BARNUM AND JENNY LIND.

How the Great Showman Secured the "Swedish Nightingale."

The site of Iranistan, with its Moorish towers and minarets, was engraved upon the letterheads of P. T. Barnum and was the one thing which attracted Jenny Lind when he wrote seeking to engage her for an American tour. In fact, she confessed that it was this picture that determined her coming to America.

Jenny Lind contracted to come to America in 1849, the "Swedish Nightingale" agreeing to sing at 150 concerts for $25,000, all traveling expenses paid. After she arrived in America Jenny Lind asked Mr. Barnum when and where he had heard her sing, and upon receiving the answer that he had never had the pleasure of seeing her before in his life, she asked, "How did you risk so much money on a person whom you never heard sing?"

"I risked it," gallantly answered Mr. Barnum, "on your angelic character and reputation, feeling that you would please the American public."

Then began a campaign of advertising to prepare the people for the appearance of Jenny Lind. Two hundred dollars was offered as a prize for an ode entitled "A Greeting to America," to be sung by Jenny Lind, and the award was won by Bayard Taylor. No singer who has ever appeared in the country has secured more enthusiastic welcome than Jenny Lind, all because of the genius of P. T. Barnum.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

SPIRIT AND DRUG TAKERS.

Physical and Psychic Changes That Grow With the Habit.

Two marked changes are noted in all spirit and drug takers. One of them is physical and is noted by changes in the face, eyes, tone of voice, manner of walking and general expression and control. The heart is irritable and deranged in its action. There are muscular feebleness, nutrient disturbances, with insomnia, and unusual emotional excitement or depression. The general health, conduct and appearance, as well as capacity, of the person are changed.

A second change of symptoms noted is the psychic one. The person is bold, assertive, egotistical or the opposite. His former manner of hopefulness or depression is altered. Where he was frank before, he is now secretive, untruthful, unreasoning, has little respect for his words and statements, incurs obligations, asserts or denies emphatically matters of no consequence. His general appearance and pride of character are lowered.

These symptoms may be unnoticed in the early stages, but later they are prominent. Both the physical and psychic are intimately associated with each other, yet from the very beginning there may be marked differences in the prominence and intensity of either one or the other, indicating the direction of the most active degeneration.—Dr. T. D. Crothers in Alienist and Neurologist.

The Elephant's Palate.

An elephant's palate is very delicate and the animal is whimsical in selecting or rejecting morsels of food. A writer tells of an incident humorously illustrative of the whims of a tame elephant belonging to the police of Dhurbri. This elephant was fed with rice and plantains. The stems of the plantains were split and cut into transverse sections two feet in length. Three-quarters of a pound of rice was placed within each tube of plantain stem. One day while the elephant was being fed some one offered it a small sweet biscuit. It was taken in the trunk and almost immediately thrown on the ground. The mahout, thinking that the elephant had behaved rudely picked up the biscuit and inserted it in a parcel of rice within a plantain stem. This was placed in the beast's mouth, and at the very first crunch it showed its disgust by refusing the whole mess. The small biscuit had disgusted the animal, and for several minutes it tried by its inserted trunk to rake out every atom from its tongue and throat.—Harper's Weekly.

How Japan Greets the New Year.

In Japan the new year is welcomed with far more energy than in this country. Let a man's energy be ever so defective, he is expected to rise at 4 a. m. and don new clothes to meet the auspicious morning. Then, with his gala garments in due order, he worships the gods, performs obeisance to the spirits of his ancestors and pays homage to all relations older than himself. No ordinary viands are consumed at breakfast. The tea must be made from water drawn from the well as the first ray of the new year's sun strikes it. On every table figures a red lacquer tray covered with evergreen leaves and supporting a rice dumpling, a lobster, oranges, persimmons, chestnuts, dried sardines and herring root, all these dishes possessing an allegorical signification. This meal is the start of the festivities which are continued for sixteen days, business being almost entirely suspended for the first week of the year.—Chicago News.

Six Hits With No Runs.

Baseball has some funny freaks, but none ever beat one which a writer recalls happened in a game in Indiana on May 30, 1890, when the Anderson club got three triplets, a double and two singles in one inning, and yet they didn't score. Ireland, the first batter, hit for a triple and tried to score on a short passed ball, but was tagged out. Wiswell, the next batter, hit for what looked like a home run, but was caught at the plate by a good return. Shumway, the next batter, tripled. The next batter, Derby, bunted, and while the third baseman was waiting for the ball to go foul the batter made second, thus giving him two bases. Faatz also bunted and was safe, as Shumway on third was held from scoring. This made five hits, and the sixth came when Fear hit a liner to right, the ball hitting Faatz on the way to second, thus retiring the side.
