CHESTERTOWN, - AUG. 15, 1891

ROCK HALL LOCALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Ashley lost by death their infant child last week, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Legg has been called to mourn the death of their infant child during the present week. While death is an unwelcome visitor to us all, these two young couples can rejoice in the fact that their dear babes have gone to Him who gave, and are now with the innumerable throng of saints, basking in the sunlight of God, and are only awaiting the coming of those who mourn their loss.

A most unfortunate accident occurred on Saturday morning last, which caused the death of Mr. George Elburn, son of Wm. S. Elburn, on the Blackiston farm in Eastern Neck. While riding a horse the animal reared and fell backwards, catching young Elburn beneath him, dislocating his thigh and hurting him internally also. George was a promising man and highly esteemed by all who knew him. The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Roe, on Monday afternoon. A large concourse of people were in attendance. The bearers were Chas. H. Smith, John A. Smith, Milton L. Maslin, Wm. J. Porter, Chas. Harrison and Charles S. Porter. The bereaved family have the sympathy of a host of friends.

Mail service has at last been secured whereby the mail for Baltimore, and points north and south, will go through the day mailed instead of laying over at Chestertown as heretofore. This is a great accomodation to the public, and would be of much advantage financially to the postoffice here if it were not for Republican factional animosity, and others who would rather accommodate interests not connected with home interests. It is to be hoped that the steamboat company will be vigilent enough to put a stop to the wholesale reception of mail matter not passing through the postoffice. The office here is conducted with prompt dispatch, and every effort is put forth to discharge every duty pertaining to a first-class office.

Surprises it is said seldom come singly. In the case of our tonsorial artist the saying seems to be verified. First, it transpires that he is a poet of no mean ability; second, he has displayed in his office a certificate of marriage, showing where he was married in 1883 to a dashing Jersey lassie. We have often noted his seeming indifference towards the fair sex, but never dreamed it was because he was already a benedict.

Contrary to all expectations the Rock Hall baseball nine is resuming their old time prestige. They played the Piney Neck nine on Saturday last, and their efforts secured for them a straight victory, the following being the score by innings:

CLUBS.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	T'l
Rock Hall	4	6	10	8	8	0	4	3	1	44
Piney Neck	4	0	6	4	0	1	1	0	0	10

Encouraged by their victory, no doubt they would appreciate another contest with the college boys before the oyster season opens. R.

A Living Fruit Picture.

Among the many busy farmers and horticulturists in this busy season, there is not in all Kent county possibly a busier man than Capt. Robt. S. Emory; not one who will be at more places in the same length of time—who is quicker in physical movement, in thought and intelligent speech—than this same wonderful genius of the orchard, the river, the poultry yard and the factory, who lives and operates in such princely style at his beautiful home on the banks of the Chester. His homestead is in full view of the wharf at Chestertown and about two miles by the public road. We had occasion to go there a day two ago. We were on business and had but a moment to spare. We found Captain Emory in his packing house with coat and hat off, sleeves rolled up, and if possible busier than ever before. We had hardly stopped at the door however, and delivered our message, before he was out of the packing room, hatless and coatless, and was in charge of our team driving down the orchard avenues and expatiating as we went upon the scenes presented to view.

We were literally astounded! We knew he had fine peach and pear orchards and had heard of their prolific character this season, but were utterly unprepared for the sights witnessed. The long rows of dwarf pear trees were literally loaded with the rich fruit—the limbs bent to the ground—some breaking with the heavy weight. Every valuable variety grown had a place there. The prolific scene was the most beautiful of the kind we ever witnessed, and should be transferred to canvas by the artist's brush. Captain Emory expects to pick over twenty thousand baskets of this splendid fruit, and is now engaged in that work. The whole business is systematized. He has just as many hands as he needs—no more, no less. He personally superintends the whole work and has the enthusiastic co-operation of all the members of his family. He ships his fruit by rail and by steamer—the latter stopped at his wharf. His pears in large quantities are going to Northern markets and bring high prices. He is now packing and shipping to New York and Boston in barrels. This is done like all his other work in the most perfect manner. Nice new barrels and kegs made for the purpose are used and these are marked and ornamented by a pretty label. The barrels hold about six baskets and net him $4. We had not time to look at his extensive poultry yards and hatching apparatus, but our readers have before been told of these. The captain also deals largely in fish, in vegetables of all kinds and small fruits and besides finds time to run a large peach box factory in Chestertown, and will probably sell a hundred thousand boxes this season.

