The game with Polytechnic Institute on Saturday last was slow as all one-sided games are. The feature of the contest was easily the pitching of young Jarman. This boy is nothing more, as yet, than a High School lad, and his showing against a school like the Baltimore institution was highly creditable. He held the visitors down to three hits, struck out 6 men, and, barring a little nervousnes at the start, was steady as a clock. In the first two innings he gave three bases on balls, but after that he settled down and issued no more passes. He had plenty of speed and good curves. If he could complete the swing he begins with, he would be still more effective, but an instant before delivery, all his body motion stops, and his weight is not behind the throw. But he is young enough to improve and he is willing to learn. He contributed one run to the score and got in a nice little hit. Altogether it was a good day for Jarman.

There was some very attractive fielding stunts too. Noonan did good work in nailing Steggar at home in the 8th. Wallace made a fine one-handed stop off Trabers' bat and got his man at first; Porter made a fine leap in the air and pulled down a high throw from Noonan, and Kelly made a stop of a difficult ball that looked as if it were headed for right field, getting his man at first. The hitting of the team was rather weak although they seemed to be up against a clever little twirler in Kelley.

The boys availed themselves of all chances on bases, although Wallace was a little slow in the 8th in taking second on the throw to third to catch Knotts. He is a good runner and should have had no trouble to make the bag. His work was, however, on the whole good. His hit in the first was a beauty. His muff of a difficult foul fly was not costly, and his stop mentioned made up for that.

Washington College scored all her runs in three innings, the first, the third, and the eighth. In the first, Turner went out on a fly to Bullock; Jump negotiated a pass, and Noonan also waited for four bad ones. Wallace landed on a good one for three bases, scoring Jump and Noonan, but died at home himself, trying to stretch his bingle to four bags. He was caught by a pretty relay made up of Travers, Kaufman and Platt. In the third, Jarman opened up with a pretty little hit down to 3rd base line; Turner went out by a favorite route of his that day—the Kelly-Steggar line; Jump popped up one for Bullock, and it did not look rosy for runs. Noonan started a beauty to left for two bases, Knotts imterposed his anatomy between the base and the backstop, and the bases were full. Wallace laid an easy one down to Bullock, who tried to lose the ball over in the direction of the railroad, everybody romped home, and the college boys added four more runs to their score. In the eighth, Knotts opened up by reaching first on an error by Kaufman, and stole second; Wallace proved a good waiter and walked. Porter advanced them both by a sacrifice to centre and Kelley scored them both by a hit to left. Brown reached first on a scratch hit, scoring Kelley. Jarman sent a sky-scraper to Kohlepp. Turner and Jump both worked the pitcher for a pass, and the bases were all occupied, but Noonan put one into the centre-fielder's hands, and there was no more scoring. In all the other innings the home team went out in almost one, two, three order, there being never more than four men at the bat.

The best work for the visitors was done by Kohlepp, their centre-fielder, who pulled in no fewer than five flies. Kelley twirled a creditable game, Steggar put up a good game at the initial bag and it was a pretty piece of relay work when they caught Wallace at home. The boys from Baltimore did not show much school spirit. The only men left on the field when the game closed were the batter and a man who was run down between 1st and second. Washington let out a cheer to men who were doubtless in the dressing room. Washington plays Hopkins today.

Struck out—By Kelley, 4; by Jarman, 6. Earned runs—Washington, 3. Left on bases—Washington, 6; Polytechnic, 6. Umpire—Mr. Fitzgerald.

Rock Hall base ball nine was organized last week. Prof. Walter H. Davis was chosen manager and Prof. James Johns captain, with the following players and their positions, Messers. R. Rodney, pitcher; L. Lewis, catcher; Harry Hogans, first base: N. Rodney, second base; Allen Downey, third base: James Johns, short stop; Robt. Shalicross, left field; John Moffett, right field; and Clarence Thompson, center field.

An interesting game of base ball was played Monday afternoon between the Riversiders and Avenuers at Fords great base ball diamond. The Avenuers just cleared up the Riversiders by a score of 16 to 8. The Avenuers made some very good plays and scored 5 runs in the first inning. There were many complaints made by the riversiders as usual. The batteries for the Riversiders were Duyer and Harris, for Avenuers Beaumont and Hicks.

—The clock in Vansant & Newsome's store stopped at 2-17-37 P. M., and Mrs. James Coleman held the card nearest the time the clock stopped, and of course got the dinner set, consisting of 41 pieces with gold and pink decorations. Who knows but what you may hold the lucky card Tuesday, April 19. Be present with you cards in their store on that day at 3 P. M. Another set will be given away.
