GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

To Be Bold, and to Deal With Questions of Vital Interest to the People.

In an interview in the Baltimore Sun on Monday Governor Crothers outlined some of the subjects which he will discuss at length and recommend in his message to the coming legislature. Among the most important are these:

"It is my intention, first, to deal with the question of the Corrupt Practices act and propose some changes which have suggested themselves as the result of the last election. The first is that the use of money for any purpose whatever, legitimate or illegitimate, be prohibited by statute in any campaign.

"I am recommending that this be done so that the people will be able to choose between parties and what parties stand for rather than between men. It is my judgment that in going to the polls the voter should not be influenced indirectly by money when casting his ballot. In our present system it is quite possible to influence voters indirectly by what is regarded as a legitimate campaign fund.

MONEY LEGALIZED NOW.

"With money out of the question, both parties will be in the same situation. What I wish to prevent is for one man, as was shown by the accounts of the last election, not only to have the power to vote but also the right to put thousands of his dollars into the campaign fund of his party when he was not even a candidate upon the ticket. It is my idea that the individual's right to vote should be protected from the power which money can give another individual who also should have only the right to vote.

"The Corrupt Practices act was passed to eliminate the use of money in elections, and when accounts are now filed of the sums spent, these same accounts only go to prove that we are not prohibiting its use, but legalizing it. Candidates should not have the right to get advantage through money. Candidates, but more than all parties, must stand or fall upon the justice of their cause. If it is a good cause, it does not need money; if it is a bad one, it should not be allowed to use it.

"In my judgment, and I shall so recommend, the statute should provide that if bona fide evidence of the use of money is produced after an election the election itself shall be vitiated and a new one held.

THE STATE MIGHT PAY.

"What about the cost of hiring halls and having public meetings?" the Governor was asked.

"It will be suggested," he answered, "that a small amount be allowed for public speaking, and I shall deal with the question in the message as to whether it would not be good policy for the State to pay the cost of the campaigns of the two leading political parties. Elections are for government; it is a governmental question. It might be deemed fair that the State should bear the cost if it be a small one. It is the people's business after all and not the candidate's business, and it might be a good plan for the State to pay."

MARKING BALLOTS.

Turning then to another point, the Governor said:

"I shall recommend the repeal of the provisions of the election law which requires that if there be more persons voted for on a ticket than there are candidates for the office the whole ticket shall be thrown out.

"This law, in my judgment, does not allow the voter a fair opportunity. If he makes four marks for three candidates in any section of the ticket the judges cannot ascertain what his intention was, but they should be allowed to count the remainder of the ticket if it be unspoiled.

"The outside ballot at primary elections, what is called at times the 'vest pocket ballot,' which the voter can mark at home and bring to the polls, should be prohibited, and I shall recommend such action to the Legislature. This provision in the present law facilitates the use of money. It is out of harmony with the spirit of the law which is now in effect in Baltimore city and which does not allow tickets to be marked outside the polling place.

"As to the pledges in the Democratic platform, I shall recommend the early fulfillment of each of them, as I stated in the Sun on November 9. All that was said in the recent campaign by the Democrats was based largely upon these pledges. The people have a right to see each of them carried out in detail.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS TO BE MADE.

An additional bond issue for Roads.

Consolidation of certain offices and State departments looking to greater economy.

Reduction of Oyster Police force.

Creation of one Central Board for the management of all State charitable institutions.

Consolidation of Police Board and Liquor License Commissioners in Baltimore City.

Fewer minor State employes.
