SATURDAY, JANUARY 2, 1909.

THE TRANSCRIPT wishes all of its readers, patrons and friends a very happy and prosperous new year.

When will the warren deal be finished in the Baltimore Investigation Circle? It has been nothing but water for nearly a month now. Better turn off the spigot.

The special committee arranging for the banquet to Democrats to be given at the Hotel Remont, Baltimore, on January 7th, will please accept the thanks of the editors of the TRANSCRIPT for an invitation to be present.

The town and county have lost two valuable citizens by the death of J. K. Aldridge and Thomas J. Shallcross. Their places will be extremely hard to fill in business and in social life.

The Auditing Committee's report appears in this issue. Read it Mr. Taxpayer and see how your money has been handled. The report is very clear and shows the finances of the county to be in good condition.

The floor of the court house at Elliott City gave way on Tuesday during the trial of a negro for assault upon a prominent citizen, and 100 people were thrown to the cement floor below, 37 of whom were badly injured. Col. Powell, editor of the Elliott City Times, was among the injured, and was also many of the court officials.

The greatest horror of 1908 and perhaps of history, was the terrible earthquake and flood in Italy on Monday, when 100,000 people lost their lives and millions of dollars worth of property was destroyed. The United States Consul at Messina and his family are among the missing, and there is scarcely an Italian but who has lost a relative in the terrible catastrophe.

The sentence imposed by Judge Wright of Washington, D. C., last week upon the national labor leaders, Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison, for contempt of Court, has caused a furor among the laboring classes generally throughout the country. The President has been urged to take action looking to a repeal of the sentence, and there promises to be a great struggle for what the laboring people consider their rights.

A Remarkable Incident.

A telegram from Wilmington to the Baltimore Sun tells of a remarkable manifestation over the grave of Bishop Curtis, who was well-known in this section of the State and was greatly loved by every one who knew him. The dispatch says:

"Mother Alexandria, Mother Superior of the Convent of the Visitation, in this city confirmed to-day a recent remarkable spiritual manifestation over the grave of Bishop Alfred A. Curtis, which is within the enclosure of the convent. The Mother Superior, who is French, talked through an interpreter. She said it was true that a flock of sparrows flew to two orphan girls who lived at the convent, following a prayer made by the children over the grave of the good Bishop, that they might be allowed to pet the birds. The girls are about 3 and 10 years old. Mother Alexandria made known a new feature of the case when she said that when another girl inmate of the convent desired to fondle the birds that hovered over the Bishop's grave one of the children whose prayer had been answered called the sparrows to her. The birds obeyed, and picking them up, she gave them to the third child. The Mother Superior regards the occurrence as a miracle. She was a warm friend of the late Bishop, and the prelate took such an active interest in the convent that he was buried within its walls at his own request. The most interesting feature of the manifestation is the fact that the two girls were known personally to Bishop Curtis. The Bishop was well-known, was especially fond of children. The sisters at the convent wanted to keep the manifestation a secret, but one of them wrote to a priest in Baltimore, and he informed Cardinal Gibbons. The Catholic clergy in this diocese regarded Bishop Curtis as a modern St. Francis. He always had the power of attracting birds and animals to him virtually at will. He was also a believer in miracles, his faith, as a priest said to-day, being 'as strong as a mountain.'"

RELIGIOUS MATTERS.

A large congregation enjoyed an able sermon on "The Christmas Message" by the pastor, Rev. Dr. F. T. Little, on Sunday morning last. Special music was rendered by the choir under the direction of Miss Eva Hurlock. The service at night consisted of the rendering of beautiful Christmas Carols and recitations by the children of the Sunday school. A full orchestra composed of Messrs. Warren C. Hurlock, violin; Arthur Bacon and John Cannan, cornets; Foster Cannan, trombone; J. Hydie Thompson, clarinet; Miss Clara Usilton, organist; accompanied the singing. Mrs. Thos. D. Bowers and Miss Clara Usilton had charge of the training of the children, and deserve much credit for the splendid manner in which all the children, even sweet little Miss Virginia Nicholson, rendered their recitations. A large audience enjoyed the exercises.

Rev. George P. Jones, pastor of Midletown, Del., M. E. Church, was presented with a handsome gold watch and chain, each of the best make, by the members and friends of his congregation on Christmas morning. The pastor's wife was also remembered by the ladies of the church, the gift being a specially designed Christmas card, decorated with $5 gold pieces to the amount of $25 which was increased by $25 more in gold by individual friends.

The Annual Christmas jubilee, of Christ M. P. Sunday school was held in the lecture room of the church on Monday evening. Mr. Elwood Baker impersonated Old Kris to the delight of the children and grown folks. More than 300 boxes of confections and oranges were distributed to the scholars and friends of the school.

At the M. E. Church Jubilee on Monday evening, Old Kris, represented in splendid style by Mr. Wm. R. Pippin, stood under a beautifully decorated Christmas tree, and dispensed beautiful cornucopias to the girls and windmill boxes and oranges to the boys. The tree was truly a work of art, and was lighted by different colored electric lights which added so much to the beauty of the occasion. A fine programme of music and recitation was rendered.

Emmanuel P. E. Sunday school also enjoyed its Christmas treat and distribution of gifts Monday evening. There was given to each scholar a bag of candy and orange, and a useful gift, and a very pleasant evening was spent in the Parish House.

St. James M. P. Sunday school held its annual treat on Wednesday evening. Chestertown M. E. Church—Preaching at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 2.15 p. m. Epworth League meeting at 6.45 p. m. Watch night service at 10.30 p. m. on Thursday. All are cordially invited.

The M. E. Sunday school at its jubilee last Monday evening presented the pastor, Rev. W. L. White, and the superintendent, Mr. Herbert E. Perkins, each with a basket of fine fruit.
