—wrong side."
"Shade of the immortal Jefferson!" breathed her husband, raising his hands on high. "Think of what may happen if women are not kept out of politics!"
