Will Burris Leave us?

Our famous college base-ball pitcher, Burris, went to Baltimore on Thursday to play a trial game with the Philadelphia league team, having received a telegram from Manager Irwin requesting the trial. He was accompanied by our equally famous catcher, Zearfoss, and Prof. Clarke who feel a deep interest in Burris and anxiety with reference to his future. Our community generally has been agitated on the subject. Burris is invaluable to Washington College in the line of his profession. We can illy afford to spare him now.—And we think we voice the universal sentiment in desiring the retention also of Mr. Zearfoss. As a catcher he is the equal of Burris in the box, and both alike are young men of character and social qualities.

LATER.—Mr. Burris had a conference with manager Irwin and gave an exhibition of his work. Before signing with any club he will return to town and make a proposition to the Board of Visitors, which if accepted he will remain here.

THE commencement exercises of the Chestertown Public School will be held in Stam's Hall, Friday evening, June 29th, beginning at 8 o'clock. All patrons and friends of the school are cordially invited to be present.

FIRE.—Mr. Frank Crowe, living near Fairlee, lost about fifteen loads of hay last Saturday night by fire. He thinks some one set fire to it during the night.

BIG FIND.—Mr. Joseph Dulaney, of the first district, now in the custom house in Balto., found two one hundred dollar bills on the floor of the custom house Saturday. He immediately reported his find to the deputy collector who put the money away for Mr. D. until he could find the rightful owner. The latter proved to be the National Bank of Commerce.

The public School Association, will meet at the school room, in Chestertown, to-day at ten o'clock A. M. The order of the day will be election of officers. The regular question: What supervision should the teacher have over the play-ground? Prof. W. J. Humphreys, of Washington College, will address the meeting.

SERIOUS ACCIDENTS.—Mr. W. Fletcher Melvin near Crumpton dislocated his shoulder last Tuesday while at work in the wheat field. His suffering was intense as he was compelled to wait several hours before Dr. Sheppard could be brought.

Willie Maslin, the 13 year old son of Mr. Carvil Maslin, had his arm broken Saturday morning. He was hauling straw when the horses became frightened, ran away and threw the boy off. Drs. Hines and Perkins attended the little one's injuries.

PEACHES.—Mr. Thomas A. Hudson has been picking peaches this week. They are of fair size and amounted to eight or ten boxes. He expects to have a fair crop. Mr. James W. Chapman says he will not have ten boxes on ten thousand trees! Quite a difference, isn't it?

A number of orchards in the lower section of Kent have fair crops—East Neck Island especially is said to be thus fortunate. In every other section of the county the crop is a failure. An orchard here and there is found with some of the earlier varieties.

The Baltimore American of Thursday says: Kent county, the center of the peach belt on the Eastern Shore, sent 7 boxes of peaches to Baltimore yesterday, the first from that section this season. They were shipped by W. M. Elburn, of Rock Hall. The fruit was unusually good.

PIGEON CAUGHT.—Mr. George Beck, on Monday last caught a carrier pigeon in his yard. The bird was in need of food and was easily caught while being fed. In one of the quills a note was found addressed to "Mrs. A. M. Knight, Annapolis, Md." It had been let loose Sunday, the 17th, 90 miles from the capes, 60 from the shore in the Gulf stream, from the U. S. S. Monongahela. After feeding and resting, it was let loose.

WHY NOT?

Some adverse comments having been made regarding the bar on the Steamer Sassafras, it may be asked, why not? The company has long been catering to the wants of the public, and if this can be further done without violating the law, should not public demand be gratified?

Much of patronage comes from Cecil county where the sale of liquor is sanctioned by law, and by having a bar on the boat, her citizens will not be obliged to have their bottles filled by starting to the city, but can secure the much desired article on the boat in a quiet way and not be subjected to the inquisitive gaze of temperance fanatics.

It is true that Kent has local option law, but by refusing to sell at her wharves will not the law be respected? Those who indulge can surely restrain their appetite during the stay at the wharves and thus aid the company in keeping the letter of the law, for such distinguished and honorable gentlemen would not be guilty of breaking the law.

