RIGHT IN IT!

GET IN THE RING.

We are now ready for the Spring and Summer with the best line of Clothing for Men, Boys and Children that we've ever had, and to the few who do not know about the superiority of our Clothing we say, GET IN THE RING! A suit from us will cost you perhaps a trifle less than if bought elsewhere; it will fit you better, and retain that same style and shape that you pay double the price for at the tailor shop. Grays are the leading shades this season—a very serviceable color, too—and we have plenty of them to show you. Our line of Spring Trowsers for Men and Boys is up to its old-time standard—the best and largest in town.

Hats and Caps—we have hats for particular men—men who are hard to suit—because we have them in all shapes and styles. Derbys, Slouches, Crushes and Straws, in all the latest shades and patterns.

If you want the best half hose on earth, we sell the interwoven heel and toe that wear just twice as long as any ordinary hose. We have the sole right to sell this hose in Chestertown.

Yours for business,

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Miss Fannie G. Smith died at the home of her brother, Dr. Frank W. Smith, in Fairlee, early Tuesday morning, aged 26. The deceased has been a sufferer for sometime but had at all times the loving care of a mother and the tenderest attentions of sisters and brothers. She was the youngest daughter of the late S. Frank Smith, and was marked for her sunny character and cheerful spirit. She was a lover of her church and Sunday school and early in life joined the Methodist Protestant Church at Chestertown. She had a large circle of friends who deeply sympathize with the bereaved family. The funeral took place Thursday from the residence of Mrs. Hallie Kelley, sister of the deceased, High street, Chestertown, conducted by Dr. D. L. Greenfield, interment in Chester Cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. Charles S., Owen C., Frank W. Smith, brothers; Wm. A. Smith, an uncle, Ollie Estes, brother-in-law, and Fred G. Usilton. Undertaker J. E. Ferguson had charge.

Mrs. Ida D. Mason of Los Angeles, California, died May 11. She leaves four sons, Ollie, Bert, Alvin and Edwin, one sister, wife of Rev. R L. Lelie of Dallas, and three brothers, Lee C., Wm. B., and Edgar M. Ayars. She was about fifty years old at the time of her death. Converted when a child in M. E. Church Still Pond, Md., she was a devout Christian to the last, and has gone to join her sister, Mrs. Cora Lee Ball, who went to heaven from Africa about two and a half years ago. She was an unusually bright, cheery, happy woman, losing sight of her self and the weight of her own burdens in carrying the burdens of others. A more thoroughly unselfish and really self-sacrificing person than she would be hard to find. She's gone from darkness to light, from night to day, from pain to joy, from death to life, from earth to heaven.—The Methodist Record, Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Ida D, Mason, and Mrs. Cora Lee Ball were daughters of the late William Ayars of Still Pond, Kent Co., Md., whose father, Rev. James B. Ayars was one of the noted pioneers of Methodism in Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Mrs. Cora Lee Ball died February 1904, at the Mission of Quessa Malange, Angola West Africa, where she and her husband, Rev. Ball were stationed as missionaries.

Abraham Ashley, a well-known citizen of Kent, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Walter H. Stokes, Fairlee, on May 10th, aged 91. He leaves one child, Mrs. Lizzie Stokes, of near Fairlee, and five grand-children.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.

Three Stables, Carriages, Three Horses Burned on the Hill—Mr. Wood's outbuildings Destroyed.

The outbuildings and provender on the Wood farm in Piney Neck were destroyed by fire Monday night. The origin is unknown. No insurance.

Tuesday night, about midnight, fire broke out in the stables of Mr. E. S. Valliant, Church Hill, and the building together with a valuable mare owned by Mr. W. W. Chapman, of Chestertown, two other horses, three carriages, five sets of harness and several tons of hay, were burned. The Thompson and Teat stables adjoining were also destroyed. Mr. Valliant carried $250 insurance on his stable, but the other property was a total loss.

The loft had been filled with new hay the previous day and the origin of the fire is attributed to spontaneous combustion.

