WHAT DO OYSTERMEN THINK OF THIS.

We are in receipt of the following letter from the President of the Maryland Oystermen's Aasociation. Oystermen, let us hear what you think of it.

February 24, 1912.

Dear Sir:

The chairman of the House committee on Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries, Mr. Phillips has introduced a bill creating "The Bureau of Marine Fisheries".

Your interest in this bill is solicited because it is the most practical measure ever offered for the improvement and promotion of the State's great oyster industry.

The Baltimore Sun today states editorially that "Maryland oystermen are in great need of protection against themselves" and that "their rights must be promoted, if necessary, even against their will".

This is equivalent to saying that the oystermen are ignorant and unable to recognize their needs. Under the caption of oystermen however we wish to identify to you all who are engaged in the various branches of it, tongers, scrapers, dredgers, commission men, shuckers, packers, shippers and canners.

An immense business has come to the State through the combined operations of these men.

Will you conclude that "they do not know their needs", that "they must if necessary be protected against their own will"?

As they,—all of them—from first to last are interested in having prosperity attend their various enterprises, is it reasonable to suppose that they would be "obstructionists" simply for the fun of it? Not a bit of it, and if the history of oyster culture in Maryland were such that an immediate good would come to the industry by it, no one would be more ready than the oystermen themselves to encourage it.

But the truth of the matter is that oyster culture is a theory. It will when applied, be at most an experiment while the promotion of the natural rocks as contemplated under the Marine Fisheries Bill will bring about immediate results to revive a declining industry.

This is essentially an oystermen's bill and the first really constructive measure ever introduced in the Maryland Legislature in the interest of the oystermen and the product of their own conclusions, based upon experience and no man can dispute that the hard knocks of actual practical business are better experience than are the theoretical propositions advanced by scientists and writers.

No appropriation is asked of the State. No monies will have to be provided from the State's treasury to put the intent of this bill into practice. It will support itself and replenish the oyster resources from the revenues provided by the industry itself. Its operations will be economical because its purposes to have the supervision of practical experienced men from among those in the industry to serve without pay, actuated solely from a broad sense of public duty and the natural pride of bringing about a prosperous industry for all.

Maryland's great oyster industry can recover and thrive beyond the fondest hopes of the most optomistic if this bill is passed and these practical business methods applied to the conservation of her greatest natural resource—the oyster. Please familiarize yourself with the provisions of this bill and give it your support.

The Maryland Oyster Association,
W. H. KILLIAN, President.

TAFT TO ADDRESS CONFERENCE.

Expects To Speak To Methodist Protestants May 20 In Baltimore.

President Taft, following a conference with the committee in charge of arranging for the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, to be held in Baltimore May 17, on Monday assured the members he would be present and deliver an address at a mass meeting to be held in the Lyric on May 20.

The committee, which consisted of Rev. Dr. James H. Straughn, Rev. Dr. John S. Bowers, Rev. Dr. George W. Haddaway and Mr. William G. Baker, Jr., met the president by appointment at noon. It was explained to him that delegates from 36 States in the Union would be present at this conference, which would last for two weeks or more, and that they represented some hundreds of thousands of constituents.

The conference with the exception of this one meeting will be held in St. John's Methodist Protestant Church, Baltimore.