It is well known that the boat does a thriving business in freighting jugs and demijohns to Kent county for her citizens, some of whom are "pillars" in the churches and if the company can mitigate this evil by accommodating the traveling public will they not be doing a good thing? If they can reap a greater revenue by engaging in the sale of liquor should they not have the privilege? Of course old maids and women, who seek notoriety in holding temperance conventions and passing resolutions that never amount to anything, together with a few radical rampant preachers will raise a howl at this new departure by the polite and enterprising steamboat company, but who cares?

The Sassafras route being a short one, with less freight possibly than on some others, is it right that the company should be expected to run their boat at a financial loss, when by "turning an honest penny" in the sale of liquor they will be able to support their families decently?

FAIR PLAY.

The Baltimore and Ohio R. R. Co., now has on sale at its offices east of the Ohio River a full line of tourist excursion tickets to all the lake, mountain and seashore resorts in the Eastern and Northern States and in Canada. First came Miss Hattie Barnard, Katie Howard, Madge Stavely and Addie Hess, bridesmaids, dressed in white. Then came Master Locksley Haines, of Baltimore, bearing the wedding ring on a silver waiter, and Louise Starkey carrying flowers. These two little ones looked as cute and pretty as roses. Then came the beautiful bride who wore a white silk, trimmed with chiffon and carried in her hand a bouquet of orchids and orange blossoms. The groom wore cutaway and light trousers. The collection was very good.

Mrs. Ruth and two children, of Baltimore, are visiting Mrs. G. L. Chrisfield.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The College-Federalsburg game last Saturday was a disappointment only in the matter of the college score. Everybody knew the boys from Caroline wouldn't touch Burris, and no one expected them to score a run. But the home people did expect the college boys to make more than 5 runs. The secret of the small tally was in the perfect indifference of the college boys. They felt confident that one run would win the game, and five were as safe as a ship riding at anchor in the stillest harbor.

The visitors were outclassed, but they did not think so. They were eager for another go at Burris, and some of the nine wanted to stay over till Monday confident that another facing of W. C.'s sturdy ball-twister, they would smash him into smithereens. Their captain declared that his team had never faced a pitcher whose curves it could not solve, and he expected to win Saturday's contest even up to the 7th inning. Burris' pitching was a revelation to the Caroliners, and at no stage of the game did they ever have a ghost of a show to win. Four men only reached 1st base, and only two of them got as far as second. They were as a club, a pretty fair country team. They fielded very well, and it can be readily understood how they have been successful over the average rural combination. But there are a few tricks yet to be learned before they can tackle a team like W. C.'s. Fifty miles is a long journey to get a basket of goose-eggs, but perhaps they will hatch out some goslings that will be of benefit to the Federalsburgers in their future base-ball coreer. Below is the score:

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Eloquent Sermons and Large Congregations in Chestertown Churches—Interesting College Exercises—Addresses—Banquet—Ball.

Washington College's commencement program included two sermons on Sunday. The first was delivered in the morning at the Meth. Episcopal Church by Rev. S. S. Upham, D. D., of Drew Theological Seminary. A large congregation was present including about one-half of the college students, most of the faculty and a few of the Board of Visitors. The distinguished divine chose as his theme the expressive line "Lead to me to the Rock that is higher than I," in one of the beautiful Psalms of David. For a full hour he held his audience in close attention, and without a line before him in the way of notes, he tread along paths of thought appropriate to his text, illustrating and applying his truths with pertinent force and familiar incident. Not only in thought was his sermon able and interesting but his voice and manner in delivery was everything that could be desired by the listener. Rev. Mr. Easley, of Centreville, and the pastor, Rev. W. P. Compton, assisted in the services. The music was fine—Miss Anna G. Lambert presided at the organ; solos were rendered by Miss Lambert and Miss Stiles, and a quartet by Miss Stiles, Miss Clara Downey, Mr. M. Wilber Thomas and Mr. Ollie Sparks.

