SINNERS IN POLITICS AS WELL AS IN CHURCH.

A writer in the Baltimore Sun has the following very strong argument:

"To the Editor of the Sun—Sir: I read an article on the coming election by one of our most noted clergymen, in which he advises all decent citizens of Baltimore to overthrow the deminant party.

"We believe our eminent minister in stating that 70 per cent. of the voting population in our city are christians, and we believe that all christians think they are voting right, whichever party they vote for. But when the dominant party is found to be defrauding these christians and the party that is next in power to that dominant party stands by and lets it do so, what should they do? What other party do you think they should vote for? Why should a true Democrat voting as his christian conscience compels him to do desert his party for another that has been found as much wanting as his own?

"Should your form of religion be condemned and overthrown because one of your flock strayed away? No; you should punish the guilty one and uphold your faith 'or party,' and then you know you are doing your sacred duty before God and your fellow-men.

"Then, I say that if a man is a Democrat, let not such interviews as I have referred to cause him to change his ballot without first weighing every sentence and using his own common judgment.

"For we believe our party is ready at all times to punish those that do us an injury, and we believe that those who are leading our party are endeavoring to put good men at the head for the benefit of their followers."

A Democrat.

Fine Foot Ball Game.

The game of foot ball on Washington field on Saturday afternoon between Washington College and the heavy team from the Stevens Institute, N. J., was a very creditable game for Washington College, though the score was 10 to 0 against them. Stevens Institute outweighed the college team about 20 pounds to the man, and yet during almost the entire last half the playing was in Stevens field, and the college boys showed themselves the superior all round team. The fine defense put up by the Stevens line was too much for our boys in the first two quarters when Stevens made its two goals, but after that Washington put up an aggressive fight and showed superior tactics. Porter, Jones, and Ciminera were a tower of strength to Washington, and the playing of Dominique, who replaced Meekins, was a feature. For the visitors Field put up decidedly the best game, and it was to his playing that the two goals were due. The experience which the college gained from this game will be valuable to them, and we feel confident that they will defeat the Maryland Agricultural College team when it appears here to-day week.

Washington College defeated the strong University of Maryland team from Baltimore on Washington field on Wednesday afternoon by the score of 15 to 0.

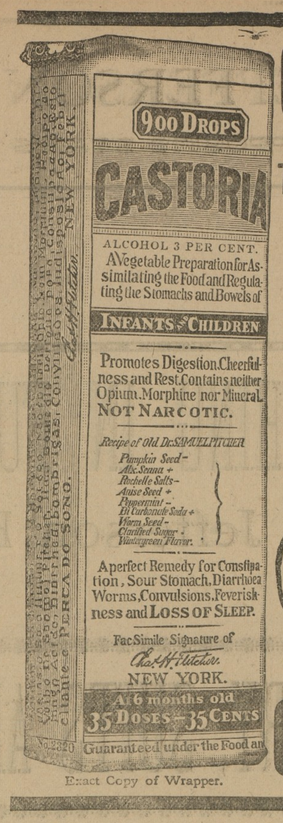

Falls From Bugeye and is Drowned.

John Wilson, the lone shipmate of Capt. J. R. Downey, on the bugeye Sarah W. Wingate, lost his life in the Baltimore harbor Friday. The Wingate was sailing down about 11.30 A. M., and when off Northern Central Pier 7 Wilson was making the anchor fast. His hands slipped off the hoist and he went overboard.

Captain Downey being at the wheel, he soon put the Wingate about, but it was too late when she reached where Wilson was last seen.

He managed to drop his sails and anchor as close as possible to where he thought the man had fallen overboard, and as the police boat Lannan was patrolling, Captain Carey was notified of the accident from the barge Nanticoke. With two boats dragging, the body was recovered at nightfall.

Mr. Wilson belonged at Rock Hall, whither the Wingate was bound when he was lost. He was unmarried and lived with his brother-in-law, Alexander Taylor.
