FRIDAY.

The case of Black & Hunter, expert accountants of Baltimore city, vs. Harry R. Graham and Mrs. M. E. Smith, executrix of George W. Smith, was on trial at the time of going to press.

The facts in this case, as developed by the evidence, show that after the death of Mr. George W. Smith many efforts were made by his executrix to obtain a final settlement of the partnership affairs, and finally a bill in equity was filed to have the court adjust same. They were so complicated and involved that all the parties agreed that an expert accountant would have to be employed to straighten the matter out. Messrs. Black & Hunter claim that in pursuance of this agreement they were employed by Mrs. Smith, as executrix, and Harry R. Graham, as surviving partner, and after two months of work they submitted an account upon which settlement was finally made. They are now suing for $619.00, claiming that they were employed with an agreement that they were to receive $10.00 a day and all expenses. Hope H. Barroll and Sidney P. Townshend appeared for Messrs. Black & Hunter and Mrs. M. E. Smith, and Lewin W. Wickes and John D. Urie, Esqs., for Harry R. Graham.

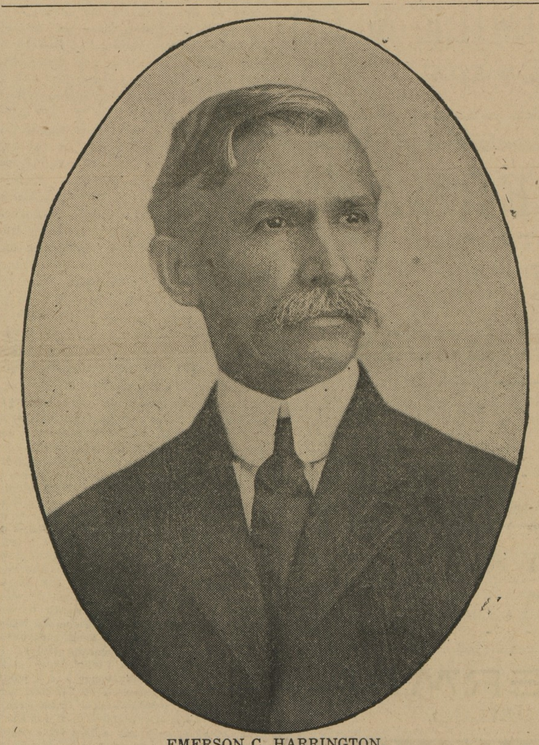

Grand jury brought in the following presentments. Benj. H. Coburn, Jack Johnson and Elwood Stevenson and a true bill against Wesley Smith.

HON ARTHUR P. GORMAN,
Democratic Candidate for Governor of Maryland.

EMERSON C. HARRINGTON,
Democratic Candidate for Comptroller.

THE MARYLAND CAMPAIGN.

While the grand jury of Baltimore city keeps on with its interesting work of recounting the votes cast at the recent primaries in that city and indicting Democratic and Republican election officers, in equal numbers, for rascally frauds in the count, the campaign committees of both parties are working hard in carrying on the great contest that will come to an end on Tuesday, November 7th. In this respect they seem to be undisturbed by the sensational developments that appear from day to day in Baltimore.

The chief argument of the Republican campaign speakers is that the primary election frauds in Baltimore have damned the Democratic party throughout the State and deprived it of all claim upon the confidence and votes of the people. To read the reports of Republican meetings, without any other means of enlightenment, one would suppose that all political virtue was concentrated in the Republican organization, while the Democratic party stood for nothing but political rascality and corruption. Yet the facts are that rascality was practiced by the Republicans at the Baltimore primaries, as well as by Democrats, and that each Democratic election official indicted by the grand jury has an indicted Republican election official to keep disreputable company with him.

In these circumstances, it is difficult to conceive what the Republican campaign managers expect to gain politically, by harping so vigorously upon the primary frauds in Baltimore, and especially in holding them up as a warning to the people against electing the Democratic ticket in November. For this argument applies with equal force as an arraignment of the Republican party.

There is this to be said, however, in respect of the Democratic party and to the discredit of the Republican purity campaign: The Democratic candidates and the Democratic organization are not defending the primary election frauds. The grand jury that is making such a rigid and just ivestigation, and righteously indicting Democratic rascals and Republican rascals with strict impartiality, is composed of a majority of Democrats. Democratic leaders and Democratic State candidates voice their approval of this good work and demand the summary punishment of the election. On the other hand, the Republican organization proceeds on the impudent assumption that the frauds in the Baltimore primaries were committed only by Democrats and are defended by the Democratic party, entirely ignoring the frauds by Reyublicans, as indicated by the indictment of Republicans who served as officers at the primary election.

With such conditiens prevailing, it is not surprising to read of the vigorous, animated campaign which the Democratic organization is conducting throughout the State, especially in the counties. The meetings are largely attended, and much enthusiasm prevails. Registration is now in progress and reports from the Eastern Shore counties are generally to the effect that the Democrats are in the lead. Despite the serious handicap of the conditions in Baltimore, it is not certain that the Democratic party will be defeated at the November election. On the contrary, there is reason for expecting the usual Democratic triumph.—Wilmington Every Evening.

THE GRIM REAPER.

MRS. ELLA MCKENNEY MITCHELL.

Mrs. Ella McKenney Mitchell, wife of Rev. James A. Mitchell, Sr., pastor emeritus of St. Paul's Church, Centreville, Md., died Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Gen. Wm. McKenny, York road and Winston avenue, Govans, after an illness of one week. A pathetic future connected with the death of Mrs. Mitchell is that her husband, who is one of the most prominent ministers in Southern Maryland, is lying in a critical condition at the Union Protestant Infirmary, where he was operated on this week. His condition is such that the news of the death of Mrs. Mitchell was kept from him.

About a week ago Mrs. Mitchell, who had been staying at the home of Mrs. McKenney and visiting her husband at the hospital every day, contracted a cold, which developed into pnuemonia, which finally developed heart failure.

Mrs. Mitchell was the daughter of the late Gen. Wm. McKenney and Ella Goldsborough McKenney. She is survived by two sons (Messrs. James Archibald Mitchell, Jr., of Trinity College, North Carolina, and John Mitchell, of Yates School, of Philadelphia) and two daughters (Miss Sussian B. Mitchell and Mrs. Clayton Wright, of Centreville, Md). William McKenney, of Centreville is a brother. The body was taken to Centreville on Tuesday, and the funeral services were held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Paul's Church at that place.

MRS. GULIA E. BENSON.

Mrs. Gulia E. Benson, wife of Mr. James S. Benson, died at her home, near Pumphrey's, Anne Arundel county, on Sunday, after a long illness. Mrs. Benson was formerly Miss Gulia Parrott, daughter of the late George Parrott, of Still Pond, and sister of Miss Rachael Parrott, and Messrs. John and George Parrott, of and near Still Pond. The deceased was a lady of most estimable character, and enjoyed the esteem of a host of friends in and near Still Pond, who regret her death. Funeral services were held from her late residence on Tuesday afternoon last at 2 o'clock.