In the evening the annual sermon before the Y. M. C. A. of the College was delivered in Emmanuel P. E. Church by Rev. Peregrine Wroth, of Baltimore. The audience crowded the church to the doors—the College being well represented by students, faculty, members of the board of visitors and alumni. The music by a full choir and special voices was most excellent. The fine tenor voice of Mr. Horace Beck never rang out more sweetly from the choir room, while the rich soprano and sweet alto voices of his sisters, Mrs. Allen Harris and Miss Mary Beck, delighted every auditor. Prof. Clarke's full base was also heard in solo and in chorus part.

The sermon was most excellent. The Doctor has a pleasant voice and uses sufficient jesture to enforce his thought. His eloquence is most marked in tender pathos, though in vigorous earnestness and strong reasoning he is not lacking. His biblical characters were handled in a masterly manner and David and Absalom served to illustrate forceful lessons to the young. He selected as pertinent and complete instances of the faulty youth: first, thoughtlessness; second, selfishness; third, unappreciativeness. These traits of character were vividly portrayed and aptly illustrated. At the close of the service Dr. Wroth referred personally to his pleasure in being among the associates of his early life and in witnessing the activity and efficiency in good works of the children whose fathers he so fondly remembered.

Mr. Graham, one of the College students, assisted in the Scripture readings.

Society Reception.

The society of young ladies at the college, known as the Pieria association, gave a reception to the Mt. Vernon and Philomathean Literary Societies and friends Monday afternoon, from 5 to 7 P. M. The gymnasium was transformed into a reception parlor and made to appear very pretty by the tasty arrangement of bunting, ferns, etc. The receiving committee were Mrs. C. W. Reid, Miss Bertha Stiles and Miss May Matthews who stood admist the folds of our national colors and played their parts with grace and ease. Tables were daintily arranged about the room and presided over by Mrs. W. Bradford Copper, Mrs. J. Roy Micou, Mrs. Allen Harris, Miss M. W. Cavender at which chocolate, tea and wafers were served by charming waiters. The pleasure of the evening closed with a delightful hop. The officers of this society are, President, Miss Bertha May Stiles; vice, Miss May L. Matthews; secretary, Miss Mary Willie Cavender; treasurer, Miss Grace Whaland.

The Declamation Contest.

A large audience greeted the contestants for the A. H. Reid prize Tuesday morning. One of the best classes that has yet been produced at Washington College made the friendly contest a warm one. The judges on the occasion were Messrs. James W. Chapman, Jr., Thomas D. Bowers and Wm. B. Usilton, Jr., three graduates of the institution, each of whom had previously taken part in a similar contest. The speakers were as follows: J. F. Carey, Bishopville, subject "God"; Harry V. Holloway, Selbyville, Del., "The Cobbler of Lynn"; Robert J. Nicholson, Chestertown, "Last Days of Herculaneum"; Harry A. Covey, Federalsburg, "Peroration of opening speech aganist Hastings"; S. R. Douglas, Salisbury, "Grattan's reply to Mr. Corry"; Wm. N. Sherwood, Chestertown, "America"; F. Albert Smith; Centreville, "Poor Little Joe"; Miss Tillie Reiche, Chestertown, "Nola Kozmo"; Miss Amy C. Russell, Chestertown, "The Road to Heaven." The judges awarded the first prize of $15 to Mr. H. A. Covey and the second prize of $10 to Mr. R. J. Nicholson. The difference between the speakers was very small and the judges found it very difficult in deciding the winner. So well did Mr. F. Albert Smith, of Centreville, acquit himself that a prize was given him by Jas. A. Pearce, Esq.

Athletic Sports.

The sports on the College Campus Tuesday evening was one of the most pleasing features of the commencement exercises. The judges were Messrs. S. Vannort, L. W. Wickes, and W. W. Beck. The exhibition was under the direction of Prof. A. B. Burris. The program was as follows:

At the close of the exercises, James A. Pearce, Esq., presented Mr. Burris, instructor in the gymnasium, with a handsome gold medal. Mr. Pearce said:

The department over which you preside is of comparatively recent introduction into the course of American universities and colleges, and in Washington College is yet in its infancy, but wherever it is admitted, it plants a fixed foot. In all ages physical skill and prowess, courage and address in bodily games or contests has commanded the admiration of men and women, and the laurel from time immemorial has crowned not only the orator and the poet but the warrior and the athlete. The Olympic games in story charm not less the practical American of to-day, than the actual contests did the art-loving Greek of two thousand years ago, and we must go to-day as they went then to the gymnasium and the swimming school to know the beauty and grace of the human body.

