A Trite Saying.

It is a trite saying that no man is stronger than his stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body and thus cures both liver and kidney troubles. If you take this natural blood purifier and tonic, you will assist your system in manufacturing each day a pint of rich, red blood, that is invigorating to the brain and nerves. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people suffer from, is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin and the feelings "blue." Dr. Pierce's "Discovery" cures all blood humors as well as being a tonic that makes one vigorous, strong and forceful. It is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes every ingredient of which has the professional endorsement of the leading medical writers of this country. Some of these endorsements are published in a little book of extracts from standard medical works and will be sent to any address free, on receipt of request therefor by letter or postal card, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. It tells just what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of.

"The Words of Praise" for the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, by leaders in all the several schools of medical practice, and recommending them for the cure of the diseases for which the "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised, should have far more weight with the sick and afflicted than any amount of so-called "testimonials" so conspicuously flaunted before the public by those who are afraid to let the ingredients of which their medicines are composed be known. Bear in mind that the "Golden Medical Discovery" has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of its ingredients.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, invigorate the liver and regulate stomach and bowels.

OVER THE PRECIPICE.

A Tragic Adventure in a Blizzard In the Antarctic.

Here is an adventure in the antarctic regions taken from Captain Robert F. Scott's "The Voyage of the Discovery." Nine men are returning from a sledge expedition in a blinding snowstorm: "An unusually violent squall prevented us from seeing even one another. I immediately ordered a chain to be formed at right angles and extending across our track, each man keeping in touch with the rest, with the idea of intercepting Hare, who was missing, when he came on. We shouted and blew whistles, and while this was going on Evans stepped back on to a patch of bare, smooth ice and shot out of sight immediately. Thinking the slope to be one of the short ones so common in the folds of the hills, Barne sat down and deliberately started to slide in Evans' track. In a moment or two the slope grew steeper, and soon he was going at a pace which left him no power to control his movements. He whipped out his clasp knife and dug it into the ice, but the blade snapped off short and failed to check his wild career. In a flash the ice changed to snow, which grew softer until, in a smother of flying particles, his rapid flight was arrested and he stood up to find Evans within a few feet of him."

A third man joined them in similar fashion: "Realizing the impossibility of ascending again by the way they had come, they started to descend, but within four paces of the place at which they had been brought to rest they found that the slope ended suddenly in a steep precipice, beyond which they could see nothing but the clouds of whirling snow. Even as they recoiled from this new danger and dimly realized the merciful patch of soft snow which had saved them from it, a yelping dog flew past them, clawing madly at the icy slope, and disappeared forever into the gloom beyond." The six others eventually moved on until they, too, found themselves on an awkward slope: "Their leader suddenly saw the precipice beneath his feet and far below, through the wreathing snow, the sea.

"Another step would have taken him over the edge. He sprang back with a cry of warning, and those behind him, hearing it, dug their heels instinctively into the surface, and, with one exception, all succeeded in stopping. What followed was over in an instant. Before his horror stricken companions had time to think poor Vince, unable to check himself with his soft fur boots, had shot from among them, flashed past the leader and disappeared." Vince was never seen again, but Hare, the first missing man, staggered back to the ship two days after the others, remembering nothing between struggling to a patch of rock for shelter and waking thirty-six hours later covered with snow.

THE MAN ON FOOT.

In Stamboul He Has No Rights as Against the Horseman.

One of the peculiarities in Stamboul is the insolent demeanor of the horseman to the footman. Many times daily you will see some rascal of a cabman trying to drive down a well dressed man on the street. The drivers rarely take the trouble to shout as they approach pedestrians. I was often filled with wonder at observing the meekness with which well dressed Turks on foot submitted to such treatment from shabby Turks on carriage boxes. Even when no injury was done to such a pedestrian, he was often bespattered with mud. Stamboul must be an unpleasant place in which to live. Were cabmen in our country to treat pedestrians so recklessly there would be many cases of assault and battery, and I think some mortality among the Jehus.