ENCOURAGE THE PROJECT.

Pennsylvania Railroad Officials Visit Kent and Drive About Fairlee—Extension to Tolchester Contemplated.

General Superintendent Brooks, accompanied by several other officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, visited Kent county last Friday, as stated in the NEWS. These gentlemen were met by Messrs. Harry C. Willis, John P. and Wm. T. Nicholson and others, who accompanied them in a drive to Nicholson's Station, at which point a freight train is very much desired. The railroad officials appreciate the needs of this community, but state that if they come to Nickolson's they would extend the line to Tolchester. They requested that Mr. Willis interview the owners of land over which the old route passed and find out whether they are willing to give right of way. If they are willing to aid in the enterprise then it may be possible to get the service. A number of farmers offered their lands, provided the railroad company would put up fences.

Now is the time for property owners on this route to avail themselves of a golden opportunity. It means untold benefit to the farms along the route and to the county as a whole.

A LONG DROUGHT.

Crops of all Kinds are Suffering for Rain —Record Broken.

Very little rain has fallen in Kent county since April 14th and farmers are realizing the seriousness of the present drought. Judge James S. Harris says it is the longest in his weather bureau record.

The hay crop will be short, as the season has advanced too far for it to be saved, even though copious rains should fall at once. Clover is especially suffering and will be very short as will timothy. Corn has sprouted badly for want of proper moisture and many acres are being replanted or put in tomatoes. We heard of one farmer who undertook to water his whole field of corn! The wheat yield will be cut one-fourth because of the drought.

CAPT. J. W. DOWNEY, of Rock Hall, has purchased of J. D. Urie, Esq., attorney, the schooner Sarah Wingate.

THE treasurer of the Centreville Conclave, Improved Order of Heptasophs, paid to Mrs. Edwin H. Brown recently $5,000 at the death of her husband, Judge Edwin H. Brown, who was a member of that lodge.

GRAIN KING DEAD!

Capt. Andrew Woodall, of Georgetown, Dies after a Long Illness—Leaves the Largest Landed Estate Ever Held in Kent County—Left no Will.

Capt. Andrew Woodall, of Georgetown, this county, died at his home at 3 A. M. Saturday, aged 87. The deceased had been ailing for sometime, and, although not troubled with any organic disease, finally succumbed through a complete wearing out of his physical powers. His last moments were filled with the thought of rest and frequently he looked out the window across the beautiful fields and asked to be taken home. "I want to go home," were his last words ere his spirit took its flight to that bourn from whence no traveler returns.

CAPT. WOODALL'S CAREER.

America more than any other, has reason to be proud of her sons, men who rise above the circumstances of birth and poverty, perhaps, to foremost positions of influence, usefulness and honor in a community; men who become wealthy in strictly legitimate channels of business enterprise, and are not slow to distribute their hardly won means to the worthy benevolences of our time and to the poor and suffering. In the person of the gentleman whose name stands at the head of this sketch is found one who is entitled to great credit, not only for what he has accomplished in the face of obstacles that would have daunted any man less brave and persevering than he, but for the good he has done in distributing alms.

He was born April 24, 1819, in Georgetown, Kent county, and has made his home there all his life. His father, Simon Woodall, was born on the Eastern Shore of Md., and came to this town when a young man. He bought a house and lot and continued to work at his trade of builder and carpenter until his death, which took place in 1851, at the age of 51. He was living here when the war of 1812 came on, and offered his services as a private soldier. In politics he was an old-time whig. His wife was Miss Frances Bagwell, a native of this place, who died when only 22 years old, her son Andrew, being then an infant of two years. Her elder son, Edward B., died a few years ago, aged 63, on his farm. Mrs. Woodall was a lovable woman, devoted to her husband and children, and a loyal member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The early life of the Captain was spent under his father's roof, and with him he learned the carpenter's trade. This was not to the young man's liking however, and he soon invested his earnings in a small sail-boat, and shipped grain and freight to Baltimore. The venture proved a good one, and before he was twenty the thrifty youth had made other investments, and as his trade steadily increased he built larger vessels, to the number of 13, one having a capacity of 150 tons. Perhaps fully 40 years ago he became interested in the lumber business and is still dealing in it and grain, at least was up to the day of his death. He was one of the first to handle fertilizer in this county. He sailed his boats only ten years actually, as he found his time too occupied with these enterprises to do them all justice. He has always believed in investing largely in land, and at the present time owns about 10,000 acres of land located in Kent and Cecil counties This land is valued at a half million including some of the best farms in the two counties. Among his other possessions are three schooners, one steamer and up to a short time ago owned a one-third interest in the steamer, Sassafras. Six large warehouses on the river Sassafras are owned by him and besides he was a stockholder and director in the Middletown Bank. His wealth is estimated at over a million. Though a staunch Democrat he has never held office.