As a member of the visitors I have observed with interest and pleasure your course since your connection with the college. You came young and inexperienced to the po[illegible]ion, and you have so borne yourself that neither your youth nor inexperience has hindered your usefulness. You have shown that you know the first duty of one who undertakes the training of youth in any sphere, is to be himself a gentleman, and you have set the students an example worthy of all imitation in your own thorough and conscientious performance of duty, whether in that routine of instruction in the gymnasium or in the public exhibitions in the national game of baseball. In all these contests I have never seen a game won by clamor, by sharp tricks or by brutal slugging. The play has been always orderly and fair as becomes gentlemen engaged in friendly rivalry. All devotees of baseball know the necessity of a good battery, and I may say without undue discrimination, that if each of our college team threw into his work the vim and precision of the battery, the team would be invincible among amateurs.

To you as the captain of this team and as the head of the gynasium, this medal is offered in recognition of your modest manliness and honest excellence, with the hope that these qualities will continue to characterize your career in the future.

Mr. Owens' Address.

The address before the Philomathean society was delivered Tuesday evening by A. S. J. Owens, Esq., of Baltimore. The speaker chose his subject from the weighty questions of the day and handled it with unusual familiarity. The wealth of the country, public lands, etc., were the subjects discussed. However dark he may have painted the present condition of the country he also graphically portrayed the hope of the future and closed his forty minute address amid loud applause.

The Graduates, etc.

The commencement proper was held Wednesday morning. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. S. Reese Murray. The first speaker was John T. Morris, son of Mr. Bevins Morris, formerly of Kent, now of St. Mary's. He was the first honor man and chose for his subject "Corruption in Politics." The way he handled the subject evidenced the fact that he knew something about what he was talking. A well-known politician asked him afterward "boy, when did you learn so much about politics?" Next came U. L. Gordy, of Galestown, Md.; subject "Negro Suffrage." Mr. Gordy reasoned that there should be an educational requirement in order that the negro should exercise the right of sufferage and many in the audience agreed with him. His address was followed by Harry Norman Perkins, of Chestertown, subject "Annexation of Hawaii." The speaker impressed his audience with his powers of eloquence. He reasoned well against the annexation of the Island. Next came Earle B. Polk, of Princess Anne, Md., subject "Future Warfare." The speech was ably written and reflected credit on the writer. His logic was sound predicting but little war in the future. C. C. Brown, of Pomona Md., won second honor. He chose for his address "An early Change in the Administration of Russia inevitable" and evidenced thorough knowledge of the history of the foreign land. His address was well delivered.

The awarding of prizes was an interesting feature of the morning program. The prize of $25 offered by Charles T. Westcott, Esq., was awarded John T. Commencement Ball.

Notwithstanding the warmth of the evening Stam's Hall was crowded with the youth and beauty of the land Wednesday evening, it being the annual commencement ball. About the largest attendance that has ever graced the hall's floors tipped the fantastic toe and became lost in the dreamy cadences of the waltz. The number of visitors evidenced the reputation of the Kent ball, and many declared they had never witnessed so many strangers present at a ball before. The dressing was up to the usual high standard and showed the beauty of the dancer to the greatest advantage. Miss C., of Elkton, was a candidate for the highest honor in dress and beauty, while Miss W., of Baltimore, Miss S. and Miss R., of Kent, and Miss H. and Mrs. H., of Chestertown, were rival candidates for the honor. KENNEDYVILLE NOTES.

Children's Day was observed at the M. P. Church, Sunday, June 17th. The service of both morning and evening was of unusual interest, and in many respects surpassed all former occasions of similar character. The interior of the church was beautifully trimmed. A profusion of blooming plants and flowers banked the pulpit, the most striking effect of which was a cross made of daisies, imbeded in a back ground of evergreen. The elaborate display simply manifested the interes of the school in general on such occasions and harmonized with the cheerful faces of the happy little folks that participated in the exercises—and the big folks too.