One day I saw a uniformed Turk picking his way across the street, using his saber as a walking stick. A carriage suddenly dashed down on him, and its driver, after nearly running over him, hurled at him a volley of what sounded like choice Turkish abuse. The uniformed Turk retorted not. He scraped the mud off his uniform, stuck his saber under his arm and waded ashore. In our country a man with a saber would have used it on the driver's back. By this I do not mean that the Turks are lacking in spirit—far from it, but apparently it would seem to be the custom of the country that the man on foot, as against the man on horseback, has no rights.—"A Levantine Log Book," by Jerome Hart.

Clams According to Order.

Bill Handy of Marblehead, an ardent Republican during the antislavery agitation, caught fish and sold clams for a livelihood. One of his customers, a strong Democrat, ordered some clams and told him to be sure and cut off the "black abolition heads." When he delivered them he said, "Mr. Brown, here are your clams; real Democrats—all bodies and no heads."—Boston Herald.

Possible Explanation.

An old hen was pecking at some stray carpet tacks in the back yard.

"Now, what do you suppose that fool hen is eating those tacks for?" said Homer.

"Perhaps," rejoined his better half, "she is going to lay a carpet."—Chicago News.

Henry C. Stephens, Peter Stevens, Benjamin F. Stevens, Annie Magee, Richard Magee, her husband, versus
Mary E. Pearson, —— Pearson, her husband, John W. Stevens, Frank W. Stevens, Elizabeth F. Stevens, George W. Stevens, Michael Stevens.

In the Circuit Court for Kent County, Maryland, in Equity.

THE object of this suit is to procure a decree of this Honorable Court for the sale of the real estate of John Stevens, deceased, and to divide the proceeds among the heirs-at-law.

The Bill states that a certain John Stevens, late of Queen Anne's county, deceased, was in his lifetime seized and possessed of certain valuable real estate in Kent county, Maryland, consisting of a farm situated in the First Election District of Kent county, and also a lot of land situated in the town of Millington, in said county; and being so seized and possessed departed this life some time in the year 1906 intestate, leaving a widow, Ida Stevens, and your orators, Henry C. Stevens, Peter Stevens, Benjamin F. Stevens, Annie Magee, and the defendants, Mary E. Pearson, of the State of Delaware, John W. Stevens, Frank W. Stevens, Elizabeth F. Stevens, George W. Stevens and Michael Stevens, his only children and heirs at-law: and the said John W. Stevens, Frank W. Stevens, Elizabeth F. Stevens, George W. Stevens and Michael Stevens are infants, under the age of twenty-one years, and all reside in Queen Anne's county, Maryland.

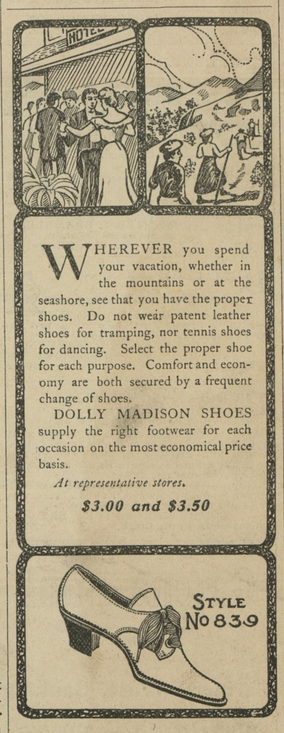

And the Bill states that the said real estate is not susceptible of partition without material loss and injury to the parties entitled to interests therein as above stated, and that in order to make a division of said interests, it will be necessary that the said real estate be sold and the proceeds thereof divided among the parties according to their several interests.

It is, therefore, this 25th day of April, 1906, ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent county in Equity, that the Plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Kent county once in each of four successive weeks before the 28th day of May next, giving notice to Mary E. Pearson and —— Pearson, her husband, of the State of Delaware, and non-residents of the State of Maryland, of the object and substance of this bill, and warning them to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 15th day of June next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.