Capt. George Fell Overboard.

Brief mention was made in the News last week of the sea trip that Messrs. George B. Westcott and Wm. P. Howard, of Chestertown, expected to take. Well, they have arrived home from that trip and the following log was noted. Arriving at Tuckahoe the small cat boat was purchased from Capt. George's aunt and after being well provided with well-cooked food by the good lady, sail was set Thursday morning. The first town sighted was Dennisville and from there they went down the Delaware river and when off Woodland Beach they "got on to" a sloop and stayed all night. At Port Penn a stop was made where a treat of ice-cream was enjoyed, arriving in Delaware City at 6 o'clock Friday night and there Admiral Howard and Capt. George paid their best respects to a sumptuous supper at the hotel. While the little boat was in the locks of the Chesapeake and Delaware canal Capt. George accidentally walked overboard and Admiral says the first he knew of it he heard the captain say "Admiral, I'm in the canal!" He is a good swimmer and was immediately rescued. They stopped at Chesapeake City for an hour on Saturday and arrived at Tolchester 4 o'clock, reaching this port Sunday evening at six. They had but one little shower during the whole route and had fair winds the whole way, not a tack being made! The craft lies at Thompson's wharf and is called a small cat boat. She is 14 ft. over all, 12 ft. reel and six feet wide. Mr. Westcott has played in her when he was a boy and desired the boat for the use of his boys. While away the two seaman spent a day at Atlantic City, some of which city's sights may be found on our first page.

Cramps!—In view of the prevalence of cramps and similar disorders at this season, health Commissioner McShane and his assistant, Dr. Spicer, offer some suggestions to those who may be suddenly afflicted. "In the absence of a physician," they say, "when a person is suddenly taken with cramps, the most useful remedies are small doses (about a teaspoonful) of camphor water or paregoric, repeated every hour until the person is relieved of pain. A mustard plaster may be applied over the pain, and where there is much prostration stimulants are beneficial in small quantities." Both doctors say that care in avoiding the eating of much fruit and the drinking of excessive quantities of cold beverages, which disarrange the digestive functions, will prevent cramp in many instances.

The Democratic State Convention of New York will meet at Saratoga Sept. 15. Hon. Roswell P. Flower heads the latest slate as candidate for Governor.

Galena Items.

On Friday evening last, there happened at the outskirts of the town an accident that came very near being a serious one. One of our bicycle riders (for we have several) started out after dark to take a ride and in going along he did not notice a horse and carriage coming towards him until he was so close to it that he could not get out of the way and in his confusion he did not know whether to blow the whistle or ring the bell. In his speed (for he was going at the rate of about 15 miles an hour) he ran right into the team. He did not quite upset horse and carriage but frightened the horse badly and the occupants of the carriage too, a young lady and gentleman. Fortunately the horse was a very quiet one or it might have been serious. The man on the wheel says he will be more cautious next time and will not go so fast. Result of the accident—the rider on the wheel got off with a swelled hand.

The Rev. Mr. Nelson was aroused during the night of Monday last by a great commotion in his chicken house; he thought some one was helping themselves to some of his poultry so he went out to see, but in place of the expected chicken thief he caught a coon sucking an egg! What the reverend gentleman is going to do with his coonship we don't know but presume he will fatten him and make a savory meal of him after awhile.

Mr. Horsey took in this week in his regular business transactions a check given by Benj. Harrison, President of the United States. The check was drawn on one of the banks of Washington, D. C., and only for a small amount $5.25.

Mrs. Barrett, of Baltimore county, is visiting Mrs. Wallis at Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davis, of Philadelphia, are visiting at Mr. J. T. Pennington's.

Miss Emma Hyland is visiting her brother in New York.

Miss Nellie Sollaway, of Wilmington, Del., is visiting at Mr. James Hicks.

On Wednesday it was reported that the Fannie brought back from Baltimore some 700 baskets of peaches of imferior fruit for which there is no sale.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the thermometer registered 90° to 95° in the shade. On Wednesday afternoon and night we had a glorious rain which has started the farmers to plowing fallow again.

Peach News from Millington.

We are up to our necks in peaches. Nineteen cars, or 15,000 baskets were shipped from here Monday; 18,000 baskets on Tuesday and 16,000 Wednesday. The fruit has been consigned to Boston, New York, Providence, New Haven, Scranton, Buffalo and every place that the buyers could send them at a profit. A number of growers who have heretofore sent to Baltimore are hauling here. Mr. Alday Clements and others below him are hauling here. We have three freight trains each way daily and prices are good.