In 1841 Capt. Woodall married Catherine Holt, of Georgetown, and six children came to bless the union. Emily, the eldest, is the wife of James F. M. Woodal, who is a clerk and the general manager of the Captain's large business. Catherine married Captain John Fletcher Wilson, a wealthy resident of Georgetown. James E. was in business with his father. Andrew W. is in commission business in Baltimore. Simon R. died when about 32 years of age. Sallie E. is the wife of Richard Lockwood. Mrs. Woodall the beloved wife of Capt. Woodall died in 1892. She dispensed with lavished hand to the poor and needy.

KENT'S GRAIN KING.

Of the more than thirty farms owned by Capt. Woodall, aggregating probably fifteen or eighteen thousand acres of the finest lands in the two counties, about half are located in each county.

The wheat crops on these farms this year are estimated at one hundred thousand bushels. Figuring on the same basis his corn crop is estimated at one hundred and twenty-five thousand bushels—making the enormous total of two hundred and twenty-five thousand bushels of grain grown in one year on the farms of this Kent county farmer.

That some idea may be formed of what this really means, it may be said that if all this grain were shipped by rail with the usual average of about seven hundred and fifty bushels to the car, it would repuire three hundred cars, or twenty trains of fifteen cars each to carry it to market.

Though over eighty years of age, Capt. Woodall has carried on twelve of his largest and finest farms, and gave every detail of his varied business his personal attention, being found at his Georgetown office every day, when not visiting some of his farms. On the farms which he carried on are about two hundred horses and four hundred head of fine cattle.

Much of his property is either located on either the Kent or Cecil county shore of the Sassafras river, and for greater convenience, he had a handsome naptha launch which he used to visit many of his farms. Should he desire to go to his Rick Neck farm of nine hundred acres, his Cassidy farm of seven hundred acres, his Colchester farm of six hundred acres, or his fine Knight's Island property, situated in the Sassafras, in less time than it takes to write of it, he stepped from his office and was speeding away at the rate of eight miles an hour in his launch.

Each and every one of Capt. Woodall's farms is named and was designated by its name as persistingly by him as though he were referring to a person.

As far as as possible he has shun the ownership of small farms, and in several instances has converted two small properties which have come into his possession in the course of business, into one farm, in order that this business rule of his life might be adhered to.

A MILLIONAIRE.

Capt. Woodall's wealth is largely speculative, but he is concededly the 1 millionaire of Kent county, is her largest tax-payer and one of her most highly respected citizens. Among his other possessions are several fine sailing vessels, a steamer and a one-third interest in the steamer Sassafras. Six large warehouses on the Sassafras river are owned by him, and besides is a director and stock-holder in the Middletown bank.

There has been no luck in the wonderful success of Capt. Andrew Woodall. Hard, common sense, supplemented by economy and an unwavering attention to business detail have built up his splendid fortune.

His home, though neat and thoroughly comfortable, is more than equaled by the homes of many men holding a $1200 clerkship. He has had no exemptions from storm damage, drought or other enemies which blight the crop prospects of the small land owners or tenants of the community in which he lives Hard work and close application have been the key-notes to the success of this Eastern Shore grain king.
