The open, wet weather makes the roads very bad to travel over. The stone road is alright now, only it stops too soon.

Where is the auto? He has disappeared somewhere. We will look for him about three months from now.

At the regular grange meeting on Monday night the officers were itstalled by Past Master John R. Bennett. There was a good attendance and a very interesting meeting. It was decided to call an extra meeting at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, January 6th. All the candidates that have taken the 1st and 2nd degrees are requested to be present to receive the 3rd and 4th degrees, after which refreshments will be served. The regular weekly meeting will be held on Monday night. Now, especially, is the time when the farmers can partake of the benefits of these meetings, as they can exchange their views and ways of culivating and raising their crops, their poultry and fruits.

The Rich Neck Farmers' Club, of Queen Annes county, held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baxter on Thursday of last week. The meeting was full of inspiration and interest from beginning to the end. The report of the visiting committee brought out a discussion on wild onions and how to keep asparagus patches clean. These questions were ably answered by several of the farmers. There had been a corn contest the past year between the members of the club. All of the members did not enter, yet several did and they gave a very interesting account of how they prepared the ground, selected the seed and cultivated the crop. One thing we noticed especially, was, that these Queen Annes farmers mean business. They are not only raising good crops, but they are a unit in advertising their county and its produce, and it is paying them largely to do so. They are now geting from three to five dollars a bushel for their corn-selling it for seed. But this is not all these farmers can do. When the dinner hour arrived, the host and hostess knew their guests' failing, which was a keen appetite after riding over the rough roads on a cold morning, and the tables that almost groaned under the weight of all the delicacies of the season and more too were soon wrecked by the visitors, and yet the good eatables still kept coming until the visitors gave up the battle. After dinner the business meeting was interspersed with music. Misses Nellie Othoson and Mabel Hague sang several selections very finely, which delighted the club. There also were several selections by male quartette sung by Messrs. E. R. Pennington, E. T. Othoson, J. Medders and Wm. T. Hague, which were loudly applauded by those present. While the boys did well, they forgot all about singing when they were eating that fine dinner. After spending a very interesting and enjoyable day, the club adjourned to meet again next month.
