In the above statement charged to use of pump house is one item of $215.34 which was for material furnished in 1911, but no bill was presented until 1912, deducting this from the amount charged pump house and we have the sum of $1,756.57, which is the amount actually expended in 1912 for use at pump house, as all invoices for the year are in.

We have examined the books of the Superintendent and Treasurer, and find that the above is a true statement of the condition of the water department as shown by them.

A TRIBUTE.

Just a few statements in review of a life "whose sun went down while it was yet day."

Having known Mr. Will Kennedy for thirty-two years, I feel few understood him better and knew his sterling qualities more keenly.

Will Kennedy was born in Kent county, near Kennedyville. He received his education at the Kennedyville school, after which he graduated at "St. John's College," Annapolis, Md. Among his class-mates were: Hope H. Barroll, of Chestertown; Mayor Harry Preston, of Baltimore, and others, for whom he held a sincere love all through his career. At college he was quite an athlete, and was always in the lead at sports. He was tall, broad and considered a perfect type of manhood. He was socially inclined, and a general favorite with old and young. When nineteen, he taught school at Lambson's for one year. This was in 1880-81, but went to Philadelphia in '81.

Will Kennedy early knew the world, and being far-sighted in mind, he determined to master his undertaking. He went to Baltimore in the fall of '81 and entered the butter and egg business, employed by A. A. Kennard & Co. I have heard his employers speak in the most exalting terms of his honesty, integrity and capabilities as a business man. From A. A. Kennard & Co. he went with G. M. Lamb & Bro., whose confidence he retained until the death of that good old Quaker merchant. Mr. Lamb seeing his ability for a wider sphere, gave him up, reluctantly to that mecca for business—New York. Here he went in 1895, I think, and entered the firm of G. R. Reed & Co. He remained with this old, reliable firm until 1906, and forseeing the end, severed his connections with Reed & Co., and was sought after by several strong firms in New York at a high figure. He was impressed with a millionare "Ezra" in the butter and egg business, and was connected with his house for one year. He did not hit it off in business lines so well as he imagined, hence severed his connections with the firm after one year. Then entered the firm of Eggbert & Case in 1907. It was with this firm he remained. He was a member of the N. Y. exchange, and I have seen him on the floor of the Board of Trade, surrounded by old, gray-haired men, looking to his keen judgment and quick sense in fixing the market on butter and eggs.

Will Kennedy lost his mother at an early age, but his reverence for her was beautiful. He was the most dutiful of sons, even to his step-mother he was more than good. He had a heart as large as his body, and was always the center of a large circle of friends. He may not have lived according to the standard of some, but let his faults be as they may, his virtues were in the majority. He was generous to a fault, liberal, and while he lived at the top of the ladder, I have heard him say, "I work for it, and have made every step by myself."

He had not been well for two years, but never lost one day from his post. He has laid it down and gone to his eternal rest. And a noble, unselfish life has "crossed the bar."

ONE WHO KNEW HIM.

Tomato Growers Firm.

A meeting of the tomato growers of Queen Annes was held in Centreville last week, when nearly 200 farmers from all parts of the county attended. These farmers decided that no tomatoes should be grown for the county canneries at a rate less than 16⅔ cents a bushel basket.

Following a general discussion of the tomato problem, a committee from each district in the county was named to make an examination of conditions.

The committees named are as follows:

First District—Dudley G. Roe, J Bruce Massey and Charles M. Lloyd.

Second—Medford Walls, Oliver C. Newnam and J. Thomas Smith.

Third—William McKenney, John M. Perry and Mordecal M. Price.

Fourth—William E. Denney, Bernard White and Carville Tolson.

Fifth—Tilghman Davidson, William A. McClyment and W. E. Faulkner.

Sixth—Zell C. Boyce, William V. Hollingsworth and William J. Embert.

Seventh—H. H. Klinefelter, John C. Smith and Cooper Tarbutton.

On Saturday a large number of farmers from various parts of the county met with the Still Pond Grange, and after a thorough discussion of the tomato question it was decided to adopt the same price asked by the Queen Annes farmers. Steps were also taken by the farmers to secure a hard and fast agreement with all the growers in the county to adhere to the price settled on at the meeting.

In response to a public call for a meeting of the growers of tomatoes at Buck Neck about fifty farmers gathered at the grange hall at Fairlee on Monday, Feb. 10th, and after discussing the matter thoroughly unaminously adopted a resolution not to grow tomatoes for a less price than they received last year, and placed the matter of disposing of between five and six hundred acres, in the hands of a committee, composed of the following: Wm. T. Nicholson, J. L. Deputy, E. A. Corey, H. C. Willis, H. T. Rash and Wm. G. Smyth.

When a man is nearly frozen from a ten mile drive on a cold winter day, he will hardly stop to read a plank advertisement. But at his home in his big chair with his legs crossed before a cheerful fire he reads his local paper, and while he is feeling good and has plenty of time, picks out the live business men in the town from the advertisements in the paper and makes up his mind where he will trade on his next trip to town.—Ex.

Communicated.

DEAR EDITORS:—Since reading the joyful news of so many souls being brought home to God during the revival work at my old home in both churches, I thought I would drop you a few lines and let you know what has been done here. Although this town is but one-third as large as Chestertown, I will say that we have had a powerful meeting. Where our church here has been spiritually dead, it is now alive. In twenty-two nights we have had ninety-five conversions and about eighty-nine of the converts joined our church. The rest joined other churches. From now on until conference we will devote two nights a week to the evangalistic work. Although five preachers from the adjacent villages and towns were here and talked for us, we had no evangalist but the Holy Spirit. Our members and members of the other churches stood by Bro. Gray every night, and I praise God to say that our young converts worked hard and diligently in making the meeting successful. Owing to the meetings our Sunday school has been increased wonderfully in attendance and interest. Last Sunday we had a larger attendance than we have had (that I know of) for nine months. I pray that God's holy spirit may continue to be poured out, both in Chestertown and this town, and many, many more souls may yet come to God.

I beg to remain

Yours in Christ,
GEO. B. TWILLEY,
Princess Anne, Md.

The Way They do it Out West.

The following clipping from the Davenport (Iowa) Democrat of Monday of last week will prove of interest to Kent and Queen Anne's countians:

A charmingly appointed tea of this afternoon was that given by Mrs. Chas. W. Boggs and Mrs. David H. McKee at the Davenport Outing club where the ladies had between 70 and 80 tri-city friends as their guests.

Receiving with the hostesses was Mrs. James B. Easton, of Waterloo, Ia., the sister of Mrs. McKee. The south parlor was used as a reception room, a large wicker basket filled with pink Killarney roses, its high handle tied with pink tulle bows ornamented the table, while the mantle formed an effective background for the receiving party, festooned with a profusion of the wild southern smilax.

Mrs. Boggs was in a black spangled net with white lace; Mrs. Mckee wore a gown of Black charmeuse with lace, and Mrs. Easton was in white crepe de chien with black chantilly lace and touches of pink in the trimming.

It was a pink tea the delicate rose shades prevailing in all the dainty appointments, baskets of pink tulips being used in the library and on the dining room tables, while details of decoration were in the pink Killarney rose colors.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. R. J. Clausen, Mrs. H. K. Spencer, Mrs. W. E. Spencer, Mrs. William T. Waterman and Mrs. Jules Kerker.
