DR. M. CURBY BURKHARD'S

FEMALE PERIODICAL PILLS

LADIES: By special request from patients at a distance, who can not personally consult me, and being unable to answer the many correspondents, and furnish at short notice the Favorite Prescription, as used by me during a practice of twenty-five years, have consented to prepare and supply to you this unrivaled remedy for Female Irregularities. The climax of medical chemistry attained in Dr. Burkhard's Periodical Pills, being six degrees stronger than any known medicine, yet so mild that the feeblest can take them with perfect security; yet so powerful in their effects that they can be safely called a Never-Failing Regulator. Each box contains fifty pills, with full directions enclosed. Price, Five Dollars per box. Sold by druggists or sent by mail upon receipt of price. Refuse all patent medicines. Take only the prepared prescription of a physician in practice. Dr. M. Curby Burkhard, the reliable specialist, Office, 107 Park Avenue, Baltimore, Md. Cut this out for future reference.

The Diary of a Summer Girl.

June 6: Elizabeth Tenney was married today, and she was a fearful example of what a bride may be. Elizabeth's friends have always raved over the dull Burne-Jones black of her hair and her exquisite olive complexion. But Burne-Jones hair and olive skin do not go with a confectionery bridal attire. White satin made the poor girl look sallow, and a tulle veil over that hair of hers was attrocious. If there is ever a time when rogue is excusable it is when a girl is married.

It was, of course, a wretched day and Mrs. Van Broom, who was there rustling around in old-fashioned brocade and point lace and arching her neck in a "high-bred" way, said to that unfortune girl: "My very best wishes, Lizzie dear! Happy is the bride that the sun shines on!" The rain was fairly pelting at that minute. Poor Elizabeth colored violently and so did Mr. Van Broom, who was devoting himself in a beautiful filial way to his mother. They say that Elizabeth doesn't care overmuch for her husband, anyway. I should'nt think she would!

I wore my greenish-gray cloth, with the vest, collar and undersleeves of white chiffon, and a little bonnet made of pale pink velvet roses. On the whole I looked well, much better than poor Elizabeth, who ought never to leave off her funny æsthetic colors and floppy styles. I talked to every one in my most brilliant vein—which isn't over-brilliant, to be sure. It isn't so much what one says, though, as the way in which one says it. If you hold your head at the proper angle and use your eyes effectively you can utter inanities and have the crowd call you a wonderful conversationalist. Harvey Leroyd danced attendance on me and I encouraged him in his laudable desire to make an imbecile of himself. Mr. Van Broom spoke to me only once. Then he told me that he was so very glad that I was to spend a fortnight with his mother. She was so fond of youthful society, he said, and it always brightened her up so to have a girl as a guest. I replied that I had not before looked upon my visit with her as purely philanthropic, but that it pleased me to think of it in that light. He didn't seem to enjoy my sally and replied stiffly that he very much regretted that he would be away during the whole of my visit. I couldn't think of anything politely disagreeable to answer, so I smiled in an absent-minded way and turned toward some one else. He didn't try to speak to me again. I think he's very awkward and tiresome and he's probably pedantic. And I've promized to let Harvey Leroyd write to me this summer. He's coming down to Maine while I am there. He's tiresome, too. But he doesn't try to tower above one. He's perfectly content to grovel at one's feet and run errands.

Poor Elizabeth! She did look so! "Happy is the bride the sun shines on"—and it has rained unceasingly all day.

A Boy and His Poultice.

A young woman who has been a Sunday school teacher on the North Side for several days has retired from the work.

"The precociousness of the youth up to date," she said, "is enough to upset any teacher who is not ahead of the procession, if I may use such an expression. I was talking to my class a few Sundays ago on miracles. I used one that I thought would be the easiest grasped—that of the healing of Hezekiah. The king was afflicted with a boil, and Isaiah recommended the application of a fig. The cure was quick, and the story traveled about the country and was marveled at. A mild-looking boy whom I had never suspected of having a thought held up a hand, and I asked him what he wanted to say.

"'Please, ma'am,' he said, "that wasn't much of a miracle. My pa is a doctor, and I've heard him say lots of times that a fresh fig split in two and put on a boil is the best sort of a poultice.'

