the remainder of my term from seeking such advice from trust-worthy citizens as may help me in executing the jury law according to its true intent and meaning, and my only purpose these remarks will be accomplished if they serve to give a better general understanding of the law and of the difficulties under any system of drawing a jury acceptable to all the people.

When Court is opened the Judge selections a foreman of the Grand Jury. The Clerk or his deputy then places in a box the other 47 names written upon ballots of the same color, size and appearance, and when these are well mixed they are drawn out one by one at random and without seeing any name so drawn.

The first 22 drawn together with the foreman constitute the Grand Jury and the remaining 25 constitute the Petit Jury. Thus it will be seen that while the Judge determines the 150 names to go in the box, neither he nor the Clerk nor any one else can control the drawing.

That is purely a matter of chance. Honestly, sound practical judgment, courage of conviction, respect for law and regard for the judgment of other honest men, are the essential qualities of good jurors, and the humblest citizen possessing these qualities, is a better juror than the most learned and influential man who is deficient in them.

There is another matter to which the Court in this Judicial Circuit, and as I am informed in other parts of the State, has thought it proper at this time to call the special attention of the Grand Jury. I refer to Chapter 122 of the Acts of Assembly of 1908 known as the Corrupt Practices Act, and designed to control, and if possible, put an end to bribery at elections.

This practice which seems to have prevailed in some degree from an early period wherever the right of suffrage was general, has in recent years become an evil of such magnitude as to excite grave alarm for the permanence of free and popular government, and arouse the conscience of all right-minded and patriotic men without regard to their party affiliations.

This alarm and disgust has been expressed not only in the public press, and by the leaders of thought throughout the country, but it is manifested in the ordinary intercourse of every neighborhood. Not only the great mass of the people who have no personal interest in the result of an election, other than that which every thoughtful man must have in the promotion of sound public policies, and the selection of capable and honest men to administer government, but the candidates for office who are the immediate beneficiaries of election and the political managers who are the power behind the office-holders, have been brought to see that if this evil is not checked and controlled they will be involved in the common ruin.

Hence the Legislature of Maryland has enacted the law to which I have referred. If ever any law had been a sound and powerful public sentiment, and it has at this time. If its provisions are fairly and fearlessly enforced, that public sentiment will grow in strength until no one will dare to subject himself either to its material penalties or to the disgrace which its violation will insure. This is not the place for more than a reference to the change of moral policy involved in the enactment of that law, and I shall leave the subject with a brief summary of its scope and operation, merely adding that its enforcement like that of all other criminal law depends upon the honest and fearless action of the Grand and Petit Juries of the State, supplemented by the Court in the imposition of adequate penalties in case of conviction.

I have no knowledge of any violation of this law in this circuit at our last election, other than that in a neighboring county, which was promptly and properly dealt with, and what I have said is merely in discharge of the duty which I feel rests upon the Court to call your attention to the provisions of the law and to express the hope and belief that it will prove of great and lasting benefit to the State.

Commissioners Meeting. Gov. Crothers conferred with the County Commissioners of the Counties in Baltimore on Thursday. This is the result of the conference in brief.

The conference of County Commissioners, representing every county in the State, called by Governor Crothers, took steps toward the formation of a permanent organization to meet at least once a year.

The object is to promote uniformity in the system of government in the different counties and to get the best results for the people for the least money.

There was a unanimous and enthusiastic sentiment among the 125 men present, representing every section and both parties, that the time has come for another re-assertion of real estate throughout the State.

Other subjects discussed were the cutting down of election and court expenses, the auditing of the accounts of all county officials who handle State money, an investigation into school expenses, and modern methods of road repairing.

THURSDAY'S SESSION. Court convened at 9.30 o'clock with Judges Adkins and Hopper on the bench, Judge Pearce having left for the Court of Appeals on Wednesday afternoon.

The case of Dr. Ford vs. Mrs. Annie T. Hayes Harper, suit to recover payment for bath room fixtures, occupied the attention of the court the entire day. The suit was for $91.50.

The grand jury came into court and brought in presentments against Elisha Skull and Charles Basin for violation of local option law. True bills were found against Joseph Jones, Samuel Cann, J. H. Jones alias "Bertie Jones."

Argument was heard in the case of Dr. S. E. Ford vs. Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Baker, when the case was given to the jury. Jury later returned a verdict in favor of Dr. Baker, the owner of the house at the time the bath-room fixtures were installed, and in favor of Dr. Ford for the full amount of the suit, $91.50. Barroll for Dr. Ford; H. E. Perkins and John D. Urie for defendants.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY. To the Honorable, the Circuit Court for Kent County, Maryland:—The grand jurors of the State of Maryland for the body of Kent county, beg leave, through their foreman to respectfully report to the honorable judges of said court that they have been in session four days, during that time we have examined sixty witnesses, 7 indictments and bills of larceny, made eighteen presentments and found eighteen true bills. We further respectfully report that we have been delayed in our proceedings by reason of non-attendance of witnesses, and failed to get before us witnesses for whom summons were issued. We have visited the jail and premises of the prisoners, neat and clean and the premises comfortably provided for the prisoners. We advise the removal of James Blake from the jail to the almshouse on account of sickness and infirmities of age. We also extend thanks to the count and officers of the court for their kind attention.