The following observation was made by a gentleman visiting here last week:

The orchards about Millington are bearing a full crop, many of them a heavy one, and the only diminution in the yield will be from the yellows. Notwithstanding this the shipments are expected to be larger than any previous year in the history of the town. Most orchards have a good many affected trees, but there is such a full crop on healthy trees that it will make but little difference in the aggregate yield. The yeild of many orchards will run beyond the original estimate. The spread of the blight appears to have reached its limit for this season.

All of the varieties seem a week or ten days ahead of time. On July 6 two carloads were shipped, while in previous years July 7 was about the earliest that a single basket had ever been shipped. Philadelphia gets on average one-tenth of the total shipments. It all depends on the condition of the market. Some days the Quaker City gets more than New York does, but it is generally the other way.

The railroad company's June estimate was 347,000 baskets, and the indications are that it will not be much reduced. The shipments in 1888 were 270,000 baskets; 1889, 160,000, and in 1890 none.

H. F. Kenney, R. L. Holliday and Vice President Green and party, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, visited Millington, Monday, looking after the peach shipments. J.

Lankford Locals.

It is seldom indeed we acquaint your readers that such a place as lower Lankford exists. But we are happy to say that we can boast of what other neighborhoods can not. We are surrounded by water. The north-east and north-west prongs of Lankford Bay abound in fish, oysters, crabs and steamboats at present. But we regret to say that as a rule they are very scarce. It is necessary to have a boat the year round as the people have to haul their produce about 12 miles. Now, if the accommodating Chester River company would build a wharf and stop about three times per week, we think they would be justified in doing so and sincerely hope they will consider the matter.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hadaway gave a lawn fete Thursday evening in honor of their guests. Among those present were Misses Emily and Nellie Bettee, Nannie, Georgia and Eva Wallis, Selma Stern, Sadie Rappaport, Annie Goldstrom, Lizzie Hadaway, of Baltimore, Beulah Taylor, Miss Taylor and others. Mr. John Stoops entertained the company with a tame fox and singing and dancing was indulged in until a late hour and all repaired to their homes having had a good time. Music was furnished by Kilbourn & Bennett.

Miss Joseph Horney, of Baltimore, is visiting Mrs. A. T. Thomas, of Broad Neck.

Miss Fannie Kendall, of Posner Bros., Baltimore, is visiting in Kent.

Miss Anna May Downey, of Chestertown, Miss Hettie Hadaway, of Lankford, and Mrs. John Downey, of Rock Hall, expect to visit Ocean City. D. W.

Finley, representing the Wrought Iron Bridge Company, of Canton, Ohio, was present to execute contract with commissioners for the erection of an iron bridge over the stream at what is known as Sparks' mill, which contract was executed, said company being the lowest bidders for the work. George W. Rodenhiser, in behalf of E. J. Plummer, made application for permission to hawl a traction engine over Chester bridge, which permission was granted, provided he first obtain permission from a majority of the Queen Anne's commissioners, and provided further, that the said Plummer shall send a messenger to warn persons approaching from the opposite direction before the engine goes on the bridge, it being understood that no engine shall be propelled by steam over the bridge.

A Trip to Niagara!

THE SCENERY ON THE ROUTE.

A Quartette from Chestertown Accompany the Peninsula Press Association to Watkins Glen—Through the Tobacco and Lumber Country.

We have often heard of the sublime sight presented by the great falls of Niagara, and longed to visit the scene. So, when the peninsular editors decided at Saratoga to make their annual excursion to Watkins Glen, Niagara Falls, etc., an opportunity was afforded the News representative to see some of nature's wonders. We were fortunate in having as company three of Chestertown's fair daughters who added very much to the pleasures of the trip.