The morning service opened with singing, Miss S. Blanche McKnett presiding at the organ. Other very interesting features of the program were as follows:

Anthem, "Praise the Lord"............Misses S. B. McKnett, Mollie Parks, Messrs. W. T. Hague, Wattie McKnett.
Reading, "How to make the Wheels Move"......Miss Laura Hague.
Quartette, "Feed my Lambs".......Misses Lulu and Lillie Boggs, Messrs. Hague and McKnett.
Address..........Pastor.
Singing..........Choir.
Collection.
Solo, ..."I've Heard of a Land" Miss S. Blanche McKnett, with quartette chorus.

after which the service closed in the usual order.

The evening service, in which the little folks figured most prominently, was the grand final of the event, and was as usual largely attended. The exercises opened with an inspiring voluntary by Miss Nellie Barwick, organist of the school, after which the regular program was rendered in a most pleasing and entertaining manner throughout. A special feature was a quartette by Grace McKnett, Florence Melvin, Kent McKnett and James Shinn, under the direction of Miss S. B. McKnett; the young voices were so well trained that the singing held the audience in rapt attention and won the highest compliment of the hearers. One and all that participated in the exercises did their parts in a very creditable manner, due to the careful training and management of our Supt. Mr. W. T. Hague and others. The collection amounted to $23.11, which exceeded the collection of last year nearly five dollars.

At the semi-annual election of the Christian Endeavor Society on Thursday night, June 14th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing six months. President, Mr. Harry C. Jarrell; vice-president, Mr. S. H. McKnett; rec. sec., Miss Blanche McKnett; cor. sec., Miss L. Elma Lewis; treas., Mrs. S. E. Barwick.

Considering the fact that but one day's notice was given in the NEWS, the festival held by the W. C. T. U. on Saturday night last was well attended and a decided success. Gross receipts about $5.50.

A horse belonging to Mr. Alex Kennedy dropped dead in the field Wednesday morning. Cause of death unknown.

Mrs. R. L. Lewis, is visiting relatives in Federalsburg, Md.

Dr. J. H. Dewees, is home for a short vacation.

The "Old" men of Kennedyville played a game on Saturday against the young men and met a Waterloo to the tune of 5 to 33 in favor of the young men. The players took position as follows:

W. Greenwood	Catcher	Henry Minner.
James Taylor	1st base	Wm. H. King.
Tilghman Shafer	3d base	W. M. Hurlock.
James E. Newcomb	short stop	Lin Redmile.

M. N. Redding	right geld	Al. Greenwood.
Craig Johnson	Pitcher	John McKnett.

Misses Agness Frazier, Mary and Annie Redgrave, of near Middletown, Del., have been visiting Miss Bertha Hendrickson.

Misses Nettie Gooding and Nellie Walters, of Chestertown, were entertained Saturday and Sunday by Miss S. Blanche McKnett.

Miss Lula Loud, of Baltimore, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. P. Hendrickson.

Miss Fannie Garey, of Sheppardstown, W. Va., is home for vacation.

Messrs. Shafer and Davies paid 50 cents per lbs. for milk for the month of May.

The Little Folks.

Lack of space in our last week's issue prevented our making a more extended and worthy mention of the interesting commencement exercises of Miss Baker's and Miss Robert's kindergarten and school. The thorough drilling of the scholars was shown in the precision and accuracy with which each feature of the programme was executed, and the most perfect taste was apparent in the costumes, and manner of the participants. It was one of the most beautiful commencements ever held in Chestertown, and the careful training of the scholars reflects the highest credit on their efficient and conscientious teachers. The youth, health and excessive timidity of some children unfit them to successfully prsocute their studies at a public school, and we are fortunate in having in our community this school that is especially adapted to take charge of such children. With our chain of excellent schools, from the Kindergarten to the College there is now no necessity for any of our youth going beyond the confines of this county for a thorough education.