"I saw the complexion of that class change in a second. From a peaceful, trusting, religious mannerism it became sinister, snickering and devilish. And when the boy with a bruised nose said: 'Now, what'd I tell? Ef dey was to put a fig on me for a poultice, I'd eat it.' I experienced the sort of feeling which I imagine one feels when one is shoved off a high roof."
—Chicago.

One Disappointment Enough.

The young man had borrowed ten dollars from the rich old man, promising to bring it back one week from date. The millionaire let him have it, and on time the borrower brought it back.

"Now, Mr. Bullion," said the young man, "I've been square with you in this matter, and now I want to borrow $50 for two weeks."

The old man shook his head.

"Sorry, said he, "but can't let you have it."

"Why not?" and the young man was greatly astonished.

"Because you have disappointed me once, and I don't want to be disappointed again." The borrower was more surprised than ever.

"What do you mean by being disappointed?" he asked.

"This," explained the money man, "I let you have that $10, not expecting ever to get it again, and I did. Now, if I let you have $50 I would expect to get it again, and I never would. No, sir," he added, conclusively, one disappointment is enough. Good-day, and that ended it.

The Salad of Matrimony.

A learned English Judge asked a woman to marry him, because she, knowing his weakness, had mixed a salad so artistically that he declared he could no live without eating another. The Judge soon repented his folly. The lady had a foolish nature and a temper which so tormented her husband that he would prolong the sessions of his Court far into the night. "Gentlemen," he was accustomed to say, when counsel or jury murmured at the lateness of the hour, "as we must be somewhere, we cannot be better anywhere, than we are here."

Cold Water Caused His Death.

A dispatch from Middletown, Md., says: "David Cline, a young man about eighteen years old, employed on the farm of Henry Clipp, near High Knob, on Catoctin mountain. Frederick county died very suddenly last week under peculiar circumstances. He was plowing in the field and ate some strawberries. He then went to a spring, and after drinking liberally sat down on a stone. A few later he was seen to fall over dead. The day was very warm, and it is thought he may have been overheated and drank too much cold water.

A PIGEON FLIES DOWN A SMOKESTACK.—As the steamer Kent was going down the harbor Monday evening Captain Lucas saw a homing pigeon fly down the smokestack of the vessel. The Captain notified Engineer Robert Sheldon, who opened the smokebox of the stack and found the pigeon dead in the box. The bird had a band on its left leg, but the letters on the band were partly indecipherable.

GASSER—My wife gave away an old coat of mine to a tramp the other day, and there was a $20 bill in the pocket.

Bildeck—Great heavens, old man, what a loss!

Gasser—Yes, but there's one consolation. My wife got it before the tramp did.

THE strongest animals in the world are those that live on a vegetable diet. The lion is ferocious rather than strong. The bull, horse, reindeer, elephant and antelope, all conspicuous for strength, are restricted by nature to a vegetable diet.

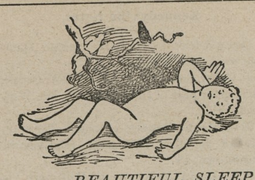

A SEA TURTLE weighing 600 pounds was caught and shipped to Baltimore last week but died on the way, and was sent to the Academy of Science for the preservation of the shell. It filled a cart body.

A check for £5,333,650 on the Bank of England, in payment for the Kimberley diamond mines, is said to be the largest ever drawn.

PROFESSOR—"How long should a man's legs be in proportion to his body?" Mr. Lowstand—"Long enough to reach the ground, sir."

More people speak the English language than any other by 35,000,000.

"WHY are you stopping the clock? "To save time."

BEAUTIFUL SLEEP

—is an expression used for sound sleep. Nothing is so gratifying to the nerves, heart, and head, as perfect sleep—a companion of good digestion and a healthy liver. A tired digestion fails to assimilate, or take care of, the food we eat. Something bracing or invigorating is needed for the liver, stomach, and intestines.

This is where you will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do the most good. They are tiny, sugar-coated pills, scarcely larger than mustard seed, made of concentrated botanical extracts. These "Pellets" are easily dissolved in the stomach and absorbed into the blood, stimulating a flow of bile from the liver, and arousing to activity all the glandular secretions. Thus they act in nature's own way.

They're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded, in all Bilious Attacks, in Sick Headache, Constipation, Dizziness, and Indigestion.

It cures Catarrh in the Head—perfectly and permanently—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.