We boarded the Kent train here on Friday, 31st, and after delays of several hours at the different stations we were left at Massey's to take the Queen Anne's train in order to make connection with the 6 o'clk. express to Philadelphia. We doubt if Massey's would have been reached before 7 o'clock had it not been for Mr. Jolls, the mail agent, for he made himself very useful in handling and loading fruit. Conductor Blyman found in him an able assistant as was also Capt. James Thompson. We reached the city of Philadelphia about 8 o'clock and after a night's rest at the Bingham House met the editorial association of seventy members at Broad street station at 8 A. M. Two special cars were attached to the Niagara express for the association and a more pleasant and jovial party never started out on a trip than that which left Philadelphia on Saturday, Aug. 1. The Pennsylvania road is noted for its excellent accommodations to passengers, and to the association special courtesies were shown by the managers and officers of the road. The first large city we pass is Harrisburg, after riding through Lancaster, Chester and Dauphin counties, then we took a northerly course and followed for many miles the meandering course of the Susquehanna to Williamsport. Many of our readers, especially at Rock Hall, have heard of the Williamsport lumber, etc., and know what the lumber is. Here is lumber galore, yards that cover acres are filled with timber of all kinds, and after leaving this port the country surrounding is dotted with saw mills each of which employs over one hundred men whose homes are found on the mountain side near the large mills. The scenery through the counties of Northumberland, Lycoming and Bradford was picturesque and rugged. In Lancaster county we were interested in the fine lot of tobacco growing along the road. This is a part of the tobacco belt which begins in Virginia and sweeps in a curve to Connecticut where is grown some of the finest weed produced in this country. We learned that the average outlook was poor on account of the heavy rains. An employe on the train informed us that rain had fallen for fifteen consecutive days and all on account of camp meeting which had been started recently. He says he has been on the train six years and never within his experience has it failed to rain when the Lancaster camp commenced. He called it the "camp meeting rain." It was at one of these great tobacco shipping points that the old-fashioned puritan inhabitant was descried with large brimmed hat, pants in boots and both hands stuck in his pockets—a typical inhabitant of this section.

We are rushing along over the rock ballasted bed at forty miles an hour through a valley whose sides tower sixty to seventy-five feet. The hillsides are covered with wood, where the forester is busy getting out timber for the saw mill. Sinuous paths up the steep hills can be seen, while in a few cleared places cabbage and beans had been planted. The hills and valleys successfully undulate as if in continual motion, while the forests of linden and poplar rise, step by step, and slope as evenly as if trained and trimmed by human hands, and in waving green presented a pretty view. It was the shifting of the scenery that rid the long ride of weariness and made it one of pleasure. The road at times seemed to have been cut through solid rock, which abounds along the sides and gave a rugged appearance to the country. The Susquehanna along the railroad is very wide and shallow, the rocks dotting its surface at short intervals. Navigation is almost impossible, although there are a few small boats that try to go to the other side. Cattle could be seen grazing on islands 100 yards from shore and thereby making the milker swear when he goes for them at night. At Elmira we pass through one of its streets where one can pluck bananas from the car windows off the merchant's bunch, but, of course, this was not done, except by Mr. John Y. Todd and he left a nickle to pay for them. Here we were reminded that at one time Governor Hill resided, and at present the residence of Fassett, whom President Harrison has just appointed collector of New York. Here we are apprised of the fact that Senator Matthew Quay, the noted republican politician, and several senators from New Jersey and Pennsylvania are in the next car to our party. We are now nearing one of the most wonderful of nature's works and all are in a quandary as to what the town is like, its size, etc. At Havana many have their baggage in hand ready to disembark, but are informed that the next stop is Watkins, where we arrive at 7.30 P. M. The association through Mr. H. C. Carpenter, had engaged board at the Glen Mountain House, which nestles snugly in among the trees, and here a hearty supper was enjoyed. At night the town of 4,000 inhabitants was explored and the ladies added some jewelry to their stock in order to look more fascinating while in the North. Sunday morning dawned cool and clear and we started out for a visit to the Sanitarium, to reach which a high mountain had to be scaled, but the bracing wind that greeted us at the top was a recompense for the labor of climbing. In company with a guide we went through this tremendous retreat of the sick which accommodates 500 boarders at $42 and $47 per week. Every convenience imaginable is here for the comfort of those seeking renewed health. While enjoying the exhilirating air that was wafted to us as we sat upon the spacious piazza, we heard the church bells pealing forth their summons to worship and we determined to go to church in the morning and explore the glen after dinner. After inquiring as to the churches we attended the Presbyterian, where we listened to an able sermon from a Scotch preacher named Douglas. He had a pleasant voice and an excellent delivery. Some of our party, including Revs. W. W. W. Wilson and J. H. Dubadaway, attended the Methodist Church, while most of the association explored the lower glen.

We now leave our readers in church until next week, when we hope to be able to tell something of the wonderful Watkins' Glen. F. G. U.
