A LIMA BEAN STORY.

This Lady Thought the Beans Didn't Know Their Business.

There's an eminent divine in Dover who has had his faith in the all round acumen of gentle womanhood rudely shattered this week. He's willing to acknowledge that the ruling spirit of his particular household is way up on most things that have made the fairer sex such a power for the world's betterment, but when it comes to butter beans, their habits, mode of culture and general peculiarities, he has had most convincing and disastrous proof that her proper position is way back in the last row of the kindergarden class.

This sad fact was unraveled thusly: The divine, who takes great pride in his well-kept vegetable garden, had carefully planted an extra quality of thoroughbred lima beans around a lot of sturdy poles, and with joy the other morning he noted that these limas were popping up on schedule time.

He left the garden after slight inspection for his matutinal promenade about town, rejoicing in this further proof that the sower shall reap.

When he returned home his wife met him at the threshold, and informed him that she had just saved his lima bean crop. He couldn't understand until she led him into the garden and explained that every last one of those beans had come up wrong side up and she had just pulled them up, reversed them and replanted them. When he recovered sufficiently to hear details, she told him that she had noticed all the beans pushing up out of the ground, and she knew that their place was down at the bottom, for he had planted them there.

There's a high fence around that garden and the dominie was all alone by himself while he did the replainting.

OBSERVATIONS.

A good husband is but the evolution of a good son.

WEALTH OF THE CITIES.

The total assessed value of real estate and personal property in the city of New York, uncorrected, is $6,600,000,000.

Each county of the State adopts its own rate of valuation as compared with the actual value of real estate.

Inclusive of State, national and municipal property and of all property exempt from taxation, New York city represents in tangible real and personal estate $10,000,000,000, and this enormous total quite overshadows all other American cities and many foreign countries as well

Chicago represents $500,000,000 worth of real and personal property; Boston, $1,200,000,000; Philadelphia, $1,000,000,000; St. Louis, $450,000,000; San Francisco, $450,000,000; Buffalo, $250,000,000; Baltimore, $450,000,000; Pittsburg, $350,000,000; Washington, $150,000,000; Cleveland, $250,000,000, and Providence, $200,000,000.

The greater wealth of eastern cities, when compared with the more populous places of more recent growth in the West, is due to the large accumulations of invested capital, much of which finds employment in other places. Peoria, Ill., and New Bedford, Mass., have substantially the same population, but while the assessed value of taxable property in Peoria is less than $10,000,000, in New Bedford it is more that $60,000,000.—New York Sun.

THE MAN WHO DID.

All doctors in my town failed to relieve me of rheumatism. I have used about half a bottle of Nelaton and feel so much improved, that while I may not need it, I enclose P. O. order for $1 for one more bottle of the remedy that has been such a God-send to me. I cheerfully recommend Nelaton to anyone suffering with rheumatism.
